PUBLIC SERVICE BODIES OPPOSE MR. BURLESON

SALEM, June 2—Public service commissions of the country are being lined up by Charles E. Elmquist, general solicitor for the National Association of Railway and Utility commissioners, to make a fight against remedial legislation which Postmaster General Burleson believes should accompany return of telephone and telegraph systems to private control. Mr. Elmquist has sent a letter to the commissions urging as important that they protest to their delegations in congress against remedial legislation which representatives of some of the companies assert is necessary as a safeguard for rates and to forestall bankruptcy and demoralization.

"This point will be strongly urged before the committee," says Mr. Elmquist's letter. "It is clear that the discussion of remedial legislation in connection with the return bill would postpone final action for a long time and it is even possible that this special session of congress would not have time to give thorough consideration to the problem."

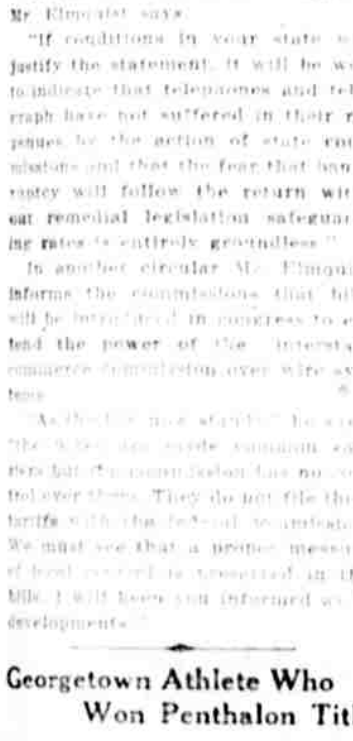
Urging the protest to congress, Mr. Elmquist says:

"If conditions in your state will justify the statement, it will be well to indicate that telephones and telegraph have not suffered in their response to the action of state commissions and that the fear that bankruptcy will follow the return without remedial legislation safeguarding rates is entirely groundless."

In another circular Mr. Elmquist informs the commissions that bills will be introduced in congress to extend the power of the interstate commerce commission over wire systems.

"As the law stands," he says, "the Secretary of Agriculture has jurisdiction over the commission but the commission has no control over them. They do not file their tariffs with the federal commission. We must see that a proper measure of local control is preserved in the bills. I will keep you informed as to developments."

Georgetown Athlete Who Won Penthalon Title



ROBERT LEGENDRE

Robert Le Gendre of Georgetown University is the new Penthalon champion, having defeated Johnny Bartels, the title holder, and a field of more than a dozen at the annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival. Le Gendre won with 24 points. Bartels, upon whom University of Pennsylvania depended to repeat his 1918 victory, wa ssecond with 20, only one point ahead of Lewis of Missouri. Le Gendre finished first in the 200-meter race, second in the broad jump, discus throw and 1500-meter race and seventh in the javelin throw. His showing was anything but flashy. But he was consistent.

ROSEBURG-CRATER LAKE ROAD COMING

PORTLAND, June 2—With the view of completing the Columbia River and Pacific highway as soon as possible so that construction work may be commenced on secondary highway, the highway commission has decided to award bids for further highway contracts at its June and July meetings. The commission further decided to open up the Crater lake cut-off from Roseburg. This will make that town 98 miles distant for the lake. The route to the lake is now via Medford, a distance of more than 200 miles.
