

At the Theatres

An ideal cast has been provided for Wallace Reid in his latest Paramount photoplay "The House of Silence," which will be the feature at the Star Theatre tonight. Chief among his support is Ann Little, one of the most charming of screen actresses, who appeared with him in "Nan of Music Mountain" and "Rock Jones," both Paramount pictures. Others in the cast are Adele Farrington, who will be seen as an adventuress, Winter Hall, Ernest Joy and V. A. Barrow.

As its title indicates, "The House of Silence" is a mysterious romance that involves the slaying by a young woman of a man in defence of her honor, she employing a hatpin for that fell purpose; the tracing of the slayer by an amateur wealthy detective, and the revelation of the secret of the house by him after a series of tensely interesting happenings. The picture is one of exceptional merit, the photography excellent, and it is in every respect worthy of the commendatory reviews which have been accorded it elsewhere since its release.

Every woman, old or young, married or single, optimist or chronic grouch, will find herself gripped in the spell of "The Silver Girl," starring the distinguished character actor, Frank Keenan, which will be shown at the Liberty Theatre tonight. It is a big, 100 per cent man play and a woman's great problem. Young, beautiful and attractive, how would you have acted, Madame or Miss, were you married to a man old enough to be your father and young and life, with all its glitter and snail-low gaieties called to you? No answer can be given until it is seen to what extent "The Silver Girl" was tried and tested. But in the end, she proved, not silver, but pure gold.

This Pathe Extra Selected Star Photoplay is an adaptation by Jack Cunningham of Edward Peffer's Broadway stage success, with George Fawcett in the principal role. The screening of "The Silver Girl" again effectively demonstrates how the wide, inclusive medium of the cinema under skilled direction and finished mimetic art, may far surpass the results of the spoken stage and give in scenes and character, a sense of absolute reality.

Mr. Keenan here finds a field of histrionic exploitation a measurable distance beyond even his brilliant achievement in "The Belles" and "The Midnight Stage," both of which gave the largest measure of distinction to the late Henry Irving; for "The Silver Girl" is a story of familiars, with direct cumulative action and a modern theme—modern and yet ages old—the disparity between the spirit-attitude of a woman's life and the rugged winters of a man; youth and age, which Nature would separate as the poles, but which in this instance, thru the craft of the dramatist and the artistry of the actor, logically compels sympathy and approval in their making. O love tale of old and young with charm of fresh romance; with what seems the inexorable working of the law and the poignant pathos of it—and an ending contrary to all conventions but which, thru the very character of the man and the woman, was the inevitable one.

Mr. Keenan, who, besides directing the production, dominated it as an actor, brought to the difficult part of a deft psychology and utility of small detail that make it both convincing and profoundly impressive. Don't miss seeing it!

Just Remember this. The dates for the Elks' Convention are August 14, 15 and 16. Get ready.

GHEENT CONCERNED OVER PLANT RULE

BRUSSELS, July 8.—The City of Ghent, which is noted for its magnificent botanic garden, is greatly concerned over the ruling of the American Department of Agriculture, prohibiting the importation of live plants owing to danger of insect infection. It is stated that this will mean a yearly loss of business amounting to two million francs.

As no shipments have been made to America for the last three years, it is felt that Americans have no proof as to the existence of insect menace and the authorities have requested through the Consular channels that an American expert be sent to Ghent to test the soil and plants, in the hope that the prohibition will be withdrawn.

Former Crown Prince, Before His Escape, as He Looked in Dutch Costume.

Ex-Crown Prince of Germany Representatives of the Big Three in Paris have been informed that Friedrich Wilhelm Hohenzollern, formerly crown prince of Germany, has escaped from Holland and is in Germany. There has been much speculation as to the reason for his flight from his place of exile on the Island of Wieringen, but it is believed that it is connected with a royalist plot. This photograph, taken at Wieringen, shows the exile in Dutch costume, wooden shoes included.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE TO HAIR

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

RED CROSS MISSION HELPS RUSSIANS

ST. NAZAIRE, July 8.—A Red Cross mission to take 3,000 tons of clothing, food and medical supplies to the Cossack soldiers and civilians of the Kuban district of Russia, on the eastern coast of the Black Sea, will soon leave here headed by Major

Robert Davis of New York City, and Captain Henry Adams of Boston. The expedition has an army hospital of 500 beds and several soup kitchens. These supplies will be landed at Novorossiisk on the Black Sea.

SHOOT SAGE HENS AFTER JULY FIFTEEN

Many inquiries are being made as to the date on which sage hens may be shot, and Game Warden Stout says that this may be done between July 15 and August 31. "This season will be the best for hunting sage hens that we have had for many years," said Mr. Stout, "as there are a great many of them in various sections of the county, and I rather expect that hunters will be well awarded during the open season. The limit is five hens for any one day or ten for one week."

The question whether this is true has been put in Parliament and the financial secretary to the War Office replied that in no case have sufficient particulars been supplied to enable the statement to be investigated; that without any particulars it was, however, possible to give a definite assurance, that at no time had the British censorship been employed to help British firms at the expense of their rivals in allied or neutral countries.

"Meats in Storage"

Every working day of the year 75,000,000 pounds of meat are required to supply home and export needs—and only 10 per cent of this is exported.

These facts must be kept in mind when considering the U. S. Bureau of Markets report that on June 1, 1919, there were 1,348,000,000 pounds of meats in cold storage. If the meat in storage was placed on the market it would only be 20 days' supply.

This meat is not artificially withheld from trade channels to maintain or advance prices.

- Meats in storage consist of—
- 65 per cent (approximate) hams, bacon, etc., in process of curing. It takes 30 to 90 days in pickle or salt to complete the process.
 - 10 per cent is frozen pork that is to be cured later in the year.
 - 6 per cent is lard. This is only four-fifths of a pound per capita, and much of it will have to go to supply European needs.
 - 19 per cent is frozen beef and lamb, part of which is owned by the Government and was intended chiefly for over-seas shipment. If this were all diverted to domestic trade channels, it would be only 1 1/2 lbs. per capita—a 3 days' supply.
- 100%

From this it will be seen that "meats in storage" represent merely unfinished goods in process of curing and the working supply necessary to assure the consumer a steady flow of finished product.

IT'S A POOR DOCTOR Who Won't Take His Own Medicine

THAT'S WHY WE ARE USING THIS SPACE TO TELL YOU WHAT JOLLY LITTLE BUSINESS STIMULATORS HERALD WANT ADS ARE—AND WHY THEY GET RESULTS

THERE IS NO GUESSWORK about a Herald Want Ad. They do the business. We know they pay. Our customers have told us so time and again. We have used them ourselves and they have never failed to get results. They are the short cut to a quick turn-over—the modern method of merchandising on a small scale, where the value of the article to be sold or the importance of the want to be filled will not justify a heavy outlay.

If you had something to sell, trade or give away and went out on the street and told each person you met about what you wanted to do, you might get results—but the people you talked to would be very likely to say: "That poor fish has bats in his belfry." If, on the other hand, you used a Want Ad, you would talk to the whole county at once, instead of only one person, and do it in a businesslike manner.

The same rule applies to hiring help, renting a house, looking for a job, or any one of the important little incidents of life where you must call in the assistance of someone outside your immediate family. You MIGHT get results by telling your troubles to the neighbors—but the certain, quick and economical way is to use a little classified ad.

Do you want to buy, sell or trade, want to hire help or find work; do you want to find a room, a house to rent, or to rent the same to someone else; do you want to call attention to some new feature of your business, seek information on some subject, or have you any little unfilled want?
