The commonest fault in Diamonds after bad color is lack of brilliancy. This lack is due to improper cutting.

Improper cutting usually may be traced, not to lack of skill, but to an unwilling need to sacrifice a little weight. Improperly cut stones usually fall into two classes—those that are overthick and those that are overspread. An overthick or lumpy stone fails in brilliancy in the center. It is called "Sleepy." An overspread stone leaks light in the center. Such a one is referred to as a "Fish Eye." These are faults that should be avoided in selecting a diamond, since brilliancy is more to be desired than weight. As a matter of fact, a brilliant stone usually appears larger than a heavier stone of less brilliancy.

HOW OPPOSING TEAMS APPEAR TO SHAPE UP

PASADENA, Dec. 24.—Secret practice was started by the University of Oregon yesterday in preparation for the game with Harvard Jan. 1. The plays were kept secret even from many Oregonians.

PASADENA, Dec. 24.—Two hard training periods daily was the program begun Monday by the University of Oregon football squad in preparation for the contest with Harvard New Year's Day. The Harvard team is due here Friday, according to the present schedule.

When the Harvard football team lines up against the Oregon university team at Pasadena on New Year's Day it will be the first time in the history of the game that one of the "Big Three" has measured strength with a Pacific Coast gridiron outfit. The Carlisle Indians were the first eastern gridders to stage a contest in California, in 1899. In later years Michigan, Carlisle (for a second time), Syracuse, Brown and Pennsylvania followed the Indians' lead and journeyed across the continent to meet the football warriors of the far west. Of the eastern teams, Carlisle and Michigan won their games, Syracuse won two and tied one, and Brown and Pennsylvania were defeated. Oregon turned the "trick" against the Quakers in the only game in which Oregon has met an eastern team.

While it is admitted on the coast that Oregon hasn't as strong a team this season as it had in some previous years, notably in 1916, yet it is claimed that the Beavers are fully as strong as in 1917, when they shut out Penn. 14 to 0. Four of the stars in the 1917 outfit—Bill Steers, "Baz" Williams, Hollis Huntinton, and Ken Bartlett—are members of this year's team.

Of this quartette of stars, Bill Steers is rated as the greatest. This fleet-footed backfield man, who is counted on as one of the greatest all-round players ever developed in the west, is to Oregon what the great Eddie Casey is to Harvard. Steers, perhaps has never played against as brilliant a performer as Casey, and again it is possible that the Crimson star has never met the equal of the Oregon wonder.

Of the records made by the two teams this season that of Harvard is perhaps the better. The Crimson engaged in nine games, winning eight and tying one, and scored 222 points to their opponents' 13. Oregon's record shows the Beavers engaged in six games, five won and one lost, and scored 103 points to their opponents' 39.

But football dope has been hard hit this year by the numerous upsets suffered by supposedly strong teams, and it is not a sure bet that some thing of a sensation may be sprung in the Harvard-Oregon game. In any event, the contest is sure to be a big attraction for the Pasadena Rose Festival, and also a fine trip for the Cambridge warriors.
