REGULAR AIR SERVICE OVER EUROPE SOON

LONDON. (Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Just as soon as aircraft regulations have been definitely arranged by the Peace Conference, an airplane passenger and freight service will be inaugurated between the principal cities of England and the continent. It is announced. It will be an experiment only insofar as the whims of the public are concerned, as the fifteen machines to be used all saw more trying service in night bombing work during the latter months of the war.

There is no doubt in the minds of the promoters that the project will be popular at first among those who enjoy adventure and are not hampered by lack of funds but, in making the announcement of the new service, F. Handley Page said that his company wanted to put the service purely on a business basis and that charges would not be out of reach of the average merchant who might want goods transported quickly or make quick trips in Europe.

Announcement of the plans was made simultaneously with the first public exhibition of a passenger-carrying airplane in London. The plane is one of the night bombers with the fuselage equipped to accommodate seventeen passengers. It saw service over German cities but appeared much different on exhibition. Huge glass windows had been cut into the sides of the fuselage showing the sa-loon fitted with heavily upholstered leather chairs lined on each side of the carriage with a narrow aisle between. Space is provided for sixteen passengers inside. The seventeen one sits outside in the very "bow" of the machine in the seat formerly occupied by a gunner.

The machine has a lifting capacity of six and one half tons exclusive of its own weight, is fitted with four motors, two tractors and two pushers and travels at an average speed of 100 miles an hour.

The company which will operate the service already has laid its plans for getting business and for "feeder" services tapping its main lines of travel. E. J. Bray, formerly European traffic representative of the National Railway of Mexico, has become traffic manager of the Handley Page, Ltd., and is at work on purely the traffic end of the enterprise.

Those interested in the project point out that as far as the machines are concerned this is not an experiment and maintain that it is the most ambitious plan yet conceived for commercial use of the airplane. No special effort will be made to get great speed but every effort will be made, as the service increases to construct larger machines which will give passengers greater ease and freedom and will be capable of carrying several tons of freight.

LONDON HONORS U. S. ENTRANCE INTO THE WAR

LONDON, April 7.—London on Friday celebrated the second anniversary of President Wilson's speech announcing America's entry into the war.

The city was ablaze with red, white and blue. From hundreds of households Old Glory fluttered.

A number of London churches, clubs and other institutions arranged for special services of thanksgiving. Other cities and towns throughout the British Isles are holding similar celebrations.

At Westminster Abbey there was a memorial service at noon. The dean of Westminster preached and detachments of the American forces, deputations from the American embassy and prominent American and Anglo-American bodies in London attended. The English-speaking union, an Anglo-American body, arranged this service.

FORMATION OF PEACE LEAGUE IS PREDICTED

THE DALLES, April 5.—Just back from Washington, after an absence of more than a year, Congressman N. C. Sinnott believes that the league will act favorably upon the League of Nations, provided that amendments such as those suggested by Mr. Hughes are incorporated in the covenant. At the present time, Congressman Sinnott declared, the sentiment in congress is opposed to the covenant. Especial menace to American commerce is seen by Congressman Sinnott, who believes that the so-called equality on the sea would militate to the disadvantage of this country by removing the protection to coastwise shipping and threatening our commerce with the insular possessions.

Attorney Roger B. Sinnott was here from Portland to greet his brother. If time permits, the latter plans to visit several sections in his district which are interested in irrigation and homestead laws now pending before congress. He had difficulty in getting away from Washington, one of the principal reasons being the large number of appeals which he is receiving from Oregon mothers asking that he use his influence to secure the discharge of their sons from the army or navy.
