LADIES DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

USE GRANDMA'S SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR RECIPE AND NO BODY WILL KNOW

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied. But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair. A well known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

BOSTON RIOT SCENE DURING POLICEMEN'S STRIKE AND A. E. F. GENERAL IN COMMAND OF THE GUARDSMEN

Hoodlums, neare rooks and real crooks rushed to Boston when they learned the police were to go on strike. This element, abetted by Boston's own lawless citizens, mostly youths, started to break every law possible. Windows were smashed, shops were looted, and many a "crooked" crap game was played in the streets. If the loser complained he was mauled. This photograph shows a few of the loyal policemen, helmeted, and Harvard students, with clubs, trying to quell the disturbances before the state guard was called out. In the circle is seen Brigadier General Charles H. Cole, who was appointed by Mayor Peters as the virtual head of the police forces. As commander of an infantry brigade of the Twenty-sixth Division, General Cole led his men at Soissons, Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne offensives.

EAGER TO SEE ELEPHANT

First One That Was Brought to the United States Aroused the Utmost Curiosity.

Nowadays, when summer in the United States would hardly seem itself without the coming of a circus, it is difficult to realize the excitement aroused by the first exhibition of an elephant. A now-forgotten showman, Hackallah Bailey, is said to have imported the first elephant nearly a hundred years ago, and the animal was a whole show in himself. The circus tent had not yet come into being, and the elephant was shown in barns in the Eastern states that then held the bulk of the population. To prevent the public from seeing the show without charge, the elephant traveled from place to place in the night; but even so, the public refused to be wholly circumvented, and small companies gathered with bonfires ready to light when the strange creature came lumbering past on his way to the next town. Sometimes, however, the management deflected this intention by sending along the road a horse built up to look like an elephant in the dark, and when the bonfire had been lighted and had burned out, the real elephant followed. —Christian Monitor.

FRAUD AGAINST GOVERNMENT IS BEING DOG UP

Fraud against the National Government is charged in a petition being circulated in Mono and Inyo Counties in California to have Congress investigate the acts of certain power companies in procuring certain reservoir sites. Denver capitalists and former officials of the Department of Agriculture are mentioned in this petition which intimates that fraud and subterfuge amounting to conspiracy to defraud the United States, were employed.

This is one more example of a condition where the rights of the citizens and tax payers have been forfeited to swell the coffers of big corporations thru the clever manipulation of those at the helm and certain government employees who were willing to dispose of the interests they were sworn to protect, for a consideration.

These reservoir sites were originally secured, it is stated, for the purpose of irrigation; but they have been utilized solely for power generation, and the power has been taken out of the state, as far as Arizona and Mexico, according to the petition. The result is that large areas of irrigable land have been deprived of water that should be available, and it is also charged that "the water situation as far as power storage and irrigation damage is concerned is true not only for this locality, but for the entire Sierra Nevada watersheds, except a few isolated cases, where the stream flow reached the lower rainfall districts and irrigation storage is available to store enough rainwater to compensate for the irrigation losses caused by power storage."

If it is found that the United States is defrauded, as claimed, it is asked that "such steps be taken as may be necessary to have these properties returned to the United States and such legislation be enacted that will in the future protect our agricultural development and prevent the long and unnecessary litigation that is compulsory now."

It is further alleged that charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States in this matter were filed with the department in 1916, and "irrefutable documentary proof secured with the charges," but no action was taken.

A special agent, T. C. Martin, who investigated the situation and was actually on the ground "said in his report that these power companies had obtained their rights by fraud and were not using rights of way for the purposes granted."

Companies named in the petition are said to have misrepresented to the United States their true purposes of intended use. "This power storage," it is stated, "is fatal to irrigation to a large extent, and under present conditions reduces our irrigable area by two-thirds of what it should be for the reason that the flood period is caused by the melting of the snow during the four summer months."

No attempt was made by the department, it is stated, to provide for lower storage reservoirs, to catch the water power water, but even with this provision the gross loss would be from 20 to 40 per cent.

These grants have already destroyed Silver Lake falls and the destruction of Lee Vining Creek falls is now in progress, the petitioners allege. These waterfalls are located near the eastern gateway of the Yosemite valley, "and are part of California's greatest scenic assets, Lee Vining falls being the principal attraction of the famous Tioga road."

Most of these corporations are not answerable to state commissions and refuse to pay state taxes, it is charged. That the properties have been over bonded, and that there is some question of the validity of the bonds inasmuch as California laws permit water to be used only for twenty-five years for power purposes, are other allegations.

Kissing either wife or child was a punishable offense in England in the seventeenth century.
