TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

LOOK YOUNG! BRING BACK ITS NATURAL COLOR, GLOSS AND ATTRACTIVENESS

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 5-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite, and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

AMERICAN WOUNDED CHEER R. C. NURSES

METZ, Dec. 31.—Thirty-three American wounded soldiers in a ward of a hospital here who were left behind by the Germans when they evacuated Metz cheered and shouted when two American Red Cross nurses arrived here to care for them. The nurses were R. H. Baxter of Lewiston, Mont. and Miss Marion Whitney of New York City. It is asserted that they were the first American women to enter Metz after the Germans left. They had been summoned in haste from Paris by an American Red Cross physician, Dr. E. F. Pope of Spokane, Wash., who entered Metz four hours after the Germans departed.

When the nurses arrived the Americans were overjoyed and all wanted to talk to them at once. They had been virtually unattended for three days. Many of them were unshaven.

Bolsheviks Compared To Old Carpet Baggers

LONDON. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The Bolshevik government in Russia is described by a man who recently returned from that country as "a carpet bag government of the most flagrant sort."

Theoretically, he says, the Bolshevik government is popular and supposed to represent the will of the working masses throughout Russia. In practice local Soviets have been bowled over whenever they failed to satisfy Moscow officials, and outsiders have been placed in control. A large proportion of the travelling commissars who go about Russia on armored trains to keep the local Soviets in line are declared to be agitators from New York and London.

The government is described as analogous to such a rule as might be imagined to originate with workmen of New York and Chicago. Carrying out the analogy, such a government would recognize the political rights of nobody but workmen in New Orleans and San Francisco. It would overthrow by arms any government in Seattle or San Antonio which did not reflect its own views and would deny the ballot to all persons possessed of property. Under such a government New York and Chicago politicians would be sent with armed trains to overthrow Soviets in St. Louis and Detroit which failed to obey the mandate of the central governing board. Dakota wheat farmers, and Texas cotton growers would be forced to surrender their products to armed crusaders at whatever price the central Soviet officials chose to pay. Banks and industries of all sorts would be nationalized. Titles to farm land and city property would vest in the government. Workmen, the traveler says, compose less than 10 per cent of the population of Russia. Consequently, the assumption of spokesmen of radical labor circles to socialize Russia is more chimerical than it would be in a highly industrialized country. Russia is an unorganized primitive agricultural country; 90 per cent of its peasants possess property which falls within the confiscation lines as defined by Lenin. Siberia and the other undeveloped farming sections of Russian domain offer exceptional opportunities to industrious settlers and there every man stands or falls according to his own industry and merit. Such districts, it is stated, feel no need for efforts at socialization and were the first to resent the domination of representatives of the Lenin government.

Insults offered by the travelling commissars and their armed bands have aroused the antagonism of the Russian orthodox church. It is asserted that few of the agitators from America are American citizens. Almost without exception they are said to be anxious to return to the United States. They are dissatisfied with Bolshevik Russia and after denouncing the United States in public speeches confess in private that they would rather live in America than anywhere else.

Reconstruction Meet Coming In January

Definite plans of action in connection with Oregon's transformation industrially from a war to a peace basis will be formulated at the Reconstruction convention called by Governor Withycombe to be held in Portland on January 9, 10, and 11th. Representative business men, industrial leaders, representatives of both organized and unorganized labors and delegates from all organizations interested in the development of the state will attend.

Mayor George L. Baker of Portland, who is handling the details of the meeting has arranged for the attendance of several federal representatives from Washington, D. C., who are familiar with some of the problems which will be brought before the convention for solution. Members

WOMEN MAY HOLD THEIR SITUATIONS

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 31.—Washington will not have to turn many women out of their wartime occupations, believes Lawrence Wood, federal director in Washington for the United States Employment Service. Seattle railroad officials and others who employ many women have been quoted recently to the same effect.

Public employment officials hope to send many returned soldiers back to the soil and let the women keep their present posts, Mr. Wood said recently. "Soldiers who formerly performed light indoor work will be better men if they go to the land," he asserted.

"The question of discharging the women is not very big in this state," Mr. Wood added. "Washington was just beginning to employ women in large numbers when the war ended. Compared with eastern states, our total of employed women is small."

Women in Washington replaced men in practically every occupation, according to the state labor commission. While the number was not comparatively large, the women were placed in many lines. They were in all the lighter occupations, as clerks, janitors, taxicab drivers, elevator operators, meat cutters, laundry workers, book-keepers, and waiters. No record has been found, however of women employed as motor men, conductors, policeman or fireman.

Even in occupation classified as "extra hazardous" by insurance companies, women were found. State inspectors found over 2,500 women employed in Seattle in "hazardous" posts.

One Seattle woman, whom officials say held the most hazardous job of all her sisters, worked in a saw mill riding a saw carriage. Mills, factories and shops employed scores. They did light work in saw-mills, tacked stingles in shingle mills, operated rip saws in box and furniture factories, worked in machine shops, trucked freight, sorted junk and steel in steel plants and did light work around shipyards.

In the railroad offices and along the lines women were employed as clerks, accountants, car cleaners, painters, and even section hands. Railroads however, soon found the women not able to do the heavy section work. Recently the State Insurance Commission barred women from section work.

Most of the women received the same, or almost the same pay given the men they replaced. A Washington state law provides that all women over eighteen years of age must be paid at least $13.20 per week.

Overalls were not popular among the Washington working woman. In some lines overalls were necessary but in most of the occupations which women filled they are found wearing their usual apparel.

MILKMAN, DIRECT FROM BELGIUM, STARTING DOG TEAM ON DAILY ROUND IN NEW YORK

When the Huns invaded Belgium a number of the inhabitants were able to keep ahead of the German advance and came to the United States. With them they brought many of their habits and customs. Here is shown a Belgian who settled in Staten Island part of Greater New York, who has become a milkman and like the Belgians of Belgium, he is working to draw his milk wagon.

YOUNG JAP GIRL SUICIDES IN JAIL

TOKIO, Dec. 31.—Chiyo Sugiyama, a seventeen year old Japanese girl who had been arrested for burglary, committed suicide in her cell by hanging. She made a noose with her obi, or sash, unwound from her kimono. Being in need of money the girl had armed herself with an axe and broken into a house intimidating a woman occupant and making off with some cash.

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find your self in Class A1. Take GOLD MEDAL Hairless Oil Capsules periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be elevated, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a first-class man now. Go to your druggist at once and get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Hairless Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Hairless Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Remember to ask for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so food and drink taken each day leaves in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach. Men and women with sallow skin, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphate hot water drinking, and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowels pores do.—Adv.
