THE VICTORY LOAN

In view of what other nations have done, America's patriotism has been put to no test, according to Edward Cookingham, executive chairman of the Oregon Victory Loan. He says:

"During the four years of the war the gross indebtedness of the civilized nations of the world grew from $27,000,000,000 to more than $200,000,000,000. The indebtedness of Great Britain grew from 4 per cent to 44 per cent of that country's entire national wealth. The indebtedness of France grew to about 45 per cent of her national wealth, and Russia's national debt reached about the same proportions. The indebtedness of Germany was more than 50 per cent of her wealth at the end of the war, and that of Austria-Hungary had become about 60 per cent. In comparison with the enormous debts of her allies, that of the United States at the end of the war seems very insignificant, inasmuch as it amounted to less than 8 per cent of her national wealth, and as an offset, we hold nearly $10,000,000,000 of obligations of foreign governments, so that the net drain upon the people of this nation will not be over 6 per cent of the sum total of the assets of the nation.

"The available statistics received up to the present time show that the total death losses during the war aggregate about 7,350,000 men. Of our allies, France lost 1,385,000 men; England 706,000 men, and Italy 460,000 men; Russia lost about 1,700,000 men. About 50,000 U. S. troops were killed in battle. The death losses of Germany, Austria-Hungary and their allies aggregate 2,750,000 men.

"None of the allied commanders, American, French, English or Italian, believed that a military victory was possible in 1918. Hence, at the time the armistice was signed military plans in the United States were progressing on a prodigious scale. These plans contemplated that by July 1, 1919, there would be 4,000,000 American soldiers in France. To transport and maintain this vast army 16,000,000 tons of shipping would have been required, and the plans of the government included the construction of sufficient ships to furnish the required tonnage. Had the war continued until the middle of the summer of 1919, this nation would probably have suffered a loss of 500,000 American soldiers, with many hundreds of thousands of disabled and wounded. The outlay required to train, equip, transport and feed this vast army would have been not less than $2,000,000,000 per month. It is quite obvious, therefore, that the sudden collapse of the German military power resulted in a saving to the American nation of not less than $15,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 per month. Moreover, every red-blooded American citizen must not fail to remember that Germany's collapse was directly due to the magnificent fighting qualities of the hitherto untrained American army.

"During the brief time that the American army participated in the active hostilities of the war, 3,918 distinguished service crosses were awarded for gallantry in action to American officers and soldiers. If we may believe the glowing accounts which we have received of the unsurpassed valor of the American troops in the battles in which they were engaged, we may well say that these soldiers who received the distinguished service crosses were but a type of hundreds of thousands of other American soldiers that fought with the utmost bravery and gallantry."

Announcement of Oregon's quota for the Victory Loan released a flood of enthusiasm throughout the state of Oregon. Reports from many counties have indicated that the people are on their tip-toes for an active campaign. John L. Etheridge, director of the state organization, announced there would be close competitition between a score of counties as to which would be the first to announce their entire quota subscribed. There has been no doubt of the spirit with which the Oregon people will discharge their duty, but by the announcement of the state quota as $26,747,550, or approximately one-fourth less than had been anticipated, accentuated determination that Oregon shall be first "over the top." That the amount to be raised is less than estimated is no reason for letting down in the vigor of the campaign, and Director Etheridge has called attention of his lieutenants throughout the state to this. It is his forecast that a large percentage of counties will complete their entire quotas during the present week.

The ease with which subscribers for Victory Loan bonds will be enabled to make payment is one of the features that make the investment especially attractive. Only one-tenth is payable with the application on or before May 10th, and the next payment does not fall due until the middle of July. Thereafter, installments are due in August, September and October. The date of the final installment is one that will live in all history—November 11th. Thus it transpires that the American people will pay the last installment of the war debt on the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice.

"What amount of Victory bonds should I buy?" is the question many persons are asking themselves. Buy till it hurts! That is the answer for the person who is hampered with an inner consciousness of the sort that whispers: "Let others do it." Your country is calling to you to do your duty. Loyal citizens of the United States should not expect to be driven to do their duty.

FEDERAL LAND APPRAISER DUE IN FEW DAYS

Borrowers under the Federal Farm Loan Act are required to subscribe to stock in the local Association, which Association in turn subscribes to stock in the Federal Land Bank to the amount of 5 per cent of the loan secured from the Bank.

The receipt by each of the stockholders in the Klamath Falls National Farm Loan Association of a check for a dividend on their stock, has been very good news to the borrowers. This distribution of dividend has been made possible by the fact that the Federal Land Bank of Spokane has declared a 10 per cent dividend to the Association.

Under the provisions of the Farm Loan Act the Association must create a reserve fund, and also make provisions for a fund from which to care for any possible future delinquencies of members. In accordance therewith, the Directors, at their meeting last Saturday apportioned the dividend received from the Federal Land Bank as follows:—10 per cent to Reserve, 40 per cent to undivided profits, 50 per cent to stockholders of record December 31, 1918, pro rata according to amount of stock held and the length of time same was in force.

The Klamath Falls National Farm Loan Association is to be congratulated on the fact that there are no delinquents among their members, all having met their amortization payments promptly.

The Local Loan Committee of this organization will start out on its tour of appraising on Monday, 21st, to view securities offered in connection with loans of about $80,000.

Word has also been received that Mr. Sanford, the Federal Appraiser who must re-appraise all securities will be in Klamath County by that date, and it is possible that Mr. Sanford will accompany the Loan committee, Mr. Frank T. Nelson is chairman of the Local Committee.
