

WOMEN OF WEALTH WORK IN CANNERIES

Milwaukee, Aug. 8.—Wives and daughters of wealthy citizens in the Wisconsin pea canning districts, have entered the canneries to aid the labor situation. On Saturday they set up for their pay envelopes and receive a minimum wage for their 10 hours work. Forty per cent of the peas canned in the United States are put up in Wisconsin plants. Earlier in the season pea packers pressed grave fears of a serious labor shortage and pointed to the food administration's request for all the peas possible. George P. Humbrecht, labor commissioner, after a conference with food Administrator Hoover, sent labor commission employes into all canneries and obtained pledges from women in all walks of life to work in the canneries if called upon. Then a conference was arranged with the packers, who were informed that they would be provided with help if they paid the women a minimum wage, established a ten-hour working day except in an emergency, and then not more than 12 hours, and made proper sanitary arrangements. The packers signed an agreement, the women who had pledged their services were called upon, the response was most satisfactory and the canneries are now operating with a full force.

MANY WORKERS WEAR UNIFORMS

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—One hundred women workers are being added daily to the force at the factory established here by the quartermaster's department for the manufacture of army uniforms. It is a "no man factory," not a man being employed there. It now has about 2,000 women at work. The force will be increased as rapidly as women can be obtained until 5,000 are employed. The plant is organized as a model factory with lunch rooms, rest rooms, hospital, recreation center and welfare workers. Pay ranges from $12 a week up. All sewing is by piece work. Expert operators on the power driven machines can earn from $20 to $30 a week. The factory will eventually be one of the largest in the country. It will be in operation for several years, it is predicted, as its establishment is in line with the new policy of the government to manufacture its own army clothing.

DISSOLUTION NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between J. C. Smith, Cora B. Smith and O. W. Robertson and operating under the firm name of Klamath Superior Laundry, has been dissolved by mutual consent on this 6th day of August, 1918. O. W. Robertson will continue the business and is authorized to collect all accounts and pay all bills. Klamath Falls, Ore., August 6, 1918. J. C. SMITH, CORA B. SMITH, O. W. ROBERTSON.

NEW GERMAN ORDER DRAFTS EXTRA SUITS

Amsterdam, Aug. 8.—Threats of coming confiscation of the contents of German wardrobes in order to collect 1,000,000 civilian suits for war workers, are the subject of satire in many of the newspapers in Berlin and elsewhere. The Vorwaerts chuckles over the possibility that von Hertling may have to appear at court in patched pants and that von Kuehlman may arrive at the peace conference with holed elbows. One humorist suggests that, to save clothes, all persons over 55 years of age be ordered to remain in bed until 18 months after the war. Another recommends widespread cultivation of the fig tree.

The threats have, however, had effect. In Munich, it is reported, thirteen thousand complete suits have been given up, although only 11,500 were demanded. Berlin is still hopelessly behind, and many complaints of unfairness are made about the number of suits required from the metropolis, eight times more than was demanded from Munich, whereas Berlin is only four times the size of Munich. Complaints are manifest of hardship on the lower and middle classes. Radical newspapers accuse the authorities of undue consideration to the wealthy classes. On the other hand, one of the emperor's court chamberlains indignantly writes to the papers that he offered a good suit with the lining somewhat damaged, but it was refused and he is now wearing it himself.

Conservation Proverbs

He who wastes a crust of bread prolongs the war.
Fat is fuel for fighters—save it.
Eat wisely, and keep the wolf from the door of the world.
Save the food and help the fighter fight.
Over-eating is lending aid to the enemy.
It is better to send supplies to the allies than indemnity to Germany.

NORTH CAROLINA PEOPLE PRAY DAILY FOR SOLDIERS

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 8.—Every evening at seven o'clock church bells are tolled in cities, towns, villages and in the most remote sections thru out North Carolina, while people offer up a prayer for the success of the Allies. This is done in accordance with a proclamation suggesting it issued several weeks ago by Governor Thomas W. Bickett. When the idea was first proposed it was not generally observed, but it now comes natural to most North Carolinians each evening at seven o'clock to pray for the victory of democracy over autocracy. Governor Bickett is one of those who strictly observes the new custom. The other afternoon he was playing tennis with a party of friends at a court near the city and when he heard the sounds of the tolling bells he raised his hands and said: "Hold on, boys, there is the Angelus." The game was stopped while the players joined the governor in silent prayer.

ITS NOT THE FIRST COST ITS UPKEEP THAT COUNTS

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 25.—(By Mail)—Beginning with October 1, this year, one can get married more cheaply in Alaska than ever before. Fees set for United States commissioners in Alaska to perform the wedding ceremony have been reduced to $3 for the first division and $4.50 for the other divisions. The new fee supersedes any fees heretofore provided by the territorial legislature or the U. S. attorney general, according to an opinion by Attorney-General T. W. Gregory.

ENEMY PRISONERS DEPEND ON RED CROSS FOR FOOD

Letters from America prisoners of war show that most of them depend exclusively on the food furnished to them by the war and navy departments thru the American Red Cross at Berne, Switzerland. The American prisoners turn over to the prisoners of other nations, not so well provided for, the rations furnished by the prison camps.

SHIRTS AT A PREMIUM IN RUSSIA NOW

Petrograd, July 29.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The difficulties hedging in existence of those who live in Petrograd during these times of disturbed regime and shortage in necessities of life, extend in all their details to the ordinarily simple task of buying a shirt. To accomplish this takes time, patience and determination. First, one must find the shirt. One may visit 40 shops before he finds one of the proper size. The question of preference of style is not to be considered for one moment. Otherwise one will never get the shirt. Having found something that resembles a shirt of the proper size, one deposits a small payment to hold it. The next thing is to convince one's house committee—there is a committee in every apartment house in Petrograd now—that he needs a shirt. If the house committee passes favorably on the subject, it so reports to the precinct "soviet" or commune. This in turn reports to the commissary in charge of the distribution of shirts and kindred articles of clothing. If one is quite lucky, after five or six days time, he receives a duly signed and sealed permit to buy a shirt. Then he buys it, but ordinarily pays the Russian equivalent of $15 or $20. Some of the poorest quality may be found as low as the Russian equivalent of $5. This restriction of purchase extends to all major articles of men's and women's clothing and shoes, and recently, because of the linen and cotton goods shortage, was applied to handkerchiefs. Prices for everything are in proportion to the shirts, an ordinary suit of men's clothing costing the equivalent of $100.

ZEROLENE

The Standard Oil for Motor Cars

"Proven Entirely Satisfactory"

Only perfect satisfaction can account for the use of ZEROLENE by the majority of automobile owners.

This, the "L"-Head type of automobile engine, like all internal combustion engines, requires an oil that holds its lubricating qualities at cylinder heat, burns clean in the combustion chambers and goes out with exhaust. ZEROLENE fits these requirements perfectly, because it is specially refined from selected California asphalt-base crude.

At the Theaters

If anyone thinks that Franklyn Farnum, on account of his infectious smile and genial manner of screen acting, is afraid to take a chance, he should see "Fast Company," which will make its first appearance at the Star theater tonight.

In this Bluebird feature Farnum suddenly wakes up to the fact that he is an Irishman, and as such he should fight. Grabbing a six-inch beam, he swiftly puts four policemen, five plasterers and three trench diggers hors de combat, and goes down to glorious defeat amidst a rain of night sticks.

Mr. Farnum has gained a loyal following among the fans because of his agreeable personality, his agility and his smiling acceptance of all sorts of chances. He will be especially well remembered for his work in "The Clock," in "The Man Who Took a Chance," and in "A Stormy Knight." Swift moving events, lightly passing comedy incidents and a general atmosphere of good cheer will make "Fast Company" ideal entertainment for those who love to be surprised into laughter.

"Weaver of Dreams" the Metro picture of Myrtle Reed's novel of the same name, which will be shown at the Orpheus theater tonight and Friday, is exceptionally well adapted as a starring vehicle for winsome Viola Dana, who appears as Judith Sylvester.

This role is a simple and lovable country girl like "June" in Miss Dana's great success, "Blue Jeans" and the part is very similar in its appeal and human interest. "Weaver of Dreams" is a story of the heart, and Miss Dana excels in her characterization. The action takes place in a rural community filled with quaint types of humanity, where, amid simple surroundings, a drama of the human heart is played and reaches its dynamic denouement.

Admirers of the stories of Myrtle Reed will rejoice in having an opportunity to see the characters they have learned to love brought to life on the screen at the Orpheus theater. Booklovers, who have read "Lover and Old Lace" and other of the Reed novels, are legion and the characters are beloved by all readers. The House of Heirts, the House of Content, the abode of the beautiful old character, the musician, who gives the story its name, the carrier pigeons that have a distinct part to play in the plot, and other fascinating details which have given Myrtle Reed's novels their charm of sincerity are reproduced in this production.

UNITED STATES MARINES UNDERGOING INSPECTION BY THEIR OFFICERS NEAR BATTLE FRONT

Perfect order of uniform and equipment is a rigidly enforced ruling in the marine corps as in other branches of the service. Even in action a certain amount of inspection is carried on by the officers. Sanitation and cleanliness are other requisites of every fighter. This photo shows officers inspecting a portion of a marine squad near the battle line.
