Apple Orchard, Blossom Time, Annapolis Valley, Nova Scotia

It is apple blossom time in Nova Scotia, land of Evangeline and the Acadians. Just now there is a hundred fold of apple blossoms around quaint Annapolis Valley—just as superb in their fragrance and peaceful beauty as they were in the time of which Longfellow wrote his famous poem.

quiet beauty—a nursery of other times, and one feels a haunting mystery while standing gazing at Cape Blomidon, which in turn still looks compassed, safely down on the sands where the Acadians were embarked on their sad journey. Tall wreath-like ships glide by the mouth of the Gaspereau River—dream ships, riding on a river of dreams. The Great Magician has laid his wondrous spell upon the land.

there is by boat from Yarmouth, N. S., and then the Dominion Atlantic Railway to Wolfville or Grand Falls, the heart of the Acadian country, where a statue is erected to the memory of Evangeline by the distinguished French Canadian sculptor, Philippe Hebert. Many people go there in the late summer, too, to take part in the Cherry Carnival at Bear River, with its rustic sports and hospitality like that of old England in the days gone by. Last year as many as four thousand visitors descended on this little town whose total population is less than this number, so far and wide has the fame of Bear River spread.

JUDGE LINDSEY WILL GO TO JAIL

RATHER THAN PAY A FINE FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT IN THE FAMOUS NEAL WRIGHT CASE.

DENVER, Colo., June 17.—Ben E. Lindsey, judge of Denver's juvenile court, will go to jail before he will pay a fine of $500 for contempt of the criminal court here, he has announced. The Colorado supreme court, on June 2, denied Judge Lindsey's petition for a rehearing. The judge had fifteen days to pay or go to jail, if the court insisted.

the judge about the shooting of Neal's father. Neal's mother was on trial charged with murder. Neal was the only eye witness. Mrs. Wright was acquitted. Judge Lindsey refused to testify at the trial, insisting that whatever information he possessed regarding the killing had been given him by the boy in confidence and he could not and would not violate the boy's confidence. Soon after the trial, John A. Perry, then judge of the criminal court, found his fellow-judge guilty of contempt of court and assessed the $500 fine. Judge Lindsey appealed to the supreme court. The fine was upheld by a majority of the justices—three of them, however, dissenting. On June 2, last, the Colorado supreme court denied Judge Lindsey a rehearing.

venile court is one of the oldest in the United States, all other courts look to it to uphold its rights. And one of these is that a relation of circumstances given in confidence to a juvenile court judge is not to be used in any other proceedings. "The judge has received letters from many of the judges throughout the United States urging him to maintain his stand. Various children's agencies have offered to pay the fine for him. "No matter what the supreme court decided, I still believe and will always believe that what Neal Wright told me was told me in strictest confidence and that I would have been unworthy to hold the position I now hold if I had testified," said Judge Lindsey. "The fact that four justices of the supreme court says I was wrong does not make it so. I am not going to pay that fine, because if I did I would admit I was wrong."

A HANDSOME SIGN.

The handsomest and most artistic sign in the city has just been executed by F. D. Miles, of the Miles Sign company for K. Sugarman, and has been placed on the pillar at the entrance to Mr. Sugarman's store at Sixth and Main street. The now familiar motto "I ain't mad at nobody," is at the top of the sign. "Sugarman" in the center and "The home of Hart, Schaffner and Marx Clothes" at the bottom. It is executed in gold leaf and black and Mr. Miles has good reason to feel proud of the result of his brush. It is a new departure in the matter of signs and is another sign of the steady stride of the city towards the donning of metropolitan habiliments.

HERE FROM MEDFORD.
