development. Three substantial brick blocks now in course of construction on Main street, in addition to one completed since last September, a dozen or more fine new residence homes, together with a very considerable group of smaller cottages, show the enterprise of the residents.

The new municipal railroad is going ahead with remarkable speed, considering the various handicaps that have presented themselves since the outbreak of the war.

The growth now underway here is not in any sense a boom growth, but the steady development due to the fast opening resources of the country behind it. The rate of progress is of course impeded to a considerable extent by the damper of the war, but once this handicap is removed the district will advance at a pace which will astonish the most optimistic.
