Marquis Okuma, here shown in the civilian dress, several times premier, of Japan, is here shown in consultation with the present military chiefs.

Submarine Hunting Is Exciting Sport

London, July 24.—(British Wireless Service).—A sea sport which has arisen out of the war—hunting submarines by airship—is described in The Times. The writer's story concludes with telling how the crew of the U-boat apparently preferred death to being captured.

One of the crew of an airship spotted a submarine lying on the bed of the ocean in fairly shallow water. "The wireless sparkled," reads the account in The Times, "and soon away on the horizon there appeared a little destroyer, followed far astern by four great trawlers, all racing toward the spot above which the airship cruised around.

"The destroyer came up first, of course, and it was not long before guided by wireless instructions, her guns were trained in readiness to greet the unsuspecting U-boat, should it bob to the surface. It seemed ages to the impatient crew before the trawlers arrived, but things moved rapidly once they were at the scene of action, for they knew their job of old.

Working in pairs they approached their victim from opposite directions, steaming toward each other. Between each pair a strong 'sweep' was stretched and allowed to hang in a huge loop that it might traverse the sea bed. The vessels met and crossed each others tracks immediately above the doomed craft. The 'sweeps' of either pair engaged the U-boat fore and aft simultaneously and held her in a gigantic cradle.

"Thus far the German boat had shown no signs of alarm, altho those with her must have heard the churning of the trawler's screws. Now she suddenly seemed to awake to the menace that threatened her." The article goes on to describe the fate of the submarines.

"She wiggled and squirmed about in a frantic endeavor to escape, but it was useless. Not a loophole was there to be found, and at length, realizing the helplessness of her plight, she ceased to struggle. This fact was duly wirelessed by those on board the airship to the destroyer below. Trapped securely, the enemy vessel could still rise to the surface did she so desire, and to give her an opportunity to do so, the British craft now waited for several minutes. She preferred to lie still; and so, at a flagged signal from the destroyer, the starboard foremost trawler and the port aft one attached a tin of high explosives to each of the 'cradle wires' and allowed it to slide downward until it rested upon the U-boat hull. Then those in the airship flagged a signal and upon the two trawlers two firing keys were pressed.

"Followed then the uprising of a geyser of water, and when the troubled ocean became calm, of the submarine there was no trace other than an extensive patch of oil floating upon the surface of the sea."

Commercial Relations With South Serious

Washington, July 21.—Commercial relations between the United States and South America are in a serious condition on account of the war.

The lack of shipping has caused a decrease in the amount of manufactured goods exported to Argentina, and the factories of that country are unable to meet the demand. Some of the factories require raw materials that have formerly been obtained in the United States and have been compelled to shut down or greatly curtail their forces.

The entrance of the United States into the war marked the end of extensive shipping between this country and Argentina. Besides a few steamships some sailing vessels visit Argentina, according to consular advice, but they are so small that navigation is dangerous and they do not even approximate the demands of commerce. The most needed articles are heavy iron castings and coal.

Argentine business men are greatly concerned because some of the vessels arriving at Buenos Ayres have come in ballast, caused, they say, by the fact that they were sent away from the United States hurriedly to get the cargoes of products in Argentina that are needed in this country.

The United States has a credit of $40,000,000 in Buenos Ayres, which will be increased, according to this information, by $40,000,000 to be used as a basis of exchange in trade. It is said this situation requires diplomatic arrangement and that this is one of the affairs to occupy the attention of Ambassador Naon, who has just returned to Washington after six months absence.

Materials from Argentina sought by the United States and the other nations at war with Germany include beef, sheep, hides and wool, principally. According to official figures recently issued by the Argentine government, there are 20,000,000 sheep in the republic, as compared with 42,000,000 in 1914, the last year in which figures are available. The wool clip last year was situated at 140,000,000 lbs., valued at approximately $150,000,000. The total exports of Argentina last year aggregated about $175,000,000 and the imports $190,000,000. There were 2,000,000 head of cattle exported, principally to the United States, England and France.

To meet the situation caused by the lack of ships the Argentine government has decided to change several old warships to merchant vessels and to buy more ships wherever they can be found. This is another of the problems with which Ambassador Naon will deal.

Similar conditions are reported in Chile. Exports from the United States of manufactured goods have been virtually suspended except on a limited number of articles. Complaint is made that a large number of vessels from the United States arrive in Chilean ports in ballast to bring nitrates to the United States. Urgent request has been made to this country to permit these vessels to carry cargoes of needed commodities.

GRANDEST ON EARTH DECLARES A. H. THOMAS

GAINS SEVENTEEN POUNDS BY TAKING TANLAC—WIFE ALSO BENEFITED

"I have gained seventeen pounds and the only reason I can give for my wonderful improvement is that Tanlac is an extraordinary medicine," said A. H. Thomas, a well known employe of the Wright Shipbuilding company, and living at 222 1/2 South 9th Street, Tacoma, Wash.

"The cause of my trouble," he continued, "started about six years ago, when I accidentally struck the back of my head a very hard blow. I paid little attention to it at first, but in a short while I commenced to have headaches, which kept getting worse until I could hardly stand them. These awful headaches, with the worry about my condition seemed to undermine my whole system and my general health got to be bad. My appetite left me, my stomach got in terrible condition and I was sick in bed for several weeks. What little I managed to eat seemed to do me harm instead of good, and it would ferment, causing gas and intense pain. I was very nervous at night, would come off for a while and then wake up and roll and toss for hours. I was tired and sluggish all the time and never felt equal to my work.

"I tried different medicines hoping to find something that would help my stomach and build me up in a general way, but I failed to find the right thing until I got Tanlac. This medicine has proven to be exactly what I needed. It has gotten my stomach in splendid condition, my appetite is fine and I can eat just anything I want and enjoy it. I don't suffer a particle with gas and indigestion, and I sleep so well that I have to get up in the morning, and I seldom have a headache. I am feeling fine in every way now and my wife, who has only been taking Tanlac a short while, has been benefited a great deal already. It's the grandest medicine on earth, there's no doubt about that."

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

DRUGGIST SAYS LADIES ARE USING MIXTURE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture, improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.
