At the Theatres

Tom Moore's brilliant performance in "Thirty a Week" gives Goldwyn further proof that, in responding to public clamor and the requests of hundreds of theatre owners throughout the country that the popular young artist be given his rightful place among the famous group of Goldwyn stars, no mistake was made.

Immensely popular as a stage play, Thompson Buchanan's story is a triumph in its picture form. Splendid as Tom Moore was in his first Goldwyn starring vehicle, "Just for Tonight," his delightful acting in "Thirty a Week" and the play's many absorbing situations insure it even greater success than was accorded the production which introduced Tom Moore as Goldwyn's only man star.

The smiling personality that has endeared Tom Moore to motion picture devotees everywhere and the inimitable artistry that goes with it are afforded wide scope in "Thirty a Week" than in any other picture in which the popular player has been seen. Goldwyn promises are rare treats when Tom Moore is presented in "Thirty a Week" at the Star Theatre, beginning Sunday.

Lillian Walker does an act with three large lions at the Liberty Theatre tonight, where her newest picture, "Love Hunger," is on view. Adapted from "Fran," the novel by John Breckenridge Ellis, it is the story of a young girl lion tamer who finds unhappiness in the family where she seeks a home and attempts to remove the cause. How she succeeds in doing this makes "Love Hunger" a most interesting and dramatic story of mystery and romance, relieved by some bright comedy.

JACK DEMPSEY WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP

His swings were wild and feeble. He managed to last three rounds and sank into his corner where he was given spirits of ammonia. He revived, attempted to smile, and then his seconds surrendered the match. Thoroughly beaten and dazed, he said, "In the first round when Dempsey hit me with a left hook I tried hard to continue but I was rapidly losing my strength. My eye was closed at the end of the third round and I realized that it would be useless for me to continue, as I could hardly see. It is hard to admit defeat, but Dempsey is the hardest puncher I ever faced."

No challenger finished his antagonist so skillfully and quickly as Jack Dempsey did in yesterday's big bout and no champion ever fell so easily and pitifully as Jess Willard.

The fight by rounds as given out from the ringside at Toledo follows:

Round one.—Willard landed the first blow, a light left to the head. He then sent a right and left to Dempsey's head. Dempsey hooked a left to Willard's stomach. Dempsey missed a right to Willard's head. Willard snapped a left to jaw. Dempsey knocked Willard down with a right to the jaw twice. The champion took the count of six each time. When he got up Dempsey knocked him down with lefts and rights to the jaw. The challenger tore into him and knocked him down for the third time, flooring him with rights and lefts to the jaw.

Round two.—Dempsey rushed Willard in his corner, pounding his jaw with rights and lefts. The champion's right eye was rapidly closing. Dempsey walked around Willard, carefully measuring him with rights and lefts to the jaw. Willard seemed dazed. Dempsey put three lefts to Willard's bad eye. Willard landed a feeble uppercut. Willard's eye was almost closed. The champion staggered to his corner at the end of the round.

Round three.—Dempsey hit Willard twice with lefts to the jaw. Dempsey sent a right to the jaw and a left to the body. Dempsey kept peppering lefts to Willard's jaw without a return from Willard. Dempsey backed the champion to the ropes and hammered him with lefts and rights to the jaw and body. Dempsey hit a right and a left to the head and had blood streaming from the champion's mouth. Dempsey hit the champion with rights and lefts to the jaw as the bell rang. Willard's seconds threw the sponge in the ring as Willard lay helpless in his corner.

"Folks Would Pester Me"

Somebody asked an old Missouri store-keeper why he didn't put a small advertisement in the local newspaper to advertise a "home blend" of coffee that was particularly good.

"I don't wanta," he replied lazily. "If I did, folks would pester me all the time to show 'em my goods." Thus did an old Missouri store-keeper pay unconscious tribute to the business-getting value of advertising. He missed a lot of business, of course, but there's another side of it.

Lots of people who really wanted this particular brand of coffee were unable to get it because no one ever told them where it was to be had.

You know yourself that it would take you twice as long to shop if there were no advertisements to guide you in your buying. You wouldn't know where to start. You'd miss a lot of good values just because no one ever told you about them.

The man who advertises is glad to have you "pester him" to show you his goods. Don't miss the advertisements. They will save you money.
