FIGURES SHOW MANY FINDING MARRIAGE HOAX

WASHINGTON, March 24—Approximately one out of every nine marriages in the United States is terminated by divorce. This is according to figures compiled by the bureau of the census and just made public.

Excluding South Carolina, where all laws permitting divorce were repealed in 1878, the three lowest divorce rates in 1916, for which year returns are complete, are shown for the District of Columbia, North Carolina and New York, where the rates were 13, 31 and 32 per 100,000 of population respectively.

The highest rates were returned for Nevada, Montana and Oregon which show 607, 323 and 225 respectively.

In all states except Maine, West Virginia, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, North Dakota, South Dakota and Colorado, the divorce rates were higher in 1916 than in 1906. The desertion is shown by the figures to have been the cause for about 38 per cent of the divorces.

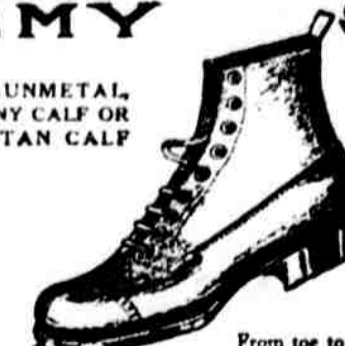

Records also showed that the marriage rate in 1916 was 1050 per 100,000 or nine times as great as the divorce rate of 112 per 100,000.

At the Theaters

Bert Lytell, who will be seen as the star of "Unexpected Places" at the Liberty Theatre tonight is not content with being known to fame only as an actor but also has applications as an author and playwright.

In making the screen version of "Unexpected Places," which was adapted from the story of that name written by Lieut. Frank R. Adams and published in the Blue Book Magazine, A. S. LeVino, scenario writer for Metro collaborated with Mr. Lytell. This was not the actor's first attempt as he had aided in writing the script of "No Man's Land." This was only the beginning of Mr. Lytell's literary efforts as he has now written a play which was bought by Metro and which will be adapted for screen purposes. Mr. Lytell will himself be seen as the star in his own play.

The War and Your Gasoline

The first of a series of three statements

For obvious reasons the following facts of interest to the public could not be published during the war. They affected a vital war necessity regarding which the Government required secrecy. But now that the war is won, we are at liberty to make the following statement of facts:

Highly volatile gasoline for fighting-aeroplanes was one of the war needs. The output of this special gasoline by all the refineries east of the Rocky Mountains was not enough, so California was called upon to furnish a large part of the supply. At the request of the United States Government the Pacific Coast Petroleum War Service Committee apportioned California's quota among such of the large refiners as were able to make this special gasoline.

The Standard Oil Company, being the largest of these, had the greatest quota to fill. We were glad to do our part. We supplied more than our quota of aviation gasoline.

Aeroplane engines, operating high in the air under conditions of extreme cold and rarefied atmosphere, require a different gasoline from engines operating on the ground. In fact, the needs are so special that the gasoline manufactured for aeroplane use (often used at altitudes of from 20,000 to 25,000 feet) would be utterly indifferent for use in automobile or other internal-combustion engines operated on land or sea.

Aviation gasoline has to be highly volatile. It must vaporize rapidly even in the extreme cold of very high altitudes. On its rapid vaporization alone must often depend the lives of the men in the aeroplane. This gasoline would not be good for general use. It would lack power on the ground, its loss in storage by evaporation would be great, and it would be expensive.

Making aviation gasoline for the Government took a very considerable part of the low boiling point or highly volatile constituents of the crude oil, and, as a result, the gasoline left available for regular use lacked those qualities which assure easy starting of the automobile engine.

The Government's demand for aviation gasoline reached its maximum in the late fall of 1918, and then for a period of about six weeks the deficiency of Red Crown gasoline in low boiling-point constituents or easy-starting qualities was most apparent.

Now that the war is won and the great demand for aviation gasoline has ceased, we are again able to offer the same grade of Red Crown gasoline as formerly, with the same full and continuous chain of boiling points—from the low to the high—which is necessary for easy starting, quick and smooth acceleration, high power and long mileage.

Fashion Says You Must Wear Beads

The severe necklines and lack of color and ornamentation in present styles have given beads great popularity. The smartly dressed woman quickly saw the possibilities of adding a touch of color to her costume, and securing the long slender lines fashion insists on, by the use of beads. She wears them with all costumes, securing the most stunning effect by having beads in a variety of colors, kinds and sizes.

You will find beads suitable for all occasions and all costumes at Upp's. It is a fascinating display.

Fuel Oil Paint

This is the proper season for Mr. Rancher to buy a barrel of Fuel Oil, and while the work is not rushing, paint your barn, roof and all; the roof of your house; paint all your outbuildings and rough board sheds. You will be surprised at the improvement. It will be worth a hundred dollars to you in looks alone to apply a barrel of Fuel Oil to your buildings, but the cost is almost nothing—six and a half.

Does It Preserve the Wood?

I put a coat of it on my barn five years ago, twenty-five gallons covered it, roof and all, and it has preserved the lumber as well as any paint.

The color is dark brown on new lumber and black on old lumber.

Buy a barrel, or a few five gallon cans, and get busy. It means money to you.

Diamond SQUEEGEE TREAD Tires

You Wouldn't Hike In Dress Shoes

Suppose, for example, you had a lot of walking to do, day after day, —would you wear flimsy-soled dress shoes?

Of course not—for you'd see to it that your shoes were the tough-soled, substantial, serviceable sort.

The same holds with the "shoes" for your automobile.

You want your car to keep going on one set of tires as long as possible.

Diamond SQUEEGEE TREAD Tires

—the tires with the red sidewalls,
—are the tough-treaded, substantial, serviceable tires that will give you the long mileage you have hoped for,

—plus a little more for good measure.

If you want a tire that will make you come back for more, buy one DIAMOND.
