The Golden Age

Every art has its Golden Age, bringing those wondrous works that live on through all the years. And it seems that a Golden Age has dawned for the newest of all arts—the motion picture. The master artist of the screen has brought to us a creation of such exquisite wonder and beauty, of such haunting charm and purity, that all else seems as of yesterday.

D.W. GRIFFITH'S "BROKEN BLOSSOMS" taken from a story of Thomas Burke, is at once the most pitiful, most tragic, and withal, the most sublime love story ever told. And in the telling, the master, Griffith, has wrought such rare and undreamed-of beauties that a new art, full, rich, boundless, is revealed.

AT THE THEATERS

Some of the finest riding ever seen in a film is to be found in William S. Hart's new Artercraft picture, "Square Deal Sanderson," picturized by Lambert Hillyer from the story by Chas. Alden Seltzer, which is attracting capacity audiences at every showing at the Star Theatre tonight. Mr. Hart presents one of the finest portrayals of his screen career and his support headed by Ann Little is eminently satisfactory.

A thrilling story, a beautiful and talented star, a splendid cast, excellent direction and some wonderful photography—all go to make up Norma Talmadge's latest Select Picture, "The New Moon," in which she is presented by Joseph M. Schenck at the Star Theatre Sunday and Monday.

The Best Man married a girl he'd never seen in his life before—Why? Can there be any logical reason for such a wedding? The bride was innocent—she hadn't seen her fiancé for fifteen years and only consented in order to save her mother—but the bridegroom must have had a mighty good reason. He had! He was one of Uncle Sam's Secret Service men, and there wasn't any other way out! It's a good story and will be shown at the Liberty tonight.

Uptown with work over, a dollar in her purse, she saw thousands of men. Pouch-faced ones, slender ones, swagger men; eyes that hunted her, ignored her; invited her and appraised.

She had spent too much for lunch (forty cents.) Last Sunday she found a run in her only silk stockings. A boy friend hadn't asked for her photograph. And she didn't like the new boss.

Troubles enough for anyone, and they never let up.

A man was following her. She dodged into a lobby to let him spend his searching farther up the street. She hated men and saw them by millions.

Pictures of the Orient interested her. She drifted with the crowd to the box office of a theatre. She spent fifty cents for a seat.

TEACHERS HOPE BY EDUCATION TO HELP LABOR

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Education of union labor men, both leaders and rank and file, is one of the principal aims of the Associated Teachers' Union, local 71, of the American Federation of Teachers, which is just organizing in the faculties of the colleges and schools of New York. The teachers' federation is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Professor Herman Defrem of Columbia university, who is president of the Associated Teachers' union, says the union professors and school teachers are not going into the labor movement merely for what they can get out of it themselves. Instead they plan to help their new associates in the federation of labor along the path of knowledge.

They hope, by opening special night courses for labor leaders in economics, management and production problems and kindred subjects, to develop a new type of leader who will co-operate in managing industries instead of spending his time, as Professor Defrem says, "bickering with employers." Under auspices of the teachers' union two other sets of classes will be instituted, evening classes in English history, economics and any other subjects which wage earners in general may desire to pursue; and day courses for men on strike, so that their time may not be wasted.

The union teachers are in conference with the United Labor Education committee on details. British universities some time ago embarked upon a program of education designed particularly for wage earners but the idea has not made much progress in this country. Higher wages for themselves, says Professor Defrem, is only a secondary aim of the educators. "We need more money but our first aims are the democratization of colleges and universities and the extension of the tenure of our office." Democratization, according to Professor Defrem, means surrender of the administration of educational institutions to the faculties, only financial problems being left to the decision of boards of trustees. The union aim will be the election of teachers, heads of departments, deans and other officials by the teachers themselves on a democratic ballot system, and settlement of educational problems by the same method.

Tenure of office of the college instructor, assistant and assistant professor would no longer be from year to year, dependent upon the action of administrative officials, but would also be based upon the ballot, the term of the teacher continuing as long as his colleagues considered him efficient.

More than 14,000,000 women in suffrage states will be privileged to vote for President next year, even if the federal suffrage amendment is not carried.

She entered the theatre. Blossoms about her. The teasing charm of incense from a hidden altar. Music now. Wistful melodies of Russia from distant strings. A flute lipped by an Oriental and neighbored by harp and violin.

Love notes came from reed and strings and wood, leading to the hypnotic flow of symphony orchestra in pit.

Then a man appeared. Unlike any she had ever seen on Boston's thoroughfares. Flowered robe, young, handsome. A man who could love without staining. Then another man. And then a girl.

On velvet fields of blue, touched now with shyest pink of love, and then the purple flow of passion.

She saw them move. Her little worries drifted away on a tide of such enchantment she was snatched by magic from the drudgery of her days.

Tears came as tears will come to women, who know they but rest and refresh when not born of our own woes.

The sigh of moonlight in a lover's room. Then one final beating of a temple bell.

She had seen "Broken Blossoms" in the Colonial Theatre. The most exquisite creation of modern art. The supreme entertainment of the day.

Her heart was aglow with understanding. And because she loved all good men, she went out upon the crowded thoroughfares—and she couldn't see a man on Tremont or Washington streets.
