At the Theaters

Actual battle conditions, with infantry and artillery action, cavalry charges, trench fighting and airplane scouting, are produced with almost scientific accuracy in "For France." Greater Vitagraph's Blue Ribbon feature, which will be at the temple tonight. U. S. regulars and national guardsmen, more than 1,500 of them, regularly outfitted and equipped, took part in the great picture of romance and war.

The art life of a great city is shown in "The Power of Decision," the Metro-Rolle 5-part feature production which will be seen at the Orpheus tonight and tomorrow. Historic Greenwich Village, which has become the center of New York's artistic activities, is faithfully depicted in the play. Throughout the drama glimpses are shown of artist life in its various phases, and the point of view of dwellers in Bohemia is made known by means of the film story.

Lloyd George Grateful to American Red Cross

May 28, 1916—Henry P. Davison, chairman of the war council of the American Red Cross, announces the receipt of the following letter addressed to Ambassador Page, from Prime Minister Lloyd George: "My Dear Ambassador: I feel sure that I am echoing the thought of many in this country in writing you a word of grateful appreciation of what the American Red Cross has done in this war. Not only has it made most generous additions to the funds of our own Red Cross, but it is one of the first American organizations to begin to serve humanity in this war. The work it has done, not only in securing the wounded, but in sheltering and saving women and children in all countries stricken by war is beyond all computation. From the moment of the massacre of Serbia, its work has grown like the mustard seed, until it is now one of the greatest humane institutions in the world. "In now extending its operations to cover new responsibilities which will fall upon it thru the active participation of the American army in the war, I wish it all possible success. I am sure that the resources of mercy and generosity will prove inexhaustible. "I am, my dear ambassador, yours sincerely, "D. LLOYD GEORGE."

LET'S DIG AND DIG AND WE'LL BE BIG. When I go down the village street in my perambulations, most every other chap I meet is asking for donations. They're seeking funds for Red Cross work, for hospitals and motels; they're holding up, with constant jerk, all wives and kids and voters. I'm helping out from day to day, with no delays or pauses, tobacco funds, Y. M. C. A., and other worthy causes I'm told that war bonds I must buy, in two and four and dozens; enough to make a full supply for all my aunts and cousins. For war stamps too, those signs of thrift, I dig into my pocket, to give my Uncle Sam a lift in cleaning up his docket. I'm taxed for building wooden ships with good, old-fashioned rigging, and in my little daily trips I'm constantly kept digging. I dig to pay tobacco tax, and tax for railway travel. I'm always chipping from my stacks; they keep me scratching gravel. But I've no kick for those who come with all their pleas beguiling. It never makes me sad and grim. They always find me smiling. I know that I'm too old to fight; I can't be caught ransacking. So I regard it just and right that I should keep on digging. And then besides, it's proved to me that every man is bigger if he will teach himself to be a willing war-time digger. It's not enough for us to sing about the joy of giving. We've got to dig for everything we need to keep on living. We've got to dig in our back yards, for carrots, beans and 'aters; we've got to dig both long and hard, as garden cultivators. So take your trusty hoe and spade and start your spring-time sowing. Just dig and get a garden made, and set the foodstuffs growing. Write the National War Garden Commission, Washington, D. C., for its complete manual on home gardening. It's free for 2-cent stamp for postage.
