BEND'S PERFDY

The arrival of the Oregonian last evening brought with it the greatest surprise Klamath Falls has had for many years. It was the information that Bend did not want the Strahorn railroad.

This policy was dictated by the big sawmills located in that town, and while the manager of one of these concerns, speaking for both, as well as intimating that he was representing the people of Bend, says the reason for rejecting the chance to get another line was due to a fear that the mills of Klamath Falls would demand a freight rate adjustment that would put this city on an equal basis with Bend. But this is mere camouflage. The real reason for the Bend mills dictating a rejection of the Strahorn line was fear of competition from the mills of this territory.

Bend places herself in the unique position of being the only city in the nation that rejects the possibility of getting a third railroad and the opportunity of making her the mistress of Central Eastern Oregon. She also occupies the unenviable position of having betrayed the trust and confidence of the people of Southeastern Oregon.

The action of Bend will have no effect on this city. Klamath Falls will go ahead with her plans for the Strahorn line just as though Bend were not on the map. The Strahorn line will be completed, but whether to Bend or not remains to be seen.

The day will come when our northern neighbor will bitterly regret the mistake she has made.

EVANGELINE, IN BRONZE, WILL STAND GUARD WITH THE OLD WILLOWS AT GRAND PRE

What lover of poetry has not dreamed of visiting the places made immortal in song? And what song has aroused this longing more intensely than the story of the gentle Acadians and their Great Banishment? Many have realized this ambition for Nova Scotia is easy to reach and each succeeding summer sees more hundreds making the pilgrimage to

"The Acadian land, on the shores of the Basin of Minas, instant, secluded, still, the little village of Grand Pre."

Here they find the meadows, dikes and orchards of which Longfellow sang and they try to retrace the action of the poem by using as a guide the still remaining well which the poet described as

"Further down, on the slope of the hill was the well with its moss-grown Bucket, fastened with iron, and near it a trough for the horses."

The piece of ground at Grand Pre on which is the well of Evangeline, together with the old willows, has been bought by the Canadian Pacific for the purpose of preserving it for posterity.

Before he died last year, Philippe Hebert, the greatest of French-Canadian sculptors, was engaged on a statue representing Evangeline leaving the land of her childhood and looking back in sorrow.

Philippe Hebert was himself an Acadian and, although a perfectly happy exile in Montreal, entered into the spirit of the poem as no other sculptor could. The model of his statue has been purchased by the Canadian Pacific, who have commissioned Philippe's son, Henri Hebert, also a distinguished sculptor, to complete it, life size, in bronze, to be erected beside the famous well.

Thus will be added one more attraction to a land full of attractions for artists, devotees of romance and matter-of-fact sportsmen. The artists find an inexhaustible supply of subjects ranging from many-mile long vistas of apple blossoms to uncouth but picturesque fisherfolk; the romantically inclined find a land of legends and sleepy beauty; the sportsmen find fishing and hunting such as is seldom equalled and never excelled.

be "Eternal Life, and How to Live It." Service at 7 p. m. at Presbyterian church. Special Easter Music. Evening services at 8:00 o'clock. The chorus choir of fifteen voices will give a sacred concert consisting of anthems, quartets with the Easter message. The pastor will give a brief address on "Practicing Immortality." There will also be a moving picture reel of strong interest, "Russia—A World Problem." It is a special Red Cross reel, and is very fine.

NATION LEAGUE VITAL TO PEACE SAYS MR. TAFT

INDIANOLA, Ia., April 19.—There can be no peace treaty without the acceptance of the League of Nations by the world, William Howard Taft told members of the Methodist church here.

"The peace treaty means nothing if we cannot enforce it," said the former president. "Conditions in Europe are such that we must have a union of nations."

WE CORDIALLY INVITE YOU TO ATTEND Epworth League Sunday Evening, at 7 M. E. CHURCH Tenth and High Sts.

Taft said the covenant was not perfect and that perhaps it would not work as expected every time, but abolition of one-half of the wars is worth the effort.

"Excessive armament of nations must be abolished if we are to have continued peace," Taft added. "The League of Nations makes this its first step. Another great step toward peace in the covenant is the clause that

"Y" WORKERS ARE BUSY NOW IN SIBERIA

OMSK, Siberia, E. T. Heall, of Davenport, Iowa, who is in charge of the western district of the American Young Men's Christian Association work in Siberia, has returned to Omsk after a visit to the battle front and reports that the Y. M. C. A. is doing everything possible to lighten the hardships of the soldiers. Two American secretaries are working, he reports, at the fighting line. They are H. L. Tinkham, of Pennsylvania, who is at Ufa, and C. W. Riley, recently graduated from Northwestern University at Chicago, who has a club car further north on the line. Mr. Riley brought the first Y. M. C. A. supply train out of Vladivostok.

Twenty-five American secretaries are now serving in the western Siberia zone and have organized twenty canteens. A general supply department is now being organized for the local purchase of butter, cheese and general dairy products for which Siberia is famous, but which the soldiers have difficulty in obtaining.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT IS TRIED AT BEND

BEND, April 19.—Hearing of the $10,000 damage suit brought by Charles J. Stauffer against William W. Brown, a wealthy stockman of Fife, is now under way. The suit, which alleges malicious prosecution, is the sequel of an investigation in the justice court last June, in which Mr. Stauffer, on a complaint brought by the Fife rancher, was bound over to the grand jury, on a charge of larceny of sheep. The grand jury failed to indict. The plaintiff was on the stand this morning, telling the story of his arrest, and the subsequent dismissal of the case by the grand jury.

The case brought by the state against Charles Griffith, charged with larceny of a calf, reached an end at 8 o'clock this morning, when the jury, 15 hours after leaving the courtroom, returned a verdict of "not guilty."
