JAMES WITHYCOMBE

Although born in England, James Withycombe was one of the most loyal Americans, and it was most fortunate, indeed, that he was our state executive during the world war, for his unswerving patriotism and uncompromising loyalty contributed greatly to Oregon's splendid record in all war activities.

As a citizen, no man in the state did a nobler part in the development of agricultural possibilities or set a better example as an industrious, law-abiding and progressive citizen, and no man can say aught to tarnish the good name he earned by his earnest endeavor and achievements for the good of the state. There is no doubt that the strenuous work imposed by his duties during the legislative session, in the examination and conscientious study of a deluge of bills, contributed to his death, and it was practically while he was engaged in this arduous task that the messenger of death summoned him to his final rest, for it was not James Withycombe's way to shirk from any duty which his position seemed to require.

Cool, collected and deliberate under all circumstances, he was a safe man to have had at the head of the state's government at the most trying time of its modern history. While the waves of radicalism were surging against and threatening the government and peace of our neighboring states, under the conservative and careful guidance of Governor Withycombe, Oregon sailed along on peaceful seas, its citizens feeling safe because of the confidence inspired by the masterful ability of its chief executive.

Possessed of strong convictions and decided opinions, he was yet capable of grasping, analyzing and dealing with big problems, and once he reached a conclusion he had the courage to carry it to fruition. It was this indomitable trait in his character that won for him the enduring friendship of the strongest men in the state, for they knew his judgment was unerring, and that he always had the welfare of the state at heart.

As he was great in public affairs, so was he great in private affiliations. He formed strong likes and dislikes, and loyalty to his friends and gratitude for the slightest favor were marked characteristics of this great man's life. It was this loyalty, this honesty, this determination to do what was right for the state, that won for him the confidence of the vast majority of the people, and made it possible for him to be the first republican governor of this state to succeed himself.

In the life of Governor Withycombe the young men of today will find much of profit. He will learn the value of truth, of honesty, of steadfastness to right and justice, of loyalty to friends. He will learn that by traveling the straight and narrow path he will merit, as did this great man, the esteem and confidence of his fellow citizen and receive the inspiration that will lead him to strive for the higher and nobler things of life.

Do Bad Teeth Cause Disease?

YES, say leading authorities. Their answer is based on years of study and on specific cases. So-called rheumatism is very often the result of infection reaching the blood from infected gums and decayed teeth, or by an infected tonsil. "But I have none of those troubles," you say. Chances are a few minute examination will show infection somewhere which is causing your "rheumatism."

Deep-seated tooth infections are quickly located with the X-Ray. This wonderful invention is now successfully adapted to the use of the dentist.

Many diseases of childhood may be caused by infection from a diseased tooth. A large per cent of cases of ulceration of the digestive tract are found to be due to dental disease. Pus, coming from teeth, gums, tonsils, or any other point in the body, may cause infection in any organ of the body. To-day the physician and surgeon often recommend the curing of tooth troubles before they attempt to treat other ailments.

TRAINLOAD OF CLOTHING FOR WEST RUSSIA

VLADIVOSTOK. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Twenty-five freight cars carrying $310,000 worth of clothing to meet the most pressing needs of the Russian civilian population in Western Siberia has been sent from Vladivostok under the joint direction of the American Red Cross and the Russian Railway Service Corps.

These supplies are intended for refugees in districts where the Red Cross is operating distributing agencies; but there is included a special lot of clothing and clothing materials for Russian employes of the Trans-Siberian Railway. These men have stuck to their posts under most disheartening circumstances and their devotion has elicited a special recommendation for assistance from John T. Stevens, head of the Railway Service Corps.

The train carried seven cars of underwear, four of blankets, five of clothing material, one car of sweaters, gloves and socks, one car of children's clothing, a car of flannel, one of miscellaneous articles and several of drug and hospital supplies and provisions.

WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD, HE SAYS

MILWAUKEE MAN SAYS MOTHER SUFFERED EIGHTEEN YEARS —TANLAC RESTORES HER

If everybody in Milwaukee knew how much good Tanlac has done my mother there isn't a one who would not think just as I do that it's worth its weight in gold," was the interesting statement made by Frank J. Passage, brakeman on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, living at 26 35th St. Milwaukee, recently. Mr. Passage's mother, Mrs. Minnie Passage, at the time she came to Milwaukee, four years ago, had been a resident of Shannon, Illinois, for fifty years and is beloved by all who know her.

"For eighteen or twenty years," continued Mr. Passage "my mother has had trouble with her stomach and I can truthfully say that Tanlac is the only medicine I have been able to find in all that time to do her any good. Nothing she would eat agreed with her and she was subject to frequent attacks of acute indigestion. In a little while after eating, her food would sour and blot her up with gas and cause her to suffer for hours. At times this gas would press on her heart, almost cutting off her breath, and I actually thought she was going to die. She complained of awful pains thru her stomach and left side and would belch up sour gas for hours. I have often had to get up in the middle of the night and doctor her on account of this gas, and I don't believe she ever got a good night's rest on account of the pain she suffered. During the past year she lost twenty-five pounds in weight, or more, and all her strength seemed to leave her. During the past six months she has failed very much faster. All she was able to eat was a little soup or milk and soft boiled eggs, and even this would hurt her. Her condition became so serious that on December the seventh I quit work in order to stay home and take care of her.

"One day I noticed a Tanlac testimonial in the paper which was so straightforward and convincing that I told mother I wanted her to try the medicine. She agreed and at the time she started taking it she had been down in bed for five weeks and couldn't stand on her feet but a few minutes, if she tried. Well, she has taken two bottles now and you may believe it or not, she is up doing all her cooking and housework and is just feeling fine. She is now sixty-nine years of age, but I declare she gets around like one many years younger. She sleeps like a child, eats anything she wants and that gas and indigestion has stopped bothering her almost entirely. I have never seen such a change in anyone as Tanlac has made in Mother. I am very grateful for it and she is feeling mighty happy herself. We can't say too much in behalf of Tanlac, and have been telling everyone in the neighborhood about it."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by the Star Drug Co., and in Lorell by the James Merg. Co.—Adv.

AUSTRIANS PAY FOR SAFETY BY THE DAY NOW

VIENNA. (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Living conditions in Hungary have reached the stage where the only hope of the aristocracy is that the Entente powers will send troops to Budapest and to other parts of the country to save them from the dreaded menace of Bolshevism. Many of the former aristocrats have gone to their country homes and many others would like to go to Switzerland but are unable to obtain permission to leave the country. The streets of Budapest are considered unsafe after dark and wealthy persons employ soldiers to guard their homes. Thousands of unemployed in Budapest and other towns are receiving from the state 40 to 50 crowns a day, three-fourths of which is contributed by manufacturers, who are fast losing all the money they made during the war. One of the largest munition firms, which recently employed 30,000 persons is paying them 5,000,000 crowns a week. It is asserted that this is leading toward the demoralization of the workmen who prefer to live upon state pay rather than to return to work. Many factories have been brought to a standstill owing to the lack of coal and it is feared that flour mills may also be forced to shut down. The train service has been reduced to one train a day between Budapest and Vienna, the journey occupying sixteen hours instead of four. The Cabinet Ministers, who before the revolution received salaries of 25,000 crowns, are now taking 100,000 crowns. The number of Under-Secretaries of State has been increased from 12 to 77, each being paid 40,000 crowns a year. Immense sums have been expended in payment to invalided soldiers. A plan was suggested by which the sum of 25,000,000,000 crowns would have covered all annual pensions, but instead of adopting such a plan, the Ministry has spent 70,000,000 crowns in a few weeks in temporary relief, with the result that the recipients are now clamoring for further help.
