

Vacation Days Are Strenuous Days for The Youngsters

RACING through fields, picking daisies, running after one another, chasing butterflies, fishing, baseball, over the fences and through the brooks—that's the child's heart rejoicing in rhythm with Nature's harmony. We smile at them and then sigh at the memories they bring to us, and yet—

"Jumping Jupiter, how they do go through clothes and shoes!" Well, let 'em—it's worth it. Just dress them in "any old thing" and let 'em go it. Don't worry about shoes, either. Who wants hot, heavy, shoes in the summertime? Slip the feet in the cool, comfortable sandals and canvas footwear we are offering and turn them loose. The prices are mighty small and they possess real wear. Beats going bare-foot a mile unless stubbed toes and stone bruises have more attractions than memory brings to mind. Thistles, too. Wow!

Pa and ma are more sedate, but unless they want to cultivate soft corns and blisters they'll take a lesson from the kiddies and surround their understanding with solid comfort, too. You'll find plenty of styles, all good, at

NEED OF CLUB VERY URGENT

INTERESTS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY ARE SUFFERING BECAUSE COMMERCIAL CLUB HAS NOT BEEN REORGANIZED

The absolute necessity of a Commercial Club is becoming more and more apparent every day, an instance of the loss to the city and county thru the failure to have a live site looking after the development of the resources of this section lies in the proposed leasing of the lands of the Upper Lake. Involved in this transaction will be about ten thousand acres of land. If this land were improved under the irrigation district plan it would place the land on the tax roll within a very short time. If it is reclaimed under the proposed leasing system, it will remain the property of the government and never will be a part of the taxable property of the county, or at least not until the expiration of the time for which they are leased by the government.

Under the law recently passed by the people of the state, it would be possible to include this land in an irrigation district. The land adjoining is owned by the Weed Estate and Mr. Marsters. If these interests could be combined in an irrigation district they could force the government to put this land which the Reclamation Service proposes to lease into it. It would become immediately available for settlers and would soon be helping to pay part of the county's expenses, as well as furnishing homes for the returned soldiers, which the authorities try to make it appear they are so anxious to do.

With a well live Commercial Club's interests could be taken in hand right now and put to rest.

The same thing applies to the marsh lands of the Lower Lake section. There are several tracts of land there that could be combined into a district and reclaimed and made productive, bringing new citizens to Klamath County. This is a work for a man fitted for that class of promotion. The results would be of immeasurable benefit to this community. It is to be regretted that the reorganization of the Commercial Club has been postponed to lag, but it is not now too late to get it under full headway, and the committee that has had charge of the proceedings are sure it to gain this month's task and carry it to a successful conclusion. Those men are deserving of the unstinted praise and support of the community. They should not have to call upon the business men and property owners of the county, but they should be sought out and handed the yearly subscription contract that is a part of the program for the reviving of the Club.

ROSE FESTIVAL IS OPENED IN PORTLAND IN SOLDIERS' HONOR

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11.—Portland's annual Rose festival, which opened here today, was turned to the glorification of the men who were in the service. It will continue for three days. The arrival of a fleet of ships from Mather Field, Sacramento, was a feature of the festival's beginning. There will be daily exhibition flights and the air fleet was scheduled to visit several Oregon towns on its return journey, after the celebration here.

Warships were in the harbor today and sailors and marines from these will join with soldiers from Van-ver barracks and Camp Lewis tomorrow in a military parade. Returned overseas soldiers and national guardsmen are to have places of honor in the program.

Other festival features were a war review and Ad Club Rose Festival industrial parade held today. Oregon and Washington cities were represented by automobiles, floats firing in the public mind various patriotic achievements of each locality during the war and the Ad Clubs and industries from San Diego's British Columbia took part in an animated trade mark and industrial display.

The annual floral parade to be held tomorrow will have a patriotic motif, with a national Freedom display of floral floats. Various carnival pleasures, jazz music and street dancing every evening are planned.
