Klamath County News

TULE LAKE NEWS ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Glick returned Monday from Ashland, where they have been visiting Mrs. Glick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Letcher Holbrook, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. McComb and Mr. and Mrs. Gregory were among the Klamath Falls visitors the past week.

Mr. Freer spent Sunday with his family at the homestead.

Douglas Bussy spent the week end with his sister, Mrs. Everett Griffith, at Mt. Laki.

Everett Griffith, with Mrs. Judge Griffith and Mrs. Clyde Griffith were calling in this vicinity Tuesday.

The Women's Club met with Mrs. McComb Tuesday afternoon. The Red Cross work was continued.

Mrs. Charles Faught was in the Mt. Laki district one day last week.

MENLEY HAPPENINGS

The patrons of both the high school and grammar school gave a farewell surprise party on the Friday evening closing school, at the school building. The school building was filled, and music, games and amusements of various kinds kept the company until well after midnight. Delightful refreshments were served during the evening. Everybody was very jolly, and had a good time, which was particularly appreciated by the teachers.

Some of the grammar school pupils presented each of the three lady teachers with a little gift which was peculiarly feminine. The high school students presented Miss Rose, who is leaving this year, with a beautiful ivory jewel case.

Miss Studie Stuart has accepted a position again with the grammar school at Henley.

Miss Rose expects to take up government work in the future, and also prepare herself in speaking the French language for children's relief work in France.

School Activities for the Year.

Henley has given three entertainments during the year that have brought in $475.39, a small amount of which came from Junior Red Cross fees. Of this sum the high school turned over $109.15 to the Junior Red Cross, and added to this the Parent-Teacher quilt, the Mrs. H. D. Newton quilt, with private donations to the layettes and comfort kits makes a total of $274.80, given to the Red Cross.

Junior Red Cross.

The Junior Red Cross has turned in the following: From May 4th to May 24th, six complete infant's layettes, 26 knitted washcloths, 4,400 gun wipers, 14 comfort kits, four scrap and fun books, three pairs socks, three sweaters, turned to Junior Red Cross. Salvage of various kinds have been collected but not turned in.

The Senior Red Cross has turned in seven pajama suits, and have a number of suits and night shirts about ready to turn in.

Henley has an Industrial Club of twenty-two members, of which five are members of the Pig Raising Club, three are taking handicraft, three canning, and six belong to the food preparation division.

Aside from the Industrial Club, twenty-seven pupils are going to raise beets for sugar and syrup for winter use.

GRANT COUNTY MURDERER GIVEN LIGHT SENTENCE

BAKER, June 6.—Fritz Rader, who has been on trial at Canyon City for a week, charged with murder in the second degree for shooting E. E. McCue, a rancher, has been sentenced by Judge Dalton Biggs to serve six to sixteen years and fined $1,000, as the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree. The light sentence was unexpected by Grant County people, hundreds of whom were in attendance at the trial.

They were accompanied by Miss Mable Mears, who has been in charge of the domestic science department of the high school for the past four years. She will not return in the fall, as she intends resting for a year in Berkeley, Calif.

At the Theaters

The Hopper, a reformed criminal, innocently commits abduction and tries to restore the stolen child to his parents. He is cornered as a burglar by Muriel Wilton, whose father is an enemy of Talbot, a rival curio collector, who lives next door to him. The Hopper secures his freedom on condition that he rob each of the rivals of antiques. He enters Talbot's home, finds Wilton robbing it, a melee ensues, which is followed by reconciliation. William V. Mong performs clever character work in this thrilling and amusing tale of The Hopper, which will be seen at the Star tonight.

Teeming with clever situations and carrying a mighty message to every man, woman and child of mature mind, "The Unborn," the much talked of sociological picture, which created so much favorable comment in Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma, where it has been showing to capacity audiences for the past month, comes to the Temple theater for two days, commencing today. Frankly, the production is a powerful and bold propaganda against birth control, and it reviews this delicate subject in an offensive manner.

Gowns designed to express the personality of the star, Emily Stevens.

are seen in the Metro production of the Broadway play, "Daybreak," which will be shown at the Orpheus tonight. As Edith Frome, Miss Stevens wears a series of distinctive and fashionable creations. Her most tragic scene in "Daybreak" is played in a soft blue brocade negligee with over dress of violet chiffon. The arms are passed thru openings edged with gray pearls. The chiffon-sweeps about the feet in a very long serpentine train.

All I Want Is a Strap Watch

That is what your boy will be writing home a few weeks after he gets to the cantonment, unless you start him out from home with this practical military necessity. His pocket watch won't do when he gets on a uniform and full equipment. He won't be able to get at it.

Buy him a strap watch at Upp's before he goes. You will be able to get a better watch for less money than he can buy in the cantonment town.

All styles, khaki and leather straps, plain and illuminated dials, and unbreakable crystals. $12.50 to $25.00
