HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Sore Throat Quickly Relieved by Breathing Hyomei

Instant relief—no waiting. Your nostrils open right up, the air passages are cleared, the mucous membranes, sensitive, inflamed, stop dropping. No stomach dosing. Just breathe pure HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-me) and let its healing, germ-killing, soothing essences and rubbing vapors penetrate every air passage of the head, soothe the inflamed or swollen mucous membranes and relief comes instantly.

It's pine-like. Don't stay stuffed-up, sniffle and snuffle. Get a bottle of HYOMEI from your druggist now. Adv.

BOYS MUST BE PROTECTED FOR OVER YEAR YET

The newspapers are joyously announcing peace. Some of us have had our minds unsettled on the need to pour one hundred and seventy-odd millions into a United War Work fund when the war is over "over there."

A statement quoted from an authority, Dr. Mott, director general of the United Campaign, on that point.

The doctor says: "While in Europe I was told by military authorities that it will require a period of 18 months from the time that the conflict ceases to transport the men of the armies to their homes, and that it will require 18 months to convey the armies of Australia and New Zealand homeward. Without doubt it will require not less than 12 months for us to bring our American Army home."

Now, friends, when we consider that we will have somewhere between two and four million men to bring back with all their supplies, and that some of them must ever be borrowed transports which will be busy bringing home the other armies, we can realize that the doctor is right, and that the need for United War Work won't end with the war. Certainly not one of us would care to countenance even the possibility of stopping this work for our men the moment they had won the victory for us.

Well, then, the next twelvemonth demands from us a minimum of $170,500,000 to be expended in providing to the men who are risking everything for us that "somebody cares." That's the message of this campaign to the soldier and sailor—"Somebody cares." It goes with him on the train to his training camp and there it stays beside him till another train takes him to the transport, where again he is met with the evidence that "somebody cares."

Probably his own friend in France will be a secretary of one of the seven great agencies united in this campaign. There are more than 15,000 uniformed workers there, eager to prove to the Nation's defenders that the Nation remembers—that "somebody cares."

Who is that "somebody"? It is you and I and all of us. We care. And we will prove it in this campaign by giving our dollars to those who are giving everything to us.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT BRINGS BACK ITS BEAUTIFUL LUSTRE AT ONCE

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your crowning glory. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dull and lifeless, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the mixture at home as per from any druggist a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound", which is really the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and so naturally that no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so evenly and gradually and evenly that every speck of gray disappears. After one application of this through your hair, the gray hair will disappear and your hair will be restored to its natural color and beauty, glossy and lustrous, and you look years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended to restore or prevent

Agricultural Conditions Good Thruout State

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—Reports received and field observations made by F. L. Kent, Field Agent, U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates, for Oregon during the month of October, indicate a general crop situation on Nov. 1, 1918 about as follows:—

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—October weather was very favorable for fall seeding operations. Thruout the entire eastern portion of the state both temperature and rainfall were above normal, and as a result fall seeding is further advanced at this date than usual. In the western portion of the state temperatures were about normal with less than the normal rainfall, which however, was quite sufficient for fall plowing, particularly during the last half of the month. Southern Oregon also had a rainfall considerably above normal, but not in excess of the needs of the locality.

WINTER WHEAT:—An unusually favorable fall for seeding operations together with the war time demand for wheat has resulted in the largest acreage seeded to fall wheat to date of any year in the state's history. While the labor shortage has been greater during the fall seeding season than at any time since the beginning of the war, seeding work has progressed nicely. The use of tractors, neighborly co-operation, and "every body working" has accomplished wonders. As a result of the very favorable temperature and moisture conditions prevailing, much of the crop has already made a vigorous growth and some fields are now being pastured.

PASTURES:—The present condition of pastures is the best for this season of the year that has prevailed for many years. This is particularly true with the alfalfa meadows, some of which were cut for hay after the middle of the month. Fields not cut so late are showing a very heavy growth. This heavy production of late alfalfa pasture will affect a material saving in the hay required for late fall feeding.

The open ranges are reported as being in very excellent shape. During the latter part of October large numbers of sheep are moved from the summer ranges to winter quarters. The presence of considerable feed and the practical absence of dust along the routes have enabled the sheep to arrive home in far better condition than usual.

FARM LABOR:—Greatest shortage since the war begun in the general opinion expressed thruout the state. As high as $100.00 per month with board has been offered in the wheat belt for ordinary farm labor for fall seeding. Spanish influenza has affected farm workers quite severely in some rural sections, particularly in Sherman county. Help for potato harvest not abundant in Western Oregon.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

TAKE SALTS AT FIRST SIGN OF BLADDER IRRITATION OR BACKACHE

Uric acid in the system. The kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness, and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending

MILLION TONS BREAD DAILY YANK RATION

AMERICAN ADVANCE ZONE IN FRANCE, Oct. 11.—(Correspondence Associated Press)—Two thousand soldier-bakers turning out a million pounds of bread a day—this is the vast and animated work one sees here at the American army field bakery, which supplies the staff of life to the American army in the entire area of the advance zone.

It is a bakery of tents, unlike the ordinary bakery within brick walls and with whizzing machinery, but a field bakery right out in the open air and open fields, half a military encampment and half an industrial city, and like all army camps, capable of being picked up and transported to another point in a few hours.

A city of tents marks the site of this huge camp bakery, along the country roadside about a mile outside of the large cities of the advance zone—nameless, as are all places in the zone of advance. The camp stretches over many acres, lately plowed ground of a big farm, but now humming with the activity of a huge productive enterprise. Above the tents the seen countless smoke-stacks of the bake ovens, belching black smoke, and in the open air hundreds of soldiers, stripped to the waist bending over the huge masses of dough, and hundreds more manipulating the loaves in the huge battery of ovens.

The daily bread train was about to start for the front as we arrived. All the the camp is in the fields, yet spurs of railway have been run alongside, each day this huge train goes forward so that every American division and every camp along the whole front gets its supply with unfailing regularity. The train was nearly half a mile long, with some fifty boxcars loaded solid from floor to roof, 2,000 pounds to the car, or a million pounds of bread to the train.

Near by another train was discharging huge stacks of flour ground from American wheat fields and milling centers of the West and Northwest. It comes in 98 and 140 pound sacks, of the best standard grade, for nothing is too good for the food of the fighting man. Of late, however, said the escort, some of this flour from the western points has not come up to the highest standard, meaning that the rush of an enormous shipment has led to a falling off in quality.

The soldiers laboring among the flour sacks have now begun to look themselves like flour sacks, for they have adopted a strange uniform, in which the empty flour sacks take the place of sleeveless shirts. The sacks are slit at the side for armholes. They are of rough white muslin, much cooler, the men say, than the army undershirt. Each sack has the flaming red and blue letters of the brand, and so they work, resplendent with the whole range of American flour brands in their flour sack shirts.
