COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

DARKENS BEAUTIFULLY AND RESTORES ITS NATURAL COLOR AND LUSTRE AT ONCE

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready to use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it is done so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes dark, glossy, soft, and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

German Troops Are Becoming Insubordinate

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 1.—(Correspondence Associated Press)—Evidence that the German commanders are well aware that the German army is deteriorating and that they have to keep it together by terrifying their troops is given in a letter written by an officer of a Liverpool regiment to one of the local newspapers. Expressing his opinion that the "collapse of Germany will come soon," he added: "The best cure for pessimism would be a few days in the front line trenches. There are no pessimists here except among the German prisoners."

"The last time our battalion was in action we took quite a number of prisoners, and they were a dismal lot. One non-commissioned officer with whom I spoke told me that large numbers of the Germans simply will not face our fire, but refuse to attack. His own company had been under fire for nearly five days, and at last they had signed a round robin to the company commander to say that they could not stay any longer. Two of the ring leaders were arrested with the idea of making an example of them, but their comrades demanded their release with such energy that the officers had to give way. Later on the men repeated their demand to be taken out of the front line. The officers ordered them back to duty, but the men refused. The officer threatened the soldiers, who replied by killing all but four of the officers and marching over to the British lines to surrender."

"When this particular battalion was moved up against the British the men had to be bullied into fighting by being sent into action in front of a moving barrage, which meant certain death to all who lagged behind. "On another occasion recently, our Liverpool regiment had a fierce fight which ended up with a strange experience. We had heavily engaged and driven off in panic some Germans who had been holding a strong position. Moving on to the next objective another party of the enemy appeared. We felt certain that we were in for a rough experience, but the truth was that this bunch wanted to surrender badly, and they had made a pretense of advancing to a counter attack with the object of getting near enough to us to be sure of protection from their own officers."

"When the German command found out what had happened, they sent forward a great body of reserves with order to recapture our prisoners. Heavy gunfire rained on us, of which the prisoners got a good share. They begged us hard to save them, and we did all we could. But at one stage we were nearly caught, when the enemy suddenly turned on a party of liquid fire experts. Fortunately we were alert and charged at once, capturing the whole liquid fire outfit. There ensued a terrible row between the earlier prisoners and the men we had taken with the liquid fire outfit. The first prisoners wanted to kill the liquid fire men. We had our hands full getting them all back."

Bank Notes to Replace Gold Coin

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Federal reserve notes and other forms of currency are going to take the place of the gold piece as a Christmas gift to a great extent this year, officials of the Federal Reserve bank announced here today. There will be more gold in the country than there ever was before on account of the fact that it cannot be exported, these officials state, but the banks are making every effort to substitute treasury notes for gold, as the general circulation of the latter is declared to be "uneconomic and unsatisfactory in many ways."

Banks thruout the Northwest are declared to have entered with pronounced zeal into the campaign for a greater gold reserve. Financial institutions all over the country are meeting with a hearty response in the call for a more general circulation of paper currency. This campaign, according to the reserve bank officials here, is bound to have its effect on the practice of giving gold coins during the holidays.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The British army in Palestine, which is now pursuing the Turks, has made further progress, and has now reached a point three miles from Jaffa.

SEAL MEAT IS NOW PROPOSED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—With whale meat already an article of diet in this country, and shark meat being eaten abroad, the meat of the seal is now in line for general consumption as a food conservation measure, according to local officials of the United States bureau of fisheries.

Seal meat is said to be one of the food staples of the natives of various South Pacific Islands. The meat is also served regularly to government employees on the St. Paul and St. George Islands of Alaska.

The fisheries bureau will establish an experimental station on one of the Pacific Islands, where seal will be canned, smoked and salted.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

IF YOUR BACK HURTS OF BLADDER BOTHERS YOU, DRINK LOTS OF WATER

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get sore and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

Lake Steamer Cut in Two for Passage Through Welland Canal

Great lake steamers, so large they cannot be sent thru the short locks of the Welland canal, are being cut in two at the shipyards of the American Shipbuilding company at Cleveland. The demand for these vessels for trans-Atlantic shipping is so great they must be used. They are cut in two by acetylene gas and the halves sealed up so they will float. This photograph shows the bow end of the North Wind, the stern end having already been taken thru the canal. The ship was sent on down the St. Lawrence to Montreal, where it was temporarily placed together, and then sent on to a shipyard on the Atlantic coast, where the vessel was restored to her former proportions and shape.
