

YANKS IN ACTION SHOWN IN BIG U. S. LOAN FILM

"New Glory for Old" to Be Released During Victory Loan Drive.

The greatest war film ever produced, "New Glory for Old," is to be distributed throughout the United States in aid of the Victory Liberty Loan. In this great film will be shown every activity of the U. S. army and navy in the war including 3,000 feet of the hardest fighting by the Yanks.

The five reels of 5,000 feet will be shown as a feature of special Liberty Loan mass meetings and it is planned that no admission charge will be made.

"New Glory for Old" was taken as a part of the pictorial history of the world war by the United States Signal Corps and one operator was killed while operating his camera. It contains the most thrilling pictorial reproduction of fighting that has yet been issued.

The American soldier is shown in this film from the time of enlistment to his arrival in Berlin. No part of this film has ever been shown and "New Glory for Old" will be held by the war department for the use of Liberty Loan publicity.

Many other special films are being prepared for use in the coming campaign. Douglas Fairbanks and Julian Eltinge have each produced Victory Liberty Loan films which have been turned over to the Liberty Loan committee.

THE DOUGHBOYS HELD THEIR GROUND

From the moment that American commander said, "Retreat—hell, we just got here!" in answer to the importunities of the hard-pressed French, the American doughboys held every inch of ground they took. They are now holding ground in Germany. It cost them flesh and blood, comrades dead and wounded, to win and hold their ground. It is costing them the rigors of army life and the opportunity of getting back to paying jobs to hold the German soil where they are now.

Are you holding your Liberty Bonds? Or, are you giving up hard won terrain to the enemy?

The boys over there can't retreat. They have to stick. They will go farther into Germany, probably. They can't say the war is over and give up.

The least any American can do is to hold his Liberty Bonds—hold them out of respect for the men still under arms if for no other reason. When you sell a Liberty Bond or trade it for some stock, worthless or otherwise, you are retreating.

That American commander who said, "Retreat—hell, we just got here!" was American flesh and bone. Are you?

Then hold your bonds. Put them in the bank. Borrow on them if you have to. But hold them.

SCHOOL ELECTION THIS AFTERNOON.

People of the city who are entitled to vote at this time and have not already voted are reminded of the School election for the voting of $15,000 bonds for the construction of the new Mills Addition School, which is being held this afternoon at the Central School Building at Tenth and Main Streets.

It is hoped by the school board that a large number of voters will come and show their interest in this proposed new building. The plans have now been completed and are being gone over by contracting firms in the city.

The polls will be open until seven o'clock so that all who wish, may have the opportunity of casting a ballot.

SAY, JACK, LISTEN!

You know that spell I was a'givin' you last week about havin' what you needed in the tool box when you needed it? Well, I'm tellin' you now that was the proper dope. Listen! You know that little Princess I've been warmin' up to for the past year—well, I'll tell it just like it happened: I'm not superstitious, but I believe in signs, all right. You know I always carried an extra casing on the old bus just for luck, and I never had an accident so long as I carried it, but every time I leave the city limits without an extra I meet Old Man Trouble before I get back.

Well, Saturday a fellow offered to buy that extra casing from me, and as I had a date with the Princess for Sunday to go for a "joyer," and as I was a little shy on cash, I thought I would just copper my luck and spend the proceeds for a nifty little feed, and that's what I done. Well, Sunday morning I steered up to the curbstone in front and loaded in that little bunch of sugar and sunshine and we started for the tall and uncult.

We were moseying along on the Ager road, when ZOWIE!!! away went a back tire. Well, I unloaded and fixed the little Princess comfortably in the shade and went to work. I had one of them little vulcanizing outfits and a Diamond inside casing patch that I got down to the Diamond Tire and Vulcanizing Company on Sixth street, that I've been tellin' you about, and inside of five minutes was all ready to pull out. I said, "Come on, Girlie," and she said: "Why, Bud, have you got that fixed already? My, but you are fast, and I didn't hear you swear once." Say, Jack, them things only cost me two-fifty, but right then I felt like they were worth two hundred and fifty.

Well, we had stopped in a pretty little spot, and there was a little spring handy, and instead of climbin' in and goin' further, we decided to camp right there, and we got the grub box and spread our lunch, an' went to it, and believe me, we eat up that extra casing clean as a whistle, an' it was worth more than I ever thought a tire could be. An' believe me, if I had the nerve of a poisoned pup I'd settled that boardin' house problem forever. I tried, honest, but every time I'd open up the conversation the clutch would stick, and the transmission wouldn't work worth a darn, an' I never could get in the high. Maybe the name of the road had something to do with it, for I sure had the Ager.—BUD.

Say, Jack, Listen: You can get any of that truck you need down at the Diamond Tire and Vulcanizing Co., and believe me, when you need it, it's worth a hundred times what you paid for it.—BUD.

R. R. EXPERTS UPHOLD BEND

WISE ONES OF ADMINISTRATION
PAT BEND ON BACK AND DE-
CLARE SHE HAS DONE COR-
RECT THING IN QUITTING
STRAHORN.

BEND, April 29.—Vindication of the stand taken by the Bend Commercial club Friday, in the refusal of that organization to indorse the proposed Strahorn railroad extension to Klamath Falls, was given Saturday in a statement by R. H. Alshon, regional director, who headed a party of federal railroad administration directors visiting Bend. The members of the party were guests of the Bend Commercial club at luncheon.

"The matter of a southern extension is one in which the government administration is naturally not particularly interested," Mr. Alshon said, "but I consider that Bend has taken the proper attitude in the matter. With the future of the railroads in doubt, and no one knowing how long the roads will be under government control, or how soon they will be turned back to their owners, a southern extension at this time would be, to say the least, premature. If it is found that such construction is needed and that the government is to remain in control for a long period of time, an improvement of the kind would probably be advisable, and if, on the other hand, the corporate interests resume control and consider that extension is advisable, it is probable that this would be done."

M. J. Grounley, assistant regional director, and L. C. Gilman, district director, concurred in the opinions expressed by Mr. Alshon.

The above sort of slush, which was palavered out to the Bend Commercial club officials assembled at a meeting Saturday afternoon, is the sort of stuff that might be expected from the directors of a system that has put the railroads of the nation into a hole that will take at least a decade of the best business management to bring them out of.

It is the sort of an opinion that might be expected from "officials" who have made a joke of the biggest business operation in the United States.

If the people of Central Oregon will just kindly wait for 15 or 20 years until the government finds out whether the proposed improvement is advisable, the matter may be taken up for consideration, if nothing happens to interfere, provided everything is all right.

"The matter of a southern extension is one in which the administration is not particularly interested," says Mr. Alshon, and he is quite right. It is also probable that the administration will not be found "particularly interested" in any other extension, when the facts of the matter are brought to light. The quickest way for the people of Central Oregon to develop their country is to do it themselves by getting behind Robert Strahorn and staying behind him.

The action of the Bend aggregation in turning traitor to Robert E. Strahorn after making him the overtures that caused him to make his heavy investments in time and money, has branded the men who have heretofore been regarded enterprising and loyal, as a bunch of quitters and the tools of the big interests who dictate their action.

That these men were capable of deliberately turning down their pact with the settlers of Eastern Oregon who have held on to their homes and homesteads in the hope of seeing this development proceed and pinned their faith on Bend, Klamath Falls and Portland, is hard to believe, but the settlers have nothing of this kind to fear from Klamath Falls.

We're not quitters in Klamath Falls.

LIBERTY CAR CROSSES ANDES

PORTLAND, April 29.—(Emp) motorist in the country is familiar with some difficult climb or other which they consider a hard test for any automobile. However, P. V. R. Chait, a well known Los Angeles automobile man, recently returned that city with an account of a motor trip in Bolivia which took him over a pass in the Andes 19,000 feet above sea level, and he declares that in comparison, most of the grades in this country would be considered merely a patch of rising ground.

From Ocuru, Bolivia, it was 161 miles over the Andes to Uncia. The road, if you can call it such, crossed a summit of 19,000 feet and dropped again to the mines at Uncia at an elevation of 16,000 feet.

Hour after hour the Liberty Six that I drove plugged along in low gear, over rocks and sand and bearing higher summits, the water in the radiator boiled constantly, but you could take off the radiator cap and put your finger in the boiling water without the slightest discomfort, so low is the temperature at which water boils at those altitudes.
