NEW RAILROADS FOR SOUTHWEST

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 5.—Construction of two railroads, one to an outlet on the Gulf of California, is looked upon by leading citizens and observers generally as having an important bearing upon the future development of the southwest.

The road to tidewater is expected to be constructed from Ajo, Pima county, Arizona, to San Jorge bay, Sonora, Mexico, a distance of about 90 miles. Although but little public mention has been made concerning the present project, it is declared that Col. John C. Greenway, general manager of two large mining companies before he went to war against Germany, has practically completed final arrangements in the east for financing the project. Under concessions granted by the Mexican government for the right of way over the 50 miles of the road which would be constructed in Sonora, it is said that ample time remains for the building of the line.

Colonel Greenway, when opening up a copper deposit at Ajo, had a railroad built from Gila, on the Southern Pacific, to Ajo, a distance of about 60 miles and in a southerly direction. What remains is the extension of the road through to the gulf.

When the road reaches San Jorge bay, a 35-year-old dream of Arizonans will be realized. The railroad is looked to to furnish an ocean outlet for copper matter shipments to eastern refineries, by way of the Pacific ocean and the Panama canal. Arizona ranks as the foremost copper producing state. Of secondary importance would be the outlet for cotton and other agricultural products.

A tentative route for the railroad runs slightly west of south to Quitobaquito, just north of the international boundary, thence down the valley east of Pinnacle peak in Mexico and then turns westward toward San Jorge bay. Men of the Tucson, Cornelia & Gila Bend railroad, which is the name of Colonel Greenway's line from Gila to Ajo, have been working on surveys for the road into Mexico.

San Jorge bay is described as a well projected harbor but shallow; one in which a great deal of work would have to be done. Summer tides in the north end of the Gulf of California are said to be the largest on either American coast, outside of the Bay of Fundy, being 40 feet on some occasions.

The other railroad, construction of which is planned, is the Verde Valley railroad, fathered by James J. Douglas, of Douglas, Arizona, and important mining interests. Surveys contemplate construction from Jerome, Yavapai county, southeast through the fertile Verde valley, and thence nearly south into the Salt River valley, connecting with the Arizona Eastern railroad at Mesa. The road would be about 100 miles long and would open up a mining, cattle, and agricultural country now deprived of all rail transportation.

LANGELL VALLEY DRAINAGE SYSTEM IS BEING MAPPED

Plans for the drainage system of the Langell valley irrigation district are being completed by C. T. Darley, project engineer. Test borings have been taken over the entire district and the engineer is now plotting the proposed system, which will include about 15,000 acres, or half of the new district. The plans of the district call for an outlay of $180,000 for drainage.

A petition for confirmation of all procedure so far taken in establishing the district is pending in the circuit court. The directors of the district are having all preliminary work finished as rapidly as possible and perfecting all plans, so that when the time comes to begin actual construction the project can be put through without delay.

Springfield, Mass., was probably the first American city to choose a woman as city physician. In 1872, when twelve masculine M. D.'s were contesting for the office, friends of Dr. Sarah J. Williams offered her name as the thirteenth candidate, and she proved to be the successful one.

PIONEER LIVES TO RIPE OLD AGE

WENTACHEE, Wash., Dec. 5.—David Livingstone, pioneer of the far west recently celebrated at his home near here, his 99th birthday. He is a cousin of David Livingstone, the famous African explorer, grandson of one of Napoleon's officers and a veteran of the Mexican war.

Despite, or perhaps because of, his seventy years spent in hardships of the new west, Livingstone is declared to be in possession of all his faculties, with an accuracy of eye and a strength of arm that enables him at twelve feet to throw a bowie knife through an inch board.

Livingstone went to California by way of the Isthmus of Panama in 1849. He knew Grant, McClellan, Sheridan and Pickett when they were subordinate officers in the frontier army. Moses, Mukiltek, Seattle, Kamiakin, Tonasket, Joseph and other famous Indian chiefs of the northwest were his acquaintances.

In the long years he has lived in the west he has been hunter, trader, trapper, sailor, scout, prospector, gold miner, horse breeder, marksman and athlete.

Geneva, Ill., once boasted of having a flourishing Methodist church with a membership composed exclusively of women.

BONANZA ENJOYS CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

BONANZA, Dec. 5.—The Ellison-White Chautauqua, just closed here after a week's engagement, attracted the largest crowds ever drawn together by any community affair. The hall was crowded to capacity each night. The chautauqua is said to have been a financial success and everyone is enthusiastic and unanimously agreed on a return engagement here next year, funds for which were guaranteed at the final evening's entertainment.

Enlarging Hotel

C. T. Darley is having a number of improvements made on the Bonanza hotel. Five additional rooms are being added and plumbing is being installed for a private sewer system. Newly awakened development in the Bonanza and Langell valley sections has created a demand for hotel accommodations that makes enlargement necessary.
