THE PACKERS AND REFRIGERATOR CARS

Whether refrigerator cars should be owned by the railroads or by the packers—a point to be determined by legislation now pending in Washington—may seem to be a question rather remote from the interests of the average person. But, inasmuch as these "ice boxes on wheels," as one of the packers terms them, are the conveyances which bring our beefsteak to town, we may assume that we have a certain concern about them. If they have anything to do with the price of the beefsteak our concern is a deep one.

It is maintained by some that these cars give the packers who now own them an unfair advantage over competitors. This is stoutly denied by the packers, who offer as proof the fact that they pay the same freight rates as any shipper; and they assert that the only advantage they enjoy is in being able to get enough cars for their needs by furnishing them themselves instead of depending upon the railroads to do so. In this they are backed up by a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission, made after an investigation of all privately owned cars, to the effect that there were no unfair practices and that a radical change would adversely affect both shippers and the public.

While not opposing, in principle, railroad ownership of refrigerator cars, the packers maintain that there are not enough of these cars to go around and that the legislation in question makes no provision for insuring that the railroads shall furnish them in sufficient number. On the other hand, to pool their cars and take chances of getting what happened to be available, would seriously handicap the distribution of their perishable meat products. The stream of shipments from the packing plants would be blocked, which in turn would block the buying of live stock, and the industry, which is founded on a basis of rapid distribution, would be badly muddled.

In these contentions pro and con, there are three parties whose interests are at stake—the packers, their competitors and the public. Only one of these parties could gain a possible advantage if the packers' cars were taken away from them, viz, the packers' competitors. The cars are now admittedly handled on an economic and efficient basis, and no change is justified unless unfairness is definitely and absolutely proved—which would be in absolute contradiction to the report that the Interstate Commerce Commission has already rendered on the subject. The public would pay the bill for inefficiency in the packing industry, and it has no desire to pay this bill in order to help a few of the packers' competitors.

HANDY DOUBLE SHOPPING BAG

Convenience for Carrying Groceries and Other Articles—Canvas is Material Suggested.

In these days, when one has as often as not to carry home one's groceries and such-like things, a roomy shopping bag is an absolute necessity. The one illustrated here has two large pockets and will be found very handy. It is best to use brown canvas for the purpose, three-quarters of a yard being ample.

Cut out two pieces shape of diagrams marked B and C, measuring about 14 inches at narrow part and 18 inches at widest end. Next cut a piece three-quarters yard long and 14 inches wide; this forms the foundation of the bag. Double this in halves to get exact center, to which a handle made from the canvas is attached—a strip about three inches wide, folded over into three and stitched firmly to the bag as shown in illustration.

Place the pieces B and C to either end of foundation, tack sides of pockets and foundation together. When this is done, turn over narrow turnings all round on to wrong side and cover with a narrow binding same shade as bag, and stitch by machine on either edge of binding, so that the bag will be quite secure.

Double in halves, with pockets falling on either side when in use.

In certain parts of England the belief is not quite extinct that the bees hum the Hundredth Psalm in their hives on Christmas Eve just as midnight chimes out, and a few people still go to listen at the hives in the hope of hearing the tiny inmates as this is thought to bring good luck.

WORLD POLICE FORCE PLANNED

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Creation of an international police force is suggested by Major David Davies, a member of Parliament. He told the Grotius Society that each nation should have a sufficient army to maintain internal order and furnish its quota when the League of Nations required it; that no nation should employ a new weapon of war; and that each nation should provide the League of Nations with an adequate force for immediate use.

These units should be concentrated in different parts of the world and the naval portion similarly constituted. Poison gas, war planes, submarines, heavy artillery and tanks should be ceded to the League to form the headquarters force and no state should be allowed to own them or to make use of any new invention for war-like purposes, he said.

Major Davies said the greatest resistance to the suggestion probably now would be found in America "which was the more saddening because the President of the great republic was one of the earliest and most powerful exponents of the principles of the League."
