LONDON SOCIETY TAKES TEA WITH DIGNITARIES

LONDON, July 25.—English society took its tea recently in the lawn of Buckingham Palace, the guest of King George and Queen Mary. It was a simple affair, their Majesties moving about among their friends, stopping now and then to greet this one or shake hands with that one while on their way from the palace to the pavilion where they too had tea.

The scene was brilliant. The weather did very well, for while it was cloudy there was no rain. Scores upon scores of richly dressed women walked and chatted with distinguished general and admirals in full regiments, or went over the political situation with statesmen, of whom there were a great many there from every party.

The king and queen came out from the palace at four o'clock, and the nearest hand played the national anthem. The whole of the great company stood still, and then began to flow with one accord toward their majesties. From that time for two hours, the "garden party" was just what it was intended to be.

The queen was dressed in a striking robe of sapphire, brocaded silk and the Princess Mary, who followed her mother, wore pink and white satin. The king had discarded his familiar field marshal's uniform and appeared in the high hat and frock coat of other peace days. He was in good humor, and spent most of his time talking to the soldiers and sailors who sought him out. The queen paid particular attention to the "new and the young," as one who was there put it, but did not neglect her old friends.

The socially ambitious were not prevented in person to their majesties—the mere fact of their being taken as proof positive they had entered the coveted realm. Also it gave the king and queen more time to enjoy themselves, along with a trying, if spectacular, ceremony.

At the Theatres

The Liberty Theatre will have as its chief attraction today Tom Mix, the cowboy star, in a William Fox Production, "Hell Roarin' Reform." Among the stirring things Mix does are a wild ride down the side of a steep mountain and a leap on horseback from a balcony to a roof, man and horse dropping through the roof.

Why do wives apparently without reason to the outside world, suddenly leave their husbands and seek the divorce courts? There are many reasons doubtless of which the general public is unaware, but a novel one is introduced in "Don't Change Your Husband," the new Cecil B. DeMille Artercraft photoplay which will be displayed at the Star Theatre today. It is a novel picture in every respect and wonderfully presented. Gloria Swanson, one of the loveliest women of the screen, has the leading feminine role and Elliott Dexter shares with Lewis Cody the honors of the male characterizations.

Joan MacPherson is the author. It is an original story presenting the woman's viewpoint on a question rather pertinently put in "Old Wives for New," by David Graham Phillips, which Mr. DeMille recently produced. But this is not a sequel to that story. On the contrary, it is an entirely new and original photoplay with a wealth of novel quality and a beauty that is indescribable. It is one of the real high art pictures of the year. Its entertaining features are so pronounced that it stands quite alone, in this and in many other respects.

COST OF LIVING WILL NOT FALL

Philadelphia Board of Trade Compiles Statistics Which Indicate No Drop in Living Costs

PHILADELPHIA, July 25.—The cost of living is still high for a long time to come is the opinion of the Philadelphia Board of Trade. This view is a result of compilation of statistics from various lines of trade and industry.

According to those figures the advance in prices in this country since 1914 has been about 107 percent, in Canada 117 percent, Great Britain 133 percent and France 273 percent. It is pointed out that, in some special cases, reductions in the price of food and the advance in other commodities since the armistice has been so great that the average price schedule has been reduced but 5.7 percent below prices prevailing October 1, 1918.

The following are given as reasons why wages will not be much less for a considerable period of time: Practical stoppage of immigration since 1914, depriving this country of several millions of workers, who would normally have come to us and thus have relieved the labor shortage which confronts American industry upon the resumption of capacity operations.

Retention in the Government military service of nearly 2,000,000 workers, which, it is declared, will doubtless continue an indefinite period.

Creation of new industries, such as shipbuilding, manufacture of chemicals and dyes.

Urgent demand for building and construction of every class due to their having been forcibly held back for several years.

Shortage of world food supplies and uniformly high prices. Proportionately higher levels of commodity prices existing throughout Europe.

Don't forget; the Elks will have a convention here August 14, 15 and 16. Get busy!
