THANKSGIVING BALL OF ELKS TONIGHT

Tonight promises to be a big night in the social life of Elkdom, as all the invitations are out for the big Thanksgiving eve dance and a record-breaking crowd is expected.

Dr. Paul Noel and Glenn Jester, the committee on arrangements have overlooked nothing that would aid in making the affair a success.

Peerless orchestra music, a splendid floor and the "best people on earth" for hosts, form a combination that cannot fail to provide pleasure for every one.

FINED $20 EACH FOR PEACE DISTURBANCE.

As a result of a fresh outbreak of the feud between Mrs. Louisa Hendricks and Mrs. Martha Schonebin, Indian women, on Main street last night, each paid a fine of $20 for disturbing the peace in Police Judge Leavitt's court this morning.

There is a complaint pending in the justice court against Mrs. Hendricks and her son for an alleged assault several days ago.

STORE WILL BE CLOSED ALL DAY THANKSGIVING

This is the one "Thanksgiving" that we should dispense with business and enjoy the festivities of this great day. With this good old country of ours still safe for humanity — still a good place to live in—with prosperity over this great land of ours—let us forget our business worries for one day and help make this "Thanksgiving" everything that it stands for.

At the Theatres

Florence Reed, daughter of the late Roland Reed, the leading actor, made her debut with the Proctor Stock Company, Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York at the age of 16. Originally intended for a musical career Miss Reed's plans were abruptly changed by the decease of her father. Playing in the Proctor Company for two years Miss Reed was then engaged to play leading parts with E. H. Sothern. Her first big New York success was in the part of the psychic girl in Seven Days. Other prominent successes on the speaking stage was Under Cover The Yellow Ticket, The Celebrated Case, and later still The Wanderer, Chu Chin Chow and Roads to Destiny in which last Miss Reed starred a notable triumph.

Florence Reed's screen successes are equally remarkable. In Wives of Men this sterling actress, to mention only recent successes on the silver sheet, made a notable hit, and in the still more successful releases of United Picture Theatres of America she is adding to her fame as the foremost emotional artist of the day in such triumphs as Her Code of Honor and The Woman Under Oath, which last is by far the most thrilling story that has fallen to Miss Reed's lot for picturization, presenting as it does the unique experiences of a woman juror in a life and death case in a New York court.

The Woman Under Oath comes to the Liberty Theatre today.
