N. Y. GARMENT WORKERS MOVE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Business men of this metropolis, who are always doing something extraordinary in the way of commercial achievement, are going to move an entire industry—the garment trade—employing thousands of workers and millions of capital and housed in hundreds of buildings from one section of New York to another. The movement, known as the 'Save Fifth Avenue' project, started several years ago and has just now assumed tangible form.

Factories which have long despoiled part of America's most famous shopping thoroughfare, scores of them, within a few months will have packed up bag and baggage and transferred their activity to another area of Manhattan—west of Seventh avenue from 30th to 39th Street—there to establish the garment centre of the United States.

Fifth avenue for years has borne the reputation of being the city's best residential street, the downtown section being devoted to retail shops of high and most diversified types. Into this region of imposing business buildings and exclusive merchants, as time went on, the cloak and suit manufacturers, made their way. Soon the sewing machine bade fair to eliminate the yardstick. America's promenade of elite trade and style was being transformed into a factory district where noon and closing hour whistles vied with limousine motor horns.

These cloak and suit manufacturers, however, most of them patriotic Americans and jealous of the welfare of New York, got together and, co-operating with a group of men known as the "Save New York Committee," formulated plans for the erection of factory buildings in a less exclusive section of the city. Carrying the idea of co-operation still further they purchased many pieces of real estate, totalling 92,000 square feet in the Seventh avenue section, and have obtained options on 102,000 square feet more.

Plans now contemplate the construction of four cooperative factory buildings of sixteen stories each with a combined floor space of 1,400,000 square feet at a yearly rental cost of approximately $700,000, about 50 cents a square foot as against $2.50 a square foot as many of the manufacturers are now paying. The men interested in the project estimate a saving of not less than $3,000,000 a year in rent alone and other similar economies, they say will "effectively slash the high cost of living as regards women's garments." A reduction of from $1 to $7.25 per garment will be possible, they say, as a result of the stoppage of inflated rents. Sixty garments manufacturers with an annual output valued at $650,000,000 are to begin the new venture and other lines of trade are to be invited to join the movement as its practicality and wisdom are demonstrated.
