HOUSE NEEDY IN PALACES

BERLIN, Oct. 5. (By Mail).—There is a widespread demand that the former royal and princely palaces and castles of this city be utilized to allay the need of dwellings during the coming winter by renting parts of them to people in need of homes. Mayor Wermuth has sent a telegram to the Imperial Dwelling Commissioner calling his attention to this situation.

The Commissioner, in reply, says there are in Berlin only six of these buildings, that are large and notable. Of these, the former Emperor's palace, in which troops were housed for sometime, will be occupied by state employes as rapidly as its rooms are vacated and eventually will be made into a museum, for works of art.

The Marstall, the formerly royal stables, also has been occupied by troops but will be turned over to the city of Berlin for administrative offices.

Montbijou Chteau was and is a museum and its big hall is used for trials. The palace of Crown Prince Frederick is being used by the government for an exposition of modern painting and as headquarters for the "Safety Police."

The palace of the Crown Princess Cecile is occupied as private residences rented from the government and has a few military bureaus in one section.

Charlottenburg castle has been used since December last as an orthopedic hospital, except the middle section which is extraordinarily artistic and historically valuable.

The palace of Prince August Wilhelm is rented to two state bureaus and its library is used for chritable purposes. Bellevue castle now houses state and government authorities.

The Finance Ministry which has been seeking space in some of these palaces found that all the available room had been taken as long ago as last March

Job Is to Stop Trouble Before It Starts in the New German Republic

DR. VON BERGER

Germany has given a difficult job to Dr. von Berger. He is a sort of national police commissioner, his duties being to preserve order in the new and nervous republic. He is supposed to quell disturbances or disorders before they have a chance to assume importance.

OFFICER OF DEATH LEGION A NURSE

KISHINEV, South Russia, Sept. 25, via Paris, Oct. 5.—Marie Ivonoff, formerly a captain in the Russian women's "Legion of Death," is now a nurse in the Rumanian mission of the American Red Cross. Miss Ivonoff was in charge of a Russian machine gun company for 13 months and carries shrapnel fragments in her shoulder to this day. She has also two bullet wounds in her cheeks.

She is now engaged in distributing American medical and hospital supplies to her countrymen in the Bessarabian district of Now Rumania, with headquarters in Kishinev.

Miss Ivonoff was an officer both in the old Russian army and in one of General Denikine's units which have been fighting the Bolsheviks near Odessa. Her husband was an aviator and during the early part of the war she was attached as a doctor and nurse to the aviation section. She is a graduate physician.

During the fighting she became separated from her husband's unit and fell in with a machine gun battalion. When all the officers and under officers of this unit were killed she was unanimously elected by the men as captain. For eleven months both in the trenches and during the Russian retreat she was in charge of the company.

When the Bolsheviks took Odessa, Miss Ivonoff went south to join Denikine's army, hoping to find her husband there. When General Denikine's forces were driven back, a hospital train to which Miss Ivonoff was attached took refuge in Rumania and she turned over the train to Major Charles E. Spratt of New York, the head of the American Red Cross unit here.
