Monday Is Labor Day

We will close all day Monday. Service will be given hotels and restaurants Sunday to carry them over Monday. Our regular Monday pick-up of laundry will be taken care of on Tuesday.

Speaking again of Japs—two more of the little fellows have arrived and have taken the places of two white women who were working at the Your Home Laundry. The white women are looking for work. This is only a beginning. Others will follow, depending upon the number of business men and working men who prefer a Yellow Peril to supporting the white labor of the city. Some of them still persist in patronizing the Japs, but we are glad to say the number is getting smaller all the time. We are preparing a list of them for publication so that you may know who it is that prefer Japanese triumph over white labor.

We employ only white labor, and operate our laundry under strictly sanitary conditions.
