PUBLIC MAY SEE WONDER ISLAND

Island Near Santa Cruz Involved in Lawsuit Which May Result in Giving the General Public Access to Famous Spot.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Aug. 16.—If a suit recently filed in the Santa Barbara County Superior Court is successful, one of the wonder-spots of the Pacific Coast will be thrown open to the public. The suit, which is brought by Aglae S. Capucio against Arthur J. Fred F. and Albina C. Cairre, the Santa Cruz Island company, and others, involves the ownership of Santa Cruz, the largest of the channel islands, which lies within thirty miles of the main land opposite Santa Barbara, and is little known because of present inaccessibility.

The island was secured from the government many years ago by Justinian Cairre and his family, who formed the Santa Cruz Island company as a holding corporation. On Cairre's death the widow, holding one-half the stock, combined her interests with those of one of her children, thus exercising complete control of the company and the island. A recent failure to pay the annual corporation tax gave the other heirs an opportunity to attack this control. It is believed by some of the protesting heirs, will result in the corporation's being dissolved, and the property divided into parcels, in accordance with the stock holdings.

Santa Cruz contains about 67,000 acres. The north side of it is precipitous, a mountain chain running the entire length, but there is a good harbor at the other end. The south side is exposed to the full force of the Pacific, and there is no landing place.

There is a small settlement upon it. Part of the land is devoted to sheep grazing and part to wine grape cultivation, but the greater part is wild.

The waters about the island teem with fish and abalone. For a large part of the shore line the cliffs are honeycombed with caves. Some of these great holes are gaudy with wonderful combinations of colors, suggesting camouflage. The sea rushes in at high tide and the caves are filled with queer sounds, likened to the moaning and groaning of giants. Practically every seal in vaudeville or in circuses which shows exceptional intelligence comes from Santa Cruz.

LIQUOR CHEAP OVER MEXICO

Booze Most Plentiful Since Prohibition Went Into Effect in United States—May Manufacture New Drink for the Thirsty.

DOUGLAS, ARIZ., Aug. 16.—Though death has been the penalty pronounced by General P. Elias Calles, Governor of Sonora, Mexico, for the making or selling of liquors in that state, public sentiment was so strongly against the decree that, while arrests were being made in other parts of the state in the Capitol Hermosillo, recently liquor never was more plentiful nor cheaper since prohibition first went into effect in 1915.

Americans reaching here recently from Hermosillo said beer was being sold at $25 gold a case of 60 pints and tequila was selling at $5 a quart.

Not long ago, 50 cases or 600 bottles of tequila, seized in all parts of Sonora, were publicly destroyed. The liquor was poured into the gutter in front of the governor's palace. Americans who witnessed the destruction said that a number of peons were on hand with cups and when the liquor was poured into the gutter scooped up enough to get riotously drunk.

During the period when the death penalty was in force until it was repealed early in July, not a single execution had taken place.

Adolfo de la Huerta, the governor elect, and the state congress are reported to be prepared early in September, when they take office, to put in effect a law re-opening saloons in Sonora for the sale of light wines and beer. At present there are a number of buildings in Agua, Naca and Nogales, Sonora, being remodeled for saloon purposes.

Mr. de la Huerta is said to have been approached recently by representatives of the people of the Alamos and Sahuaripa district or counties, with the petition that the manufacture and sale of mescal distilled from the Maguay, a species of cactus, be permitted.

SHOULD JOIN GOOD IN CHARACTERS OF VARIOUS PEOPLES

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal., Aug. 16.—Americanization work should result in incorporating in our national character the good in foreign peoples, Henry K. Norton, executive officer for the state immigration and housing commission, said tonight in addressing the Congress of Reformers being held here under direction of the W. C. T. U. of California. "It should be a matter of sympathetic co-operation with the immigrant rather than compelling him to assume American forms," said Mr. Norton. The congress will close tomorrow night, after having discussed plans for world wide prohibition.
