"The Barrier"

"The Barrier," the photodrama of Rex Beach's famous novel by the same name, comes to the Star theater, commencing Wednesday, May 1st. This picture has been heralded as one of the greatest dramas that has ever

REX BEACH,
AUTHOR OF
"THE BARRIER"

been on the screen. At the Broadway theater, New York, it scored a tremendous hit, and has since broken attendance records everywhere it has been shown.

It will be recalled that the story is of the love of Necia, a white girl, who thinks she is a half-breed, for Lieutenant Meade Burrell, a blue-blooded Southerner from Kentucky. The Indian blood is the barrier between them, and the strong situations which lead up to Burrell's decision to marry her in spite of everything provide tremendous dramatic material.

"Poleon Doret is a French Canadian prospector who has been Necia's idol from childhood. He loves her deeply, but gives her up to Burrell with a smile. Of this part of the plot "Moving Picture World" has said: "Here we have strong contrasts in character, but above everything is 'the greatest of these'—renunciation."

Mabel Julienne Scott plays the leading part, doing "Merridy" in the prologue, and "Necia" Russell Simpson as John Gaylord, who "ain't much to look at," plays the simple, straightforward old man. Other members of the cast are Victor Sutherland, who does Burrell; Howard Hall as Bennett, and Ed Roseman as Runyon, share the heavy honors. A special score composed by Fred O. Hanks and Sol Levy will accompany "The Barrier," which is being presented thruout the country under the control of Lewis J. Selznick.

Ask Chilcote to show you that four-room modern bungalow in the heart of the city, only one block from Main street. You should not overlook this opportunity. Price $2,150, on easy terms. 19

"When a Man Sees Red," a special super de luxe William Fox photodrama founded on the Larry Evans story of "The Painted Lady," which was in the Saturday Evening Post, with the pre-eminent William Farnum in a stirring role, will be shown at the Orpheus today and tomorrow. As Luther Smith, William Farnum gives a forceful and virile impersonation of a rough and ready sailor, rises above his surroundings, and always keeps in mind the boyhood teachings of his mother. Arriving home from a long voyage, he finds that his sister had died of a broken heart caused by her being jilted by a brutal sea captain, and that his mother, broken in health, confides to her son the tragedy that had happened in his absence. Soon after his mother dies, and Smith re-embarks on a voyage for the South Sea Isles on board a vessel, the captain of which is the one responsible for his sister's death. During the voyage, Smith, while reading a family bible, is berated by the captain, and in a fight that ensues, worsts the master of the ship. Smith then leaves the ship at one of the South Sea Isles. With him is left another sailor, who confides in Smith that the master of the ship they had just left was the man who was responsible for his sister's death. Smith vows to bring the captain to justice.

Paramount Pictures Corporation recently announced the affiliation of J. Stuart Blackton, famous producer of the big photoplay, "The Battle Cry of Peace." This announcement was soon followed by a still more significant one to the effect that the well known director would make for Paramount four big features each year. The second of these, "The World for Sale," arranged for the screen by Mr. Blackton himself from the famous novel of that name, by Sir Gilbert Parker, will be shown at the Star tonight.

Popular Wallace Reid, who has recently created a notable success with Geraldine Farrar in her Aztec Indian production, "The Woman God Forgot," is to be seen at the Star in "Nan of Music Mountain," a Paramount picture. This is a western drama, being the thrilling tale of a man who started out to avenge his father's murder. How he is turned from his purpose and made to forget the hatred in his heart thru the love of Nan, makes a photoplay that is interesting as well as picturesque. At the Star Sunday.

In his desire to get realism, Director Wm. Parke, while taking "Over the Hill," his latest picture in which Gladys Hulette is the star, invaded the office of a newspaper in New Rochelle, N. Y., and secured permission to make use of both the office and printing plant for the staging of a number of scenes. He had to install his own lights, of course, but the atmosphere was just what he wanted. Every newspaper man in a small city will recognize the accuracy of detail in these scenes, which show Gladys Hulette as a competent and charming young newspaper woman. The staff of "The New Rochelle Pioneer," the newspaper which loaned its plant for the picture, was greatly interested in seeing the plant turned into a motion picture studio. The reporters agreed that seeing Mr. Parke's company at work had it all over the covering of City Hall, Police Courts, etc. "Over the Hill" is a Pathe Gold Rooster play, and will be shown at the Temple on Sunday.

The Third Liberty Loan

Our terms of peace are written so clearly that all the world can see. There is no thought of conquest—only the demand of freemen that—for us and for all—the world shall be free.

The United States is to show the world that America, in Liberty's cause, responds more freely to each call for the sinews of war. And let us also show our country that Klamath Falls is in the forefront. Let each subscribe to a Third-issue Liberty Bond—the biggest one we can.
