Have You Got a Robe

If you haven't, you need one, for right now in the glorious Indian Summer of the Klamath Country, is the one time of the year when everybody—rich and poor, big and little, old and young—yearns for the great outdoors—longs to get out in the wildwood, along the streams, next to the big and little lakes, and spend a few hours, at least, each week communing with our great Mother Nature, and recuperate from the year-old strain of gaining a livelihood.

No matter whether your car is a $500 jitney or a $5,000 palace on wheels, you will need a robe, and a good one, and you will need it mighty soon, for even now the evenings are warning you that before long it will be a little bit crimp coming home.

Marple & Smith, of the Diamond T. & V. Co., have just received a shipment of robes that will please you, no matter how fastidious, and they are the very latest things manufactured in that line. Drop in and size them up.

VOLCANIC PEAKS ERUPT IN ALASKA

Scientists Sent North by the National Geographic Society See the Peaks Erupt—Many People Visit the Country.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 22.—Volcanic peaks in the far southwestern corner of Alaska are in eruption this summer evidently for the benefit of a party of scientists sent by the National Geographic Society to study Mount Katmai, the greatest of Alaska's smoking mountains, and its "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes."

Persons who have returned recently from the volcanic country to the westward said Shishaldin Peak, on Unimak Island, in the Aleutian chain, was in eruption recently. They also reported it was believed Mount Bayloff on the southwestern Alaskan mainland, also had spouted as the snow about the summit was coal black.

When the party of scientists left Anchorage, Alaska, on their way to the Katmai country, they said they believed there was little likelihood of an eruption this summer and declared they were certain there was the investigation. Katmai's last big "blow off" was in June, 1912.

The party of twenty-six scientists is headed by Professor Robert A. Griggs of the University of Ohio, and some are from Carnegie Institute. They are planning to make observations of the botanical, biological and geological effects of the 1912 eruption.

In 1913 Professor Griggs headed a party of scientists to Katmai and returned with the announcement that the crater was the largest on the globe and that near Katmai lay a great valley whose floor was dotted with thousands of mouths grey vapory gas and smoke. This valley, Professor Griggs named "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes." Instead of ten thousand it is said there are literally millions of smoking vents.

Congress recently set aside "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," as national property and it is believed that some day it will be a second Yellowstone geyser field. Steaming springs, it is said, will eventually take the place of the present smoking vents.

Professor Griggs and his party expect to remain in the Katmai district until the middle of September. Until they return nothing probably will be heard from them as there is no direct means of communication. Mrs. Griggs and her children accompanied the professor to Kodiak, an island near Katmai, and will remain there during the summer waiting for him to return.

Moving pictures of the smoking mountain and valley are to be brought back by the party.

RECEIVES MEDAL FOR SERVICES AS MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITOR.

He was far from the shot and shell but he has been awarded a medal made from captured German cannon.

J. V. Houston recently received from the Treasury Department a medal for work well done as a motion picture exhibitor. Medals of a similar nature have been awarded to motion picture exhibitors over the country, who "carried on" after the guns were silenced and aided materially in sending the Victory Liberty Loan to an over-subscription. An extract from the letter from the Treasury Department is as follows: "We can but thank you for a service for which your only recompense is the knowledge that you, served America and served her well. It is the wish of the government that the enclosed medal, made from German cannon captured by our American 'Dough boys' may bring you pleasant memories in the years to come."

The services of the War Labor Board at Washington were recently required to settle the question whether union buttons should be worn by employes of the Toledo trolley lines.

PERKINS FURNITURE HOUSE

Now that the Elks have come and gone, we can get down to normal times again, and have a few minutes to plan for our new rug or rocker, or maybe a dining room suite. Also, you had better look that old stove over and decide to trade it in for a new range... Oh, yes; I have received my long-looked-for refrigerators, and if you need one you can save a bit of money by buying now. If it is a trade you have, call Perkins; if it is a sale you want, call Perkins; if it is to be repaired, call Perkins. Anyway, if you want to buy a new piece of furniture it will pay you to look our stock over before you buy. Bring your catalog in, and let's compare prices; mayhap I can secure you just what you want at the price you want to pay.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than is absorbed into the blood. It is the to cure states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating thru the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water, and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.—Adv.

RIGHT AND WRONG WAYS

When you write the amount of a check upon the second line, start it as far to the left as possible. Then fill in the remainder of the line with a heavy wavy pen stroke. In this way substitution can be made neither before or after the amount you have written without detection.
