At the Theatres

"Sylvia on a Spree," the latest Metro play in which charming Emmy Wehlen will appear as star, will be the feature today at the Liberty Theatre.

The play is a brilliant romantic drama with a delightful amount of subtle comedy which will please all who see it. The plot centers around a young girl who finds that with all her luxury and riches she has missed much of the fun which other girls, not so sheltered, get out of life. She is tired of being a petted and screened darling and plans a campaign by which she hopes to be able to see some of the gaiety she has so far missed.

The supporting cast consists of W. I. Percival, Frank Currier, Eugene Acker, Peggy Parr, Isabel D'Madigan, Francesca Ward, Rose Wood, Bliss Milford, Ber: Tuoy, Joseph Sweeney, and Alice Turner.

NEXT YEAR

Some men have formed the habit when the family talk the need of a musical instrument of saying "Next year," and then going out and spending several times the cost of an instrument for something else.

Always "Next year" is a bad habit, for no home life can be a real success without music.

Music is a necessity and changes the whole atmosphere of any home life.

Earl Shepherd's prices are Right, the terms are Right, so is it Right to put off until next year that which you can do today?
