M. A. Miller Explains Internal Revenue Act

Single Men Are Taxed on Incomes Above $1,000. Married Men's Tax Begins on Incomes Over $2,000. Additional Taxes on Cigars and Tobacco

PORTLAND, Oct. 9.—The income tax law in the revenue act passed last Wednesday, will operate identically as in the past, save the change in income exemptions. The only sections of the new act that are now in effect are those relating to additional taxes on cigars, tobacco and various other kinds of articles.

In a statement issued Saturday afternoon, M. A. Miller, collector of internal revenue, explains the situation, calling attention to the fact that a press dispatch from Washington was misleading, giving the impression that the income tax provisions were now in effect and that persons should make returns immediately.

The changes in the income exemptions are understood to be from $2,000 to $1,000 in the case of unmarried men, and from $4,000 to $3,000 in the case of married men, and that a graduated surtax will be in effect in cases where the income is $5,000 and over.

It is also the understanding that the new act provides for the same rate as in the old law, which was 2 per cent in the case of the $1,000 and $3,000 exemptions, the tax to be figured on all over those amounts.

Mr. Miller's statement is as follows: "The local office has not yet received complete copies of the new act, and has been advised by telegraph only as to those sections that are immediately effective. "These include the additional taxes on cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, alcohol, chewing gum, perfumes, extracts, toilet waters, cosmetics, etc., pills, tablets, liniments, ointments, etc., prepared syrups, extracts, unfermented grape juice, natural mineral and table waters, carbonic acid gas, moving picture films, automobiles, piano players, phonographs, and records for the same, jewelry, real or imitation, cameras, tennis rackets and other sporting goods. "Every manufacturer, producer and dealer, whether wholesale or retail, who had in stock any cigars, tobacco, snuff, cigarettes and cigarette papers, is obliged to take an inventory thereof as of October 4, 1917, and pay the additional tax thereon within thirty days after the date of the passage of the act (October 3, 1917). These inventories, however, are not to be submitted until printed forms are furnished by the department for the purpose, and these will, no doubt, be ready for distribution very shortly, but they must show the stock actually on hand the date the law went into effect, and the additional tax will be payable on that stock. "As to the other items of merchandise enumerated in the foregoing schedule, retail dealers are not required to make a return showing the stock they have on hand, but all wholesale dealers, jobbers, manufacturers and producers must do so, showing their stock as of October 4, 1917, and paying the tax within thirty days. Or by filing a bond guaranteeing the payment an extension of six months from November 2, 1917, will be granted.

"The local office is without advice as to the income tax provisions of the new act, from which it is conclusive that returns by taxpayers are not required at this time. Obviously, a return for income cannot be made until after the close of the year, and I am sure that no one affected by this tax will be required to make a return until after December 31, 1917. Under all the old income tax laws, returns from individuals must be filed on or before March 1st each year, and it is reasonable to assume that the same regulation will apply under the new act. Many persons have already called in person and by telephone for blanks upon which to submit their income returns on the assumption that they must be filed at once. I shall be glad to keep the taxpayers informed in this connection by releasing them from the press from time to time such data as will be of interest to them."

OLENE RANCHER IN FISTIC MIXUP

R. E. BRADBURY ALLEGES THAT HE ATTACKED JOHN MCCLURE FOLLOWING THREATS AGAINST HIS LIFE

Alleging that he acted in self defense, in a melee following a business altercation, R. E. Bradbury, a prominent rancher, was this morning arraigned before Justice of the Peace E. W. Gowan, on a charge of assault battery. The trouble is reported to have taken place on the Bradbury place near Olene. Bradbury maintains that McClure has on previous occasions threatened his life, and that he attacked McClure on what he believed to be a move on the part of the latter to draw a weapon. He asked for further time to prepare his defense, and was released on his own recognizance.
