DENY THAT JAPS HAVE TERRITORY

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 17.—The Department of Industry and Commerce denies emphatically that Japanese interests have acquired any petroleum holdings in Mexico, but says parties of Japanese geologists have visited the republic recently on a tour of exploration and have located oil deposits on the Pacific coast.

The departmental denial came as the result of stories emanating from the United States that Japanese capitalists were negotiating for the transfer of large petroleum holdings in the Tampico district.

EL MONITOR recently interviewed a Japanese, R. E. Douart, who was sent to be a member of the oriental exploration party. He asserted that the Pacific coast had been thoroughly covered in the search for oil and that large deposits of the latter had been found. He also asserted that Japan needs Mexican oil for commercial purposes and will attempt to acquire that product but it has no intention of buying leases, developed or undeveloped, on the Atlantic coast.

At the Theatres

Proving itself, in every respect, a remarkable picture of love and war, "The Firefly of France," the latest starring vehicle for Wallace Reid, the popular Paramount star, was shown at the Star Theatre yesterday. Dainty Ann Little, whose characterizations in many of Mr. Reid's pictures have won for her the admiration of a large following, had an exceptional role in this photoplay and she shared the honors with the star. Tonight only.

"Devil McCare," the photoplay featuring Crane Wilbur at the Temple Theatre on tonight should be thoroughly enjoyed by all of the picture enthusiasts who appreciate a crisp, clean comedy of the Western variety.

While the play abounds with interesting situations and relates rather a thrilling story, it is particularly enjoyable because it offers Mr. Wilbur not only a sympathetic feature part, but one in which he can display his unusual athletic talents to rare advantage.

Juditha Hansen, Mr. Wilbur's leading woman in "Breezy Jim," and favorably recalled as one of the fascinating celebrities of the Triangle-Keystone comedies, portrays the female lead, appearing as a little manicurist in a big city, who is encouraged by the hero to establish herself in a small Western tonorial parlor, where the very name "manicurist" excites the suspicion of a populace which would not cringe before the most desperate desperadoes.

Remember Bryant Washburn? He's the laughing, good-looking heman (with a dimple in his chin, curly hair, and everything like that) who made such a big hit in screen comedies like "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Skinner's Baby" and "Kiddier & Ko."

Now he's coming back again in a new Pathe play called "The Ghost of the Rancho." The scenes are laid in the storied Southwest. Washburn is the son and only heir of a granddad who never saw a cabaret in his life and can't understand his grandson's taste for 'em.

So he throws him out on his ear without a dime to bless himself with.

Do you think our hero is downhearted? Not so you might notice it. He chirks up real quick, jumps a freight to the nearest big ranch and makes good. Also, he falls in love with a delightfully captivating little girl, a role played with sweet expertness by Rhea Mitchell, and all ends happily.

But, but, you ask: Where does the ghost come in? "That's the secret. It is a play worth seeing. At the Liberty tonight."

Harold Lockwood's last Screen Classic, Inc. feature, "A Man of Honor," which comes to the Liberty on Thursday next, is a series of scenic triumphs which will create an everlasting romantic type of natural and unadorned beauty.

As David Smith, an ex-newspaper reporter who interests himself in the small stockholders' fight against the big financiers, Lockwood will take you with him from the heart of Wall Street and the confusing and mysterious operations of the New York Stock and Curb Market clear across the continent to the Golden Gate of San Francisco Bay.

Reaching this point on the trail of the strenuous star, we must needs embark on a sea-going hack which will land us on the shores of a veritable Paradise, the island of Santa Cruz, off the California coast, one of the most verdant and beautiful locations for many a league.

It was on this island of Santa Cruz that the majority of the scenes of "A Man of Honor" were taken, being, as it were, an ideal location for the depiction of the discovery scenes and subsequent actions of the Tropical Products Co., as outlined in the original novel by Henry Kitchell Webster.

Here were found the picturesque rock-ribbed coast with the deep coves and caves the impenetrable recesses in the vastness of the interior, the semi-tropical vegetation and climate, and the periodical hurricanes typical of that region.

A peculiar fact in connection with the shooting of scenes on Santa Cruz is the occurrence of a real hurricane or tornado which blew up while Mr. Lockwood's company was quartered on the island. Mr. Fred T. Palshofer, Mr. Lockwood's director, had erected several huts with the native type covering, and crowds of natives were housed in these huts when the hurricane struck the island. Mr. Balshofer immediately took advantage of this freak of nature and lashing his camera, the operator and himself to a point of rock, proceeded to shoot many scenes during the storm. Many were injured in taking this picture, and Mr. Lockwood himself played a real hero by rescuing one of the players from a falling wireless outfit, at the risk of his own life.

A MAN OF HONOR

Never before in a dramatic picture have there been such views of the grandeur in nature: never except in educational pictures where nature herself plays the leading role and does not share her honors with humans.

"NOTHING ELSE EVER HELPED ME"

THIS IS WHAT MRS. CAMPBELL SAYS OF TANLAC—SUFFERED SIX YEARS

"Of all the medicines and treatments I have taken during the past six years, Tanlac is the only thing that has done me any good at all," said Mrs. Sadie Campbell, who lives at 1353 Geary St., San Francisco, Cal., the other day.

"I had suffered so much from stomach trouble," continued Mrs. Campbell, "that I was in a very weak, run down condition. When I began taking Tanlac I had such little strength and energy about me that the least exertion would almost prostrate me. Every time I ate anything I would have bad spells of indigestion, and what I ate would sour and cause gas to form which made me miserable for hours afterwards. I had a dull headache nearly all the time. My liver didn't seem to act well, either, and I suffered a lot from biliousness, and would often get so dizzy that I could hardly stand on my feet. My nerves were in bad condition, too, and I hardly ever got a good night's sleep.

"Then I heard about Tanlac, and I thought I would give it a trial, and it certainly proved to be a godsend to me. I have only taken three bottles so far, but I feel like a different person altogether. Why, I have actually gained eight pounds already and feel so well and strong that I can easily do all my housework, and get about as well as I ever did in my life. My appetite is good, and what I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have a sign of indigestion or sour stomach any more. My nerves seem to be in perfect condition, and I sleep soundly for eight or ten hours every night. I think Tanlac is the best medicine on earth and I am so happy over what it has done for me that I just talk it to everybody I meet."

Tanlac is sold in Klamath Falls by the Star Drug Co., and in Lorella by the James Merc., Co.—Adv.
