QUEER PLANT WATERS SHEEP

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 15.—How a strange plant, which is known nowhere else in Montana, supplies the water for great flocks of sheep which graze each summer on a plateau in the Pryor mountains near the southern boundary of Montana, has been described here by Glen A. Smith, chief of the grazing department of District No. 1 of the forest service. "This plateau," said Mr. Smith, "rises 8000 feet above the level of the sea. It is almost flat, and it slopes gently toward the south. Across it mountain streams have cut deep gorges with sides so impassable that sheep and cattle cannot make their way down to the water. Yet hundreds of them annually are turned out to graze there. "The water which they use is supplied by nature in a manner which, so far as I know, is not duplicated in this district of the service. The dew on the plateau is very heavy, and when it strikes a certain weed there, known as the 'woolly weed,' it sticks, and by eating this weed the animals are prevented from thirst. And therefore, because of this weed, the plateau supports 5000 sheep every summer, though there is no stream of any kind upon it. The weed bears in appearance close resemblance to tansy. It has a peculiar characteristic in that it will gather moisture from the air. Each night, soon after sundown large globules of water, the size of the end of one's finger, will gather on the leaves and one may pull up the weed by the roots and shake it violently, yet the drops of water will adhere to the leaves just the same.

WILL ADD BIG AREA TO FOREST

MISSOULA, Nov. 15.—A million and a half acres of forest land in Idaho is to be added to the domain of the national forests, according to announcement at headquarters here of district No. 1, if a bill now before congress is passed. The area probably will be added to district No. 4, which has its headquarters at Ogden, Utah. The land lies in central Idaho, and is bounded by the Idaho forest, the Saw Tooth forest and the Pavette forest, with open country to the south, and it is in what is called the Thunder mountain country. The land, which is now public domain, originally was excluded from the forest reserve because of extensive mining operations, but now its site lies beneath a mountain lake formed when a landslide filled a narrow ravine, blocking a stream which ran through the valley where Lewisville was situated. Mining operations there have been discontinued.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—Charles Tuppen, world's champion coach horn blower, has just died here. For many years he was a familiar figure at horse shows and in his career won twenty-nine first-class prizes for horn blowing in England and America.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

DRUGGIST SAYS LADIES ARE USING RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmothers made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture, improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

MONTANA WILL ENFORCE LAW

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 15.—The recent decision of the United States department of justice to send hundreds of deputies into this state to enforce the prohibition act comes as the culmination of a flood of rumors that the prohibition statutes, state and national, are and for months have been openly disregarded in many of the cities and towns of Montana. Helena, it is generally believed, is fairly "dry." Arrests for illicit selling and manufacture of liquor here are rare and those whose tastes for alcohol survives are wont dolefully—and daily—to admit that it
