DISLOYAL ACTS TO BE DEALT WITH SEVERELY

FROM NOW ON STRICTER SURVEILLANCE KEPT

Department of Justice Is Prepared to Deal Quickly and Effectively With Those Whose Acts and Utterances Smack of Disloyalty—"Soap Box" Orators and Others now Under Suspicion to Be Watched Carefully.

The national seizure by the government of the documents of the Industrial Workers of the World yesterday is said by those high in authority to be but the first step in a vigorous campaign which the department of justice is prepared to conduct against disloyalty and sedition wherever they show themselves.

From now on all organizations and individuals whose utterances and activities have given grounds for suspicions of disloyalty, will be under stricter surveillance than ever before. The so-called soap box orator of the large cities, writers and publishers, some of which are connected with German language newspapers, will be dealt with soon, it is declared.

ADAMS MOVE FOR SALE OF MARES WELL RECEIVED

GOVERNOR AND SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN WILL HELP

Government Officials to Co-Operate With Prominent Klamath Stockman In Effort to Promote Sale of Mares—Move Is Declared to Be One of Great Merit by Other Horsemen Here—Lack of Market Injuring Business.

That beneficial results may follow the move recently initiated by J. Frank Adams to induce the government to purchase mares for army purposes, is indicated by replies received on the subject from prominent officials.

As previously outlined, the announced policy of the government to buy no mares for army use lest it deplete the stock of horses in the country, has been vigorously opposed by Mr. Adams, who points out that there is enough young stock now coming on and old mares too old to work, for these purposes, that the ranges are now overstocked, and that the lack of market is now causing many breeders to go out of business.

If all the salable horses or a substantial number of them could be marketed, it would be an incentive to keep up the business. Mr. Adams, who believes he has the largest band of broke horses now in Oregon, has done no breeding this year on account of the prevailing conditions. His recent move has been highly endorsed by prominent stockmen all over this section who have come forward with opinions along the same line.

It is very discouraging to gather at great expense a large band of good horses and have them rejected by army buyers on some imaginary defect, as has been the case in many times in the past, say the Klamath horsemen.

Two of the letters received by Mr. Adams, one from Governor Withycombe and one from Senator George Chamberlain, follow.

"My Dear Mr. Adams: "Have your very interesting letter, and note carefully what you say. It is my understanding that the govern-

COLORADO PAPER PRAISES KLAMATH

Boulder News-Herald Comments Editorially on Enterprise of Klamath Falls. Credits Strahorn for Work Done Back There

The following article taken from the Boulder News-Herald of Boulder, Colo., shows how the enterprise of our local citizens is appreciated in other districts. Mr. Strahorn's work as a newspaper man in Colorado also comes in for favorable comment.

"A friend has received a recent issue of the Klamath Falls, Ore., Herald, giving an extended account of the big celebration upon the breaking of ground and driving a silver spike for the building of a municipal railroad from that city to Sprague River to a connection with the Oregon, California & Eastern and branches, known as the great Strahorn railway system. "The enterprise of the little city of Klamath Falls, of 5,000 population, is worthy of the emulation of Boulder. The citizens desired a connection with the railroads of Southern Oregon, and to show their good faith contracted with Mr. Strahorn to build it, donating to him the sum of $300,000 and needed rights of way. As an index of their enterprise they have built a $250,000 hotel, a $45,000 passenger depot, a $25,000 Carnegie library, a $50,000 city hall, a $50,000 Elks' home, more than five miles of asphalt street, an electric lighting system, city water works and a telephone system. The city has two substantial banks, excellent school buildings, including one for the high school, five sawmills, four box factories, several churches, a fire department, etc.

By the way, Robert E. Strahorn, the moving factor in these great enterprises, was formerly a newspaper man in this state, whose writings and publications in book form added his "bit" to the glorifying of Colorado, its business attractions and glorious scenery.

Pittsburgh Boy Lost Life on German U-Boat

Fred Stephen Jacobs of Pittsburg, gunner on the American tank steamer Campana, was taken aboard the German submarine U-2 with five members of the crew of the vessel when the U-2 sank the Campana. A few hours later a French patrol boat caught up with the U-2 and meted out the same treatment as had been accorded the tanker. All aboard the U boat, captives and crew, lost their lives.

Jacobs enlisted in the navy on July 6, 1915. He was detailed as gunner aboard the Campana when war was declared and had made several trips across the Atlantic on the vessel before it was added to the list of U boat victims.

RETREAT OF RUSSIANS MADE DIFFICULT

Gunns of Enemy Shell Rear Guards of Russians as They Proceed Northward Across Narrow Neck of Land. Believed that No Immediate Danger Threatens City of Petrograd at Present.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 6.—It is semi-officially announced that the German fleet has appeared at the Gulf of Riga.

The retreat of the Russians from Riga over the neck of land a mile and a half wide between Lake Kish and Lake Egel is being accomplished with the greatest difficulty, as the enemy is constantly shelling the rear guards.

On Tuesday the Germans are reported to have energetically pushed the advance particularly north of Arkoff, to cut off the Riga-Venena railway.

General Romanofsky, chief of staff, believes that Petrograd is in no imminent danger, because the near approach of the rainy season will prevent the enemy from advancing far toward the capital.

It is believed that the Germans hope to secure a coup at Revel, northwest of the Gulf of Riga, by bottling up the Russian fleet.

ment does not intend to purchase many horses, hence I certainly would be heartily in favor of taking a certain portion of mares.

"I have read your interesting letter to Senator Chamberlain, and feel sure this will have a good effect. If there is anything I can do to aid this movement, kindly advise me.

"I am, with best regards, respectfully yours,

"JAMES WITHYCOMBE, Governor."

"My Dear Frank:

"I am in receipt of your favor of the 18th instant, enclosing a copy of your letter to the governor of the state, both having reference to the purchase of mares by the United States for army purposes, following the course hitherto followed by our allies in this war. I will be glad to take the subject matter of your letter up with the quartermaster, and beg that he will give your suggestions as a breeder of horses that cordial consideration to which they are entitled. There is much force in what you say, and I would like to see your suggestions carried out.

"I trust you are well, and will be glad to have you remember me very kindly to the members of your family. With kindest personal regards, I am, yours very sincerely,

Former Klamath Boy Wounded In Trenches

Boston Reese, a Klamath County boy about 25 years of age, whose parents live on a ranch in the Spring Lake district, is the first of the home boys to be seriously wounded in the trenches in France.

A telegram sent August 10th, telling of his serious injuries in an engagement on that date, has just been received by them, and they are making every effort to get more tidings from him. The message said that he was wounded both in the head and in the hips, and that there were doubts of his recovery. It indicated that another message would be sent telling of his condition, but no other news has reached them.

Mr. Reese left Klamath Falls about five years ago, and later enlisted in a Canadian regiment. He has a sister, Mrs. John Manning, also living near Spring Lake.
