MESTIC SCIENCE (continued from Page Two)

one spoon salt, cup seeded raisins, finely shaved citron. Mix and add 4 cups milk; bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center. Cool slightly, then beat the whites of 2 eggs very stiff and add 1 cup of sugar, beating constantly. Spread the meringue on the top, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Put in a slow oven to broil.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

Take six tomatoes, remove centers, sprinkle with salt and insert stuffing of cup chopped celery, cup shrimps, 1/2 cup asparagus; mix with a thick mayonnaise or French dressing; fill tomatoes and garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

Mince Meat

8 cups cooked beef, chopped fine; 2 cups suet, chopped fine; 12 cups apples, peeled, cored and chopped; 2 cups sugar; 2 cups molasses, New Orleans; 2 pounds seeded raisins; 2 pounds seedless raisins; 1/2 pound citron; shaved fine; 3 cups boiled cider; 1 tablespoon each ground cinnamon and nutmeg; 1 teaspoon each cloves and allspice; 1 tablespoon salt, 2 oranges, juice and grated rind; 2 lemons, juice and grated rind, 1 tablespoon almond extract; 1 glass of currant or quince jelly.

Put meat, suet, apples, sugar, molasses, raisins, citron, salt and cider into a large kettle; place over a slow fire, heating gradually. When apples and suet are cooked add remaining ingredients and store in glass fruit jars. If more liquid is required, use the broth the meat was cooked in.

Her Town Politics Drive Her to Clothespin Habit

Mrs. Blanche Austin

"Why the clothespin?" neighbors and acquaintances asked Mrs. Blanche Austin when she appeared on the streets of Santa Monica, California, as shown in the photograph. "Local politics," was her terse answer.

Then why not pursue the study of children for yourself? The subjects are always before you. No books are needed, no costly drawings, no lectures, neither transparencies nor illustrations. Your specimens are all about you. They come and go at your bidding. They are not to be hunted for along the edge of a precipice, on the borders of the wilderness, in the desert, nor by the seashore. They abound not in the uninhabited or unvisited places, but in your very dwelling houses, about the steps of your doors, in every street of every village, in every green field, and every crowded thoroughfare. They flourish bravely in snowstorms, in the dust of the trampled highway, where drums are beating and colors flying, in the roar of cities. They love the sounding sea breeze and the open air, and may always be found about the wharves and rejoicing before the windows of toy shops.—John Neal.

Emperor Skillful Engineer.

From imperial times until today the Tiber has been a torment to all governments. Caesar elaborated a system that would have made Rome a rival of the London or New York of today, but his associates found the enterprise too gigantic. When a distant successor, the Emperor Claudius, came to the throne, he did not embark on it so extensively, he compelled the wonder of the time by the spacious waterway afforded. He was an engineer by taste. His name is associated with the enormous aqueducts, Aqua Claudia and Anio Novus, the wonder of modern engineers. He caused a harbor at Ostia to be dug. The breakwater was not built in the right direction, and the harbor ultimately filled up.

Insect Bothera Forest Rangers.

The ohmlette is the "scout" of the forest ranger's life. He does not get on the ranger, but he gets in his telephone, which is much worse when you are trying to telephone for help on a forest fire. The ohmlette just delights in getting into the transmitter and attempting to call up some of his forest friends. A hunting starts, says the American Forestry association of Washington, that just about puts the line out of business. The ranger could take a shot at the transmitter, but that, of course, would "cut" the phone as well as the ohmlette, so the ranger uses a piece of a moth ball and that settles it for Mr. Ohmlette.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

GOBS ENJOYING THEMSELVES IN BLINDFOLDED BATTLE ROYAL

Blind boxing contests have made a hit with the gobs at Mare Island Navy Yard, Cal. Two captains pick their men. All the contestants, who have been blindfolded, are lined up on opposite sides of the ring. When the gong sounds they rush to the center and begin to hit and swing without knowing whether they are walloping friend or foe. Knockouts are not unusual in this battle royal milling. At the end of a stipulated time the side with the most men able to be on their feet is declared the winner. The photographer's comment was: "You never can tell what a gob will lose."

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP

Superiority Demonstrated in World War

E. N. Hurley, who served throughout the war as chairman of the United States Shipping Board, was asked what in his job had impressed him most. He answered:

"The efficiency of private ownership and operation as compared with public ownership and operation—ALL PRODUCTION CENTERS ON THE COST—you can't get away from that. Shift responsibility for the cost, for the best possible result under a given set of circumstances and you shift the responsibility for efficiency. On the Shipping Board, we shifted this responsibility from private shipbuilding concerns to the Government. "With the shifting of responsibility of cost to the Government, that keen interest in results which follows private initiative was gone. THERE YOU HAVE THE WHOLE PROBLEM AS BETWEEN PUBLIC OWNERSHIP AND PRIVATE OWNERSHIP STATED.

"I don't know of a government-owned plant that produces more than two-thirds efficiency. In the years to come some way may be found to keep incentive to best endeavor in men under government ownership, but until that is discovered that system may be classed as a failure."

GIVE DUE CREDIT TO JOSEPH

According to Biblical Record, He Was the First to Engage in "Profiteering."

There is sacred, if not historical, evidence, that to Joseph belongs the credit, or discredit, of being the first profiteer on record, says New York Herald. We are told that he had enough forethought in the face of an approaching famine to buy and garner into the Egyptian storehouses all the available food, mostly corn, in the surrounding country. The Bible tells how much was in those storehouses, and relics of those times have been unearthed, giving evidence that the amount stored in each place was carefully recorded, showing that Joseph was a man of careful and methodical business.

But the important and significant fact is that Joseph secured possession of all the food to provide for a famine he had predicted. Joseph was wise. He cornered the corn and held on to it, so that when the famine arrived and starving people came from surrounding lands begging for food, Joseph sold at a good profit. He had all the corn and other food there was for hundreds of miles about. The famine even reached as far as Canaan, the land from which he had been sold into slavery by his brothers, and yet he received his brothers and sold them food—but always at a profit. He finally had in his possession all the gold, silver and even the land round about.

Joseph was the big business man of Egypt. He "generously" surrendered his political control of Egypt to Pharaoh, but kept the economic control to himself.

Dissatisfaction.

The old saying that some folks would find fault if they were going to be hanged is undoubtedly true. There are too many dissatisfied human beings, a minority, to be sure, but enough to shade the picture which portrays our everyday life. Hanging is a serious matter, and no one can wonder if its contemplation causes dissatisfaction to the hero of the occasion, but lesser ills and woes, and common things like wind and weather, lack of money, unpleasant occupations, a crumpled roseleaf in the bed, a wrinkle in some other woman's get up which has escaped her own, turn loose a stream of fault-finding disagreeable and contemptible. We might as well decide that we all have something to bear in this world and that we will bear it without grumbling; we might as well subscribe to the truth that if it is not one thing, it is another, and set our teeth and say nothing.—Caroline Harris Lee.
