WOMEN PAY WAY IN GERMANY

STETTIN, Germany, Oct. 5. (By The Associated Press.)—The workers of Stettin and suburbs have struck against paying all the entrance fees into dances, and the refreshments, for their girl or women partners at dances. Women, they assert, are now earning about as much as men, and should bear their share. They positively will not dance with any woman who does not pay her own way. The ultimatum was published in a Stettin paper, and reads:

"The dancing ladies' world should pay for itself. The Revolution brought the same rights for man and woman. As a result we demand that the young people of Stettin no longer to pay for the ladies.

Why should we male workers who have to earn money with our hands dance away 3 or 4 marks, perhaps a bottle of wine and other things, in order to show ourselves as cavaliers to ladies?

"If the ladies are willing to amuse themselves with us Sunday afternoons, then they should bear the expense in equal shares, open your pocketbook, or remain at home."

The appeal is signed by "many young Stettin people, which have acquired good sense."
