

Move to Keep Records of Oregon Soldiers

PORTLAND, Sept. 21.—Mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts of Oregon soldiers and sailors are urged in bulletins mailed today by the State Council of Defense, to organize and co-operate with county defense leagues in keeping complete records of Oregon men while away at war.

The record should give, the bulletin says, the addresses of the men, the ranks they hold, the battles and marches engaged in, the armies and ships of which they are a part, and all such information which will afford facts for a history of the men during the war.

County defense leagues are urged in the bulletin to correct the false impressions which the state council says has been industriously circulated among the people by German agents that the drafted men will be sent immediately into the trenches of France and exposed to the worse possible horrors and practically certain death.

"The facts are that the men engaged in this war are not exposed to anything like the hardships or dangers and the casualties are not so great as in the American Civil War," the bulletin continues.

TAKES POSITION AT FIRST NATIONAL BANK

E. S. Veatch, for some months past employed in the office of the Algoma Lumber company, has now become identified with the First National bank in the capacity of receiving teller, and has already assumed his new duties.

Mr. Veatch has had considerable previous banking experience in Grants Pass, where he resided before coming to Klamath.

Fighting Airships Given Overhauling At Night

Hangers Are Busy Places During the Hours of Night When the Air Steeds of War Are Tested Carefully and Kept in Shape for Strenuous Service

BEHIND THE BRITISH LINES IN FRANCE, Aug. 27.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Night, as well as day, is full of work and hustle at an army aerodrome. Night flights are not frequent, but the night is the time when the mechanics are busiest, putting everything right for whatever tomorrow may bring forth.

Long after the sun has sunk beneath the tops of the hangars and the trees have changed from green to black, the hard-worked airplanes drift homeward, crossing the evening sky like black specks on a purple cloth and landing with a deep droning on the clipped grass, lame and weary from a long afternoon's work over the lines.

Their day's work is finished; reports are handed in, and the pilots saunter down to their mess tent among the trees. The mechanics appear, wheel the machines into their respective hangars, and the night's work is begun.

It is seventeen miles to the shell-holes of No Man's Land, and all the horrors of war. The long white road, thick with dust of transport, is silent. The flat aerodrome is in darkness, but the hangars, looming black against the evening sky, are bright within. There is much to be done. Masses of wires must be overhauled; many must be replaced or tautened. The enemy anti-aircraft artillery has been active and some of the planes bear witness of its work. The canvas wings of one machine are riddled, and need long and patient attention before it will be fit for service again. On another the flying struts must be renewed. On another, the wings are out of shape, the result of straining manoeuvres in aerobatic fighting.

The whole means a hard seven-hours' work for the entire staff of mechanics. They settle down to it as a matter of routine. Every time a machine comes back from the lines it has to be overhauled, perhaps dismantled. New gadgets must be fitted, the engines repaired and cleaned. Air planes are, after all, very delicate pieces of mechanism, and need continual attention. Without it they are useless, even dangerous. The accuracy of hundreds of measurements, the trustworthiness of hundreds of parts, are essential to good flying and reliability, and just as much depends on these factors as on the skill of the pilot.

The airplane mechanic doesn't share the dangers of the field or the hardships of the infantryman or artilleryman, but he has endless work, and a very heavy responsibility. When there is heavy air fighting he must frequently work all day and all night, and we betide the pilot if he should skimp any of his work. Upon his shoulders rests the strength of the squadron and its efficiency.

The officer in charge of the aerodrome during the night hours is known as "orderly officer." Warmly clad, to keep out the chills of the night, he walks around the busy sheds and hangars, now and then offering a word of advice or encouragement, but always with an ear for the telephone bell, for at any moment orders may come thru for night bombing or the warding off of some hostile aircraft. Such orders are very rare, but everything is ready for them when they come.

The work in the hangars is so arranged that the steeds appointed for the next day's work shall be ready an hour before dawn. As the first rays of the sun light up the aerodrome the machines are wheeled out on the "Tarmac," oiled and attuned for the morning's flight.

GIRLS! MAKE A BEAUTY LOTION WITH LEMONS

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quarter pint of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it fully into the face, neck, arms and hands. It should naturally help to whiten, soften, freshen, and bring out the roses and beauty of your skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough, red hands.—Adv.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons, sucked into the blood through the lymph ducts, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to aspirin, or the bromides which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drunk before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if your tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphate hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons. Results are quick and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning, never have any headache or know a miserable moment.—Adv.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

DARKENS BEAUTIFULLY AND RESTORES ITS NATURAL COLOR AND LUSTRE AT ONCE

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready to use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it is done so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes dark, glossy, soft, and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.
