

National Waist Week

November 10-11-12-13-14-15

WERE going to make the last days—Friday and Saturday—the most important of the entire week in Klamath Falls.

A very large shipment of Crepe de Chine, Georgette and fancy Silk Waists of every known description in up-to-the-minute styles just received. Every conceivable new coloring is here for your inspection. More than three hundred silk waists from which to make your selection, and at every known price, here or elsewhere, with values far better. There will be dozens and dozens of the prettiest and newest styles of waists at this store next week and the week after, but those who make their selections Friday and Saturday will have the advantage of a bewildering display, such as Klamath Falls women have not seen in their own city in a lifetime. Rest assured the values at which these waists are offered are right. THE PRICES HERE ARE ALWAYS RIGHT, and fully 25 per cent under city stores' prices, whether in Chicago, New York or on the Pacific Coast, we care not where.

Nov. 10 to 15

—The Golden Rule Associated Stores buy goods right, buy in quantities and sell in quantities, buy right—as near right as is possible to buy under present conditions—and sell nearer right than most stores are able to sell in these trying times. —We have strained a point to make "National Waist Week" a history-making week for Klamath's greatest store. You'll not be disappointed when making our women's ready-to-wear department a business call Friday and Saturday. Bring your father, husband, sweetheart, or brother, and let us show him how ridiculous a "man's shirt" is in comparison with real women's wear. This store sells about everything for men, women and children to wear—nothing too good if the value is there.

BULGARS BALK AT PEACE TERMS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 26.—(By Courier to Paris, Oct. 9.)—The terms of peace prescribed by the Allies to Bulgaria, a summary of which has reached Sofia by telegraph, produced profound disappointment and depression throughout the country. The people, press and government were unanimous in condemning them as harsh and humiliating. Young King Boris was much grieved when he read the announcement of the terms. He had not believed Bulgaria would be stripped of Thrace, its entire coast line on the Aegean and a part of its western frontier. Minister of War Madparoff, formerly Bulgarian minister to London, declared to the Associated Press that Bulgaria might for the moment be humiliated and crushed, but she would rise up again with renewed strength—it might be five years from now, it might be ten, it might be twenty—but rise she would. Her "just military and territorial desires" might be repressed by the force of superior numbers, but her spirit, which was eternal, could not be suppressed by any power on earth. The Bulgarians, he continued, were a patient, forbearing people, with whom patriotism and national honor were a passion. There could be no peace in the Balkans under such an "unjust territorial arrangement" as the peace conference had laid down. Bulgaria would have to prepare to resist the invasion of its soil by her hostile neighbors, which sooner or later was inevitable. She could not attain her normal, economic, political or social growth under the "harsh provisions of the treaty. She might be compelled out of self-protection, if the terms of the treaty were not modified, to resort to drastic expedients. He was not prepared to say what they were. He declared the peace terms to Bulgaria not only were a mockery of President Wilson's principles of nationalities and the territorial integrity of small nations, but were a direct refutation of the cause for which the allies professed to have fought. "How could any just and well-informed group of statesmen," he asked, "give Caribrod and other Bulgarian cities in which there was not a single Serb to the Serbians? How could they expect Bulgaria to carry on its industrial life with every port on the Aegean closed to her?" The peace of the allies, he declared, was not a peace—it was a "travesty on justice."

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(By Mail.)—Great Britain is expecting Czechoslovakia to furnish an important market for British trade when more stable economic conditions have been established in the new republic. The Board of Trade Journal points out that Czechoslovakia, which includes Bohemia, is rich in raw materials, and possesses some of the most important industries in Europe. It is estimated that about 80 per cent of the mines and industrial businesses of the old Austria-Hungarian empire are now within the boundaries of the new republic.

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (By Mail.)—In all 155 women have been elected to the various legislative bodies of Germany, out of a total of 2,339, and only seven states are without them in their parliaments. The National Assembly leads the list with 38, but the Prussian Diet follows closely with 21.

MANY CROSS MEXICO LINE

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 13.—For the 13 months between September 15, 1918, and October 15, 1919, approximately 25,000 border passports have been issued by Edward A. Dow, United States consul at Juarez. Of this number about 2500 have been held by American citizens, according to Mr. Dow. Since last spring the number of daily round trips has increased greatly between El Paso and Juarez. This has been due to the post-war relaxation of passport restrictions, and has, in turn, resulted in a quickening of the amusement life of the Mexican city. Nearly 5000 persons made round trips between El Paso and Juarez daily, Mr. Dow estimates.

COFFEE CROP FAILS; OWNERS SELL CARS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 15. (By Mail.)—Results of coffee crop failures are seen in the large number of high grade automobiles available for public hire in this city. Most of them were originally purchased for private use in times of prosperity, but their owners were compelled to sell them when the crop failed and financial distress ensued.

The widespread use made of them for business, pleasure or social purposes is a striking feature of life in the Brazilian capital. They are not of the usual taxicab type, but expensive cars. The broad, smooth avenues and boulevards are admirably adapted to the use of automobiles, and as there is no speed law the one great object in life for the native chauffeur apparently is to go at top speed whether in city or suburb. That there are not numerous daily accidents is due, perhaps, mainly to expert handling of the cars.

ENGLISH RACING IS ON INCREASE

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(Correspondence Associated Press.)—Horse racing, like every other kind of sport here, has experienced a great boom since the war and consequently the gambling habit has increased. Promoters of race meetings all over the country announce that record crowds have attended the fixtures while the number of horses entered for the races are already up to pre-war proportions. Racing is scarce on all the year round and scarcely does a day pass without a meeting of some kind being held in some part of the country. It is divided into two categories—flat racing, which commences in March and ends in November, and steeplechasing, which finishes out the year. At the "classic" meetings held at Epsom, Goodwood and Ascot, practically all the aristocrats of the turf congregate. Entertaining takes place on a large scale and women vie with each other in displaying the latest fashion in dress. The highest amount paid for the winner of a race is that for the winner of the Derby, amounting to $32,000. There is more betting on horse racing than on any other sport. The English law is peculiar on that point. Betting on the race course is strictly legal, but the passing of betting slips on the streets is considered a serious offense. Yet one may legally place bets by calling up a bookmaker on any telephone, or by sending the name of the horse fancied by telegram or through the post. This anomaly, therefore, occurs: A betting slip with a horse's name and an amount of money mentioned if handed to a bookmaker in the street is an offense punishable by imprisonment. Yet a telegram to the same bookmaker and containing the same wording handed in at a postoffice is a perfectly legal undertaking, and, incidentally, one which is largely followed. In the poorer districts where there are thousands of "backers" who make bets varying from a dollar to 12 cents, the street bookmaker does a roaring trade, although he is liable to arrest and his business has to be conducted very secretly, as plain clothes police are always on the lookout for him.

Cooks, maids, nurse girls and other domestic servants have organized the Household Workers' union in Chicago, preparatory to demanding a shorter workday, increased wages and the privilege of entertaining their gentlemen friends elsewhere than in the kitchen.
