TUBERCULAR PATIENTS TO HAVE PERMANENT HOME. SACRAMENTO, CAL., AUG. 4.—A permanent home in the vicinity of Colfax, Cal., for the treatment of tubercular patients is the aim of the Sacramento County Tuberculosis Association. A site has been observed free and it is hoped to raise $1,000 thru the sale of Christmas seals, next December, to erect a building. At present the association has hundreds of Sacramento children in a temporary camp in the vicinity.

WILL FIGHT FIRE WITH CHEMICALS. BAKERSFIELD, CAL., AUG. 4.—Fires that occur in the great oil storage reservoirs on the "tank farms" of the Kern River oil fields near here will be smothered by a new system of fire control adopted by one of the largest operating companies in California. Used in the new fire fighting plan is a liquid effervescent chemical extremely opposed to fire. It is formed by mixing two separate fluids

These when merged were spread as a seething, foaming mass upon the surface of the burning oil and exhaustive tests are said to have shown that it will quickly extinguish the fiercest oil tank fire. The big containers for the fluid are connected with the various oil tanks so that in case of fire it is necessary to turn on one main valve merging the fluids and leading to the particular tank involved. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been lost in fires in oil storage reservoirs. The "tank farms" comprised of idle land on which are located scores of concrete reservoirs each with a capacity of 5,000 barrels or more of oil. The petroleum when ignited in one tank frequently will flow over and small rivers of flame set on fire oil in nearby reservoirs. The "farms" have been the scenes of many costly and spectacular fires. Mrs. Henry Schmoor came in from her home in the Swan Lake Valley this morning to purchase supplies for the haying crews that are at work on the Schmoor ranch.

Advertisement for H. Liebes & Co. Annual Summer Sale of Furs. Includes text: 'ANNUAL SUMMER SALE of FURS Begins Monday, August 4--9 A. M. NOT a clearance sale of out-of-date furs—the vast majority of the furs in this unique Sale are in modes that are authentically correct for Fall and Winter. If You Could See This Annual Liebes Fur Sale With the Eyes of a Furrier You Would Realize What an Enormously Important Event It Is. IN THE recent great raw fur auctions in New York, attended by fur dealers from all over the world, advances of 75 to 100 per cent were reported in the prices of furs due to the pelt scarcity and the unprecedented demand for furs in Europe. And this, of course, means higher and higher prices for manufactured furs as the fall season advances—despite which fact you now may buy Liebes furs at 20 to 50 per cent off our present prices. Our regular prices are as low as they are—because we gather our own pelts and manufacture our own furs; and because we have immense reserve stocks of dressed skins which were bought on the lower markets. HERE, then, is the significance of this sale to you: You may buy your furs now and save 20 to 50 per cent on our present regular prices. You may wait until after the sale and pay the regular prices. You may wait until later in the fall or winter and pay the still higher prices that are bound to come. "After August Prices," Quoted Below Will Be Maintained Only so Long as Our Stocks Will Permit—Because of the Rising Market Conditions.
