SOLDIERS LAST NOTE RECEIVED

BOTTLE IS FOUND NEAR CAPE MAY RECENTLY WITH BOY'S FAREWELL MESSAGE TO HIS PARENTS IN MONTANA

MISSOULA, Mont., March 19.—A farewell message, written from a former resident of this city, when the steamer Cosmo, upon which he was enroute to France as a soldier, was sinking after having been torpedoed in the submarine zone last August, has just arrived here, where the boy believed his mother lived.

It was picked up in a bottle by a coast guard near Cape May, N. J., recently, and sent to the postmaster here. It reads:

"Dear Folks—Should this note reach you, you will know that in my death my thoughts were of home and you. I am dropping this note overboard while the ship is slowly settling in the water. Forgive me for the sins I have committed, mother. Your loving son, Gussie Furree, Butte, Montana. Furree enlisted here in the United States army last summer.
