The German Socialist Leader

PHILIP SCHEIDEMANN

Philip Scheidemann, German socialist leader, has become one of the very prominent figures in the government. Heretofore he has agreed with the government, or made merely formal objection to its policies.

WITHYCOMBE ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

only in state expenditure should be observed.
 We have state problems of great magnitude to be worked out—for the increase of desirable population; for the encouragement of manufacturing enterprises; for the enlargement of stocks and herds of the best breeds; for the eradication of fruit pests and other destructive agencies in orchard and farm; for the general encouragement of productiveness in all lines of endeavor; for the careful, intelligent handling of the several state institutions and their wards, observing as far as possible the best lines of modern treatment while at the same time securing for these and for every department of state business the closest possible economy.
 Domestic tranquility and business confidence are intimately related to the public welfare. I shall do all in my power to promote them. I note with pleasure the growing disposition of employers and employes to consider each other's rights, and to adjust differences by discussion in a spirit of fairness and equity.

The routine duties of the office will not be neglected by me, but every effort will be put forth to bring each branch of the state service to a condition of maximum usefulness. The efficiency of the service must never be sacrificed for the sake of political advantage.

I shall be mindful of the fact that I am the representative of the whole people, and shall welcome suggestions from any citizen to the end that the collective wisdom may be brought to bear on all problems.

If honored by a re-election, I shall continue to give the best that is in me to every branch of the public service.

The U. S. Government Asks You to Buy

War Saving Stamps

BEGINNING TODAY WITH AT LEAST ONE THRIFT STAMP. THE OBJECT OF THEIR SALE IS SOMETHING FAR MORE IMPORTANT THAN THE RAISING OF THE MONEY INVOLVED IN THIS ISSUE.

Conservation of Necessities. That Is The Motive

The Government must have the right of way in obtaining what is needed for the effective prosecution of the war. And that is possible only when the people reduce their consumption of the articles needed by the Government. If, instead of spending money as freely as you feel that you can afford, you curtail your daily expenditures and invest the money so saved in War Saving Stamps, it naturally follows that there will be less waste of the products now so sadly needed by the men who are fighting for our liberty.

War Saving Stamps pay 4 per cent interest

Compounded Quarterly, and they are non-shrinkable—the market conditions cannot affect them

Start buying Thrift Stamps today—start with the firm determination of finishing at least one book of them (10) in time to convert into a War Saving Stamp by March 30—on which date we hope to again show the nation that Klamath Falls knows how.
