Letters From The People

Klamath Stockmen returning from the Cascades are somewhat exercised over the proposition to extend the limits of the present Crater National Park so as to include Diamond Lake, which lies about six miles north of the present Crater Lake National Park.

The proposition advanced by the Park Service is to extend the present boundaries of the present Crater Lake National Park about nine miles directly north, which would take in all of Diamond Lake, with a considerable area lying between Crater Lake and Diamond Lake, which is now used by stockmen for grazing purposes. It should be understood that the area around Diamond Lake is now part of the Umpqua National Forest and as such is open to the public for every purpose, including grazing of live stock on the ranges in its vicinity. The Forest Service is doing all in its power to develop this area and has reserved from grazing all necessary lands upon which tourists with live stock may camp and enjoy themselves.

The placing of the area within the Park immediately stops the grazing of live stock upon it and, in addition thereto, forces every visitor to the area to pay the usual fee of $2.50 for entering the Park. The Forest Service charges nothing whatever for autos or other vehicles entering the Forest. The well established policy of the Forest Service is to have the public admitted to every portion of the National Forest without charge or restrictions of any kind, beyond those necessary for the protection of the timber from fire.

With the public ranges already fully stocked, it would seem a misfortune for the Klamath County stockmen to have any further areas withdrawn from grazing purposes and placed within the Crater Park. The Diamond Lake addition is not an area such as can properly be classed as interesting or unusual, either in its scenic or physical points, it being merely a beautiful body of water right in the heart of the Cascades where excellent hunting and fishing can be found.

It is a question entirely of the locking up from all public use of an area which can be made to contribute to the welfare of the citizens of Klamath County. The area already included within the Crater National Park contains a very considerable amount of excellent grazing, which, however, cannot be utilized under Park management. The Forest Service on the contrary is doing everything possible to place livestock upon the ranges in the National Forest in order to give the stockmen in that region every opportunity for fattening their cattle and sheep during the summer months. To add to the Park means the locking up of additional resources, both timber and grass, for which no real benefit to the County or to the citizens of the State of Oregon may be shown.

At the present time, in addition to a number of cattle using the ranges in the vicinity of Diamond Lake, which it is proposed to include within the extension of the Crater National Park, there will be approximately 3000 head of sheep forced to seek other ranges, which owing to the tremendous demand for range will undoubtedly not be found, forcing the owners to sell their stock or reduce them to some other State for grazing purposes.

It is understood that the Bill creating this addition to the Crater National Park has already been introduced in Congress. Therefore, it believes the stockmen in this vicinity to interest themselves in this matter by taking it up with the congressional representatives and placing their views before them in order that they may be able to act understandingly and for the best interests of Klamath County.
