Willbar Nine, accompanied by his sister, Miss Iva Nine passed thru here yesterday on their way to Chiloquin. They will visit their brother, Prescott, who recently purchased the Chiloquin hotel. Since taking over the Hotel property Mr. Nine has improved it to a great extent, having built an addition to the building and in the near future a confectionary shop will be opened in it.

Clay Radcliff, who spends much of his time camping and fishing along the upper lake during the summer was in town yesterday and he reports fine fishing in all the streams in the vicinity. Mr. Radcliff says also that the fish are especially large this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Cheyne and children, accompanied by Mrs. Cheyne's sister, Julia McReynolds, left yesterday morning in their car for a visit to their old home in The Dalles. Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cheyne with their children, Nellie, Mylo, Edith is manager of the Chiloquin hotel and is building a new home at that place for his family.

W. R. Wiley left this morning as a delegate to the National Elks' convention to be held in Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Wiley will be gone three or four weeks and expects to visit his old home in Washington, D.C., before returning. His friends said this morning that there was a method in this business man's madness, as they had almost positive proof that Mr. Wiley intended taking in the Willard-Dempsey prize-fight on the Fourth at Toledo, Ohio.

Gene Garrett left this morning for Portland, where he will secure a new 2 1/2-ton Federal truck, which "The Garage" Construction company has purchased through the Eastern Oregon Auto company. He will drive it through from Portland. It is to be used in connection with the extensive paving operations in this city.

And Axel, one of the pioneers of the good better of the West, and whose name has been a household word among the early settlers, is in the city from Agor, Calif.

J. F. Garrett made a business trip to Grants today, and he said it was strictly business, too. So his friends need not be any more cordial in their greetings for the next day or two, for J. F. says there's "nuthin' doin'."

Hat, sunshade and frock of the same material is a fashion idea which grows and grows in summer favor with the average woman and this season is reaching its zenith for costumes for late July and August wear. This fetching costume of white handkerchief linen, embroidered in a conventional checked design in French blue. The little peasant neck and undersleeves are of white organdie tied at throat and wrist with tiny blue bows. The narrow girdle is faced with blue organdie.

WATER

Just a few years ago the City of Klamath Falls was "Up against it." Perhaps there wasn't one person in five hundred knew it, but, nevertheless, it was a fact.

The situation was critical, the future of the City hung in the balance. Few realized, busy in their everyday affairs, that the Queen City of Southern Oregon, standing as she does on the banks of a great river and touching with her boundaries two great lakes, was famished for water.

There was "Water, water everywhere, but not a drop to drink;" it was starvation in a land of plenty, for the water of these big lakes and in the river was tulle soaked and germ contained.

The only available supply was being pumped from an open spring into distributing reservoirs, but the quality was questioned and the supply inadequate.

Something had to be done; something was done! And today the City of Klamath Falls is possessed of an abundant supply of the purest artesian water in the world.

Three 12-inch wells were drilled through hard rock, one to a depth of 78 feet, one to 80 feet and one to 160 feet, from which pure, cold, clear water gushed. These wells were cased, capped and sealed, and it is from these rock covered strata that the water used in the City today is being pumped—water free from contamination of any kind, for it does not see the light of day until it pours into the reservoir, and then only until it again runs away into the mains to serve you at the faucet.
