THE LINK RIVER DAM

Mr. Ofield in his "Second" reason why the land owners should vote against joining in the suit to test the legality of the Power company's contract, says: "I further believe that anyone who, having the opportunity, does not object at the proper time, should forever remain silent."

He is seeking to serve two objects with this statement. One has Mr. Bradbury in mind, as indicated by the preceding sentences in his paragraph. Mr. Bradbury will answer for himself. The other is a silent object. It is this: When it was decided to slip into the contract that the land owners voted on, the provisions of the resolution published yesterday, whereby the power was taken away from the people without compensation, the directors evidently wanted to fix it so there could be no comeback or objection, so they submitted the entire proceedings to the Circuit Court for approval. Under the law this could be done. Public notice was given that this step was to be taken, and if no objection was entered the court would approve ALL of the proceedings. No objection was entered, for the reason no one suspected that the proceedings were for the purpose of confirming something about which they had no knowledge.

Mr. Ofield, in his "Third" reason, tells his farmer friends that all he can find in the reclamation law is the guarantee to the landowners of a "certain amount of water delivered to his land for irrigation purposes." We presume from this that Mr. Ofield is ready to turn over to anyone who may choose to put in a claim for it, everything that remains after the power is gone—the rights of way, the headgates, the water rights on the Upper Lake, provided the farmers will be guaranteed the water for their lands. Of course, judging from Mr. Ofield's reasoning, the farmers have not paid for any of these things, either. He loses sight of the fact that the reclamation service has simply been acting as trustee, and as such has taken these in the name of the government, but when the day of an accounting comes it will have to deliver over to the owners—the farmers—all things for which they have paid, and which has come into being because of such payments—power included, unless the directors will be successful in their efforts to turn them over to some one else.

We disagree with Mr. Ofield, when he says that "the irrigation district was organized for no other purpose than to irrigate and drain the lands within its boundaries." It was organized to take over all of the rights of the Water Users Association and these rights include the power, as well as everything belonging to the stockholders of the Association. The efforts of the people to hold tight to the power which they were responsible for creating may seem childish to Mr. Ofield, but we much mistake the temper of the people of the District if he will not learn that they mean business when they say they want him to protect their interests, or step aside and let the man who has their welfare at heart carry on this fight for them.

At the meeting of the directors of the District, Mr. Ofield openly admitted that it was a bad contract; that it was a mistake to lose the power; that he was in favor of holding it and developing it for the benefit of the landowners. Yet he goes to these same stockholders and tells them it is "childish" to make a fight to knock out this contract. He tells them they have acquired nothing but the privilege of using the water that is delivered to their lands. They must keep up the ditches, the headgates, the flumes, the drainage, everything, but they own nothing, have nothing to say about the sale or disposition of these rights and properties. This, Mr. Landowner, is the man you will have to look to in the future to protect your interests. Do you want him? Do you believe he should continue as head of the corporation? Do you feel confident that he has at heart your interests? Do you believe that if you instruct him to enter into the fight to save your power that he will do so with his heart and soul? Consider these questions along with the one of whether you want this Power company contract knocked out. They are of interest to you and should receive the consideration the importance of your rights involve.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

TAKE SALTS AT FIRST SIGN OF BLADDER IRRITATION OR BACKACHE

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

WAS AFRAID TO GO ON TOP OF HOUSE PAINTER WAS SO WEAK COULD HARDLY WALK—GAINS TWENTY POUNDS BY TAKING TAN-LAC "I will cheerfully tell anyone, who is looking for something to build them up, that Tanlac certainly brought me out of the kinks," was the characteristic statement made by John A. Weyers, house painter and decorator of Reardan, Washington, while in Murgottroyd's at Spokane, recently. "I can't say that I suffered any particular pain," he continued, "I just had no appetite and got into a terribly run-down condition. I believe I could have gone a week without feeling hungry. What little I did eat was forced down and seemed to do me no good, as I lost weight and strength all the time. I had gotten down to almost skin and bones and was so weak that I was actually afraid to go up on a house to paint. My energy all left me and I had gotten to where I couldn't hold 'out to do a whole day's work. "I had read about Tanlac being fine for people in a run-down condition, and I now know for myself, for it has put me in shape to where I have already gained twenty pounds. And speaking of appetites, I've got the best one I ever had. Meal times come too slow for me and when they do get around I hardly know when to quit eating. I have gotten my strength and energy back, too, and now I can do as much work as any man my age; I had been losing ground two or three years and nothing ever hit the spot until I got Tanlac, so it certainly is the medicine for me." Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by the Star Drug Co., and in Lorell by the James Merc. Co.—Adv.

GIANT EXPRESS COMPANY PLANS QUICK SERVICE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A nationwide campaign to improve the nation's express service will be inaugurated on February 10 by the American Railway Express Company thru the 135,000 men and women employed in the express-business. It was announced here tonight. The purpose is to interest the shippers and the people generally in this government organization's plan to raise the standards of packing, wrapping and marking express shipments with a view to minimizing the waste of time, effort and money that result from packages being lost or damaged thru lax methods of preparing them for sending forward.

While shippers and the public are being educated to pack, wrap and mark shipments properly, the American Railway Express Company will campaign among its own employees, instructing them to avoid rough handling, mis-routing and other deviations from correct express methods in offices and terminals, and this closer supervision is expected to improve internal operating conditions. On February 11th every agent at all important points will address employees, and these addresses will be made on each Tuesday of the campaign. "Better service campaign committees" will be organized and "four minute speeches" will be made to drivers, platform men, office and claim bureau clerks, car messengers and other employees. "Start Express Shipments Right" texts will be placed on posters to be placed on express wagons and on window placards.

Between July 1 and Nov. 30, 1918, "no mark" bureaus of the company received shipments which the company had been unable to deliver because all means of identification of either shippers or consignees had been lost, and part of the campaign will be to eradicate this "no mark" evil and induce shippers to place identification marks on shipments in addition to the address tags. Use of inferior quality of twine and paper will be discouraged. The cooperation especially of business executives and managers of large concerns will be invited.

ARMY OF OCCUPATION WILL BE 200,000 MEN.

PARIS, Feb. 19.—The Supreme war council, it is understood, has decided that the strength of the army of occupation in Germany shall be 200,000 allied troops. The reduction to that number from the present forces will be made as soon as the work of disarming Germany has been carried out.

GERMANS ACCEPT NEW TERMS.

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST. Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, suffer from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, stomach, liver and bowels the previous sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying hot water and limestone phosphate on your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.
