

Lumber Organ Gives Space to Local Industry

fairs. J. J. Steiger looks after the logging and K. G. Cummings attends to timber matters. He was associated with Col. Johnson in the Johnson-Cummings Timber Co. The season's cut will be in the neighborhood of 25,000,000 feet, as usual. The box factory is one of the largest in this region and will use about 20,000,000 feet of lumber in making box shooks. Recently the Klamath Manufacturing Co., was sold to the Earle Fruit Co., of Sacramento, Calif., which purchased it to insure its many packing houses a supply of box shooks for the future. It is understood the business will go on, as in the past, without any change.

Building Up a Substantial Business

Eighteen miles north of Klamath Falls, on the Southern Pacific railroad's northern extension and also on the east shore of Upper Klamath Lake, is located the busy plant of the Lamm Lumber Co., in charge of which is W. E. Lamm, vice president and manager of the company. Mr. Lamm is one of the active enterprising millmen of the Klamath region and during the last four years, since he has begun operations at Modoc Point, Ore., where the mill is located, he has built up a substantial sawmill operation. The mill is equipped with a sine band, edger, trimmer and other modern machinery and turns out 55,999 feet of lumber daily in one 8-hour shift. In the yard, which is well laid out, four or five million feet of lumber is carried in pile. It is largely California white pine and of good quality.

During the last summer a new structure was built, housing the office and general store as well as a club for the men. The office is managed by Miss Ethel Lamm, a sister of W. E. Lamm. The mill began sawing this year on April 1 and will continue in operation until closed down by winter weather, probably late in December, after making a cut of about 10,000,000 feet. The Lamm Lumber Co., began operations at Modoc Point in the spring of 1910. E. C. Lamm, of Danville, Ill., who operates a retail lumber yard and planing mill there, is president of the Lamm Lumber Co. He is the father of Manager W. E. Lamm and Miss Ethel Lamm, secretary of the company.

About ten miles north of Klamath Falls on the east shore of the Upper Lake and also on the Southern Pacific at Algoma, Ore., is the lumber and box manufacturing plant of the Algoma Lumber Co., managed by Matt Egan, a veteran sawmill man. This is one of the large and growing mill concerns of the Klamath country. The sawmill is equipped with a band and a gang and cuts 120,000 feet in eight hours. Along in mid-summer a night crew was put on, running the band only at night, making the daily cut about 175,000 feet. This means that the output for the season will be in the neighborhood of 30,000,000 feet.

The factory has a capacity of 100,000 feet daily, but has been running this year day times only. It will continue running thru the winter months, while weather conditions usually close the sawmill down early in December. Mr. Egan is one of the old time sawmill operators and builders of the western country. He spent several years in the Puget Sound country in the '80s and has built and operated sawmills in various places of the west for the last forty years. The sales of the Algoma Lumber Co. are under the supervision of E. J. Grant at the company's Los Angeles office. Mr. Grant for several years directed the business at Algoma, but of late has spent most of his time in Los Angeles.

At Chiloquin, Ore., about forty miles north of Klamath Falls on the Southern Pacific Railroad are the sawmill plants of the Chiloquin Lumber Co. and the Modoc Lumber Co. At the head of the Chiloquin Lumber Co. is E. A. Blocklinger, of San Francisco, who also owns and operates the Dorris Lumber & Box Co. at Dorris Calif., between Klamath Falls and Weed, Calif.

THREE ALLEGED I. W. W. REFUSE TO ENTER PLEA.

TACOMA, Dec. 26.—Three alleged I. W. W. arraigned in the federal court Wednesday on charges of violating the sedition laws, refused to enter pleas today. Each stood mute and Judge Cushman entered pleas of not guilty for them and ordered the assistant district attorney to proceed with plans to try the cases January 13. The court took this action for the protection of the defendants in case they appeal their cases if convicted and decide to hire attorneys after the trial.

At the Theatres

Into the rural village for the setting, and into a woman's soul for the theme, David Wark Griffith has gone for the materials of his new Artcraft picture "True Heart Susie," which will be shown at the Star Theatre tonight.

He has chosen three characters, typical and definite in the domestic life of America, familiar to the residents in every small place and most large ones. One is that of a lovable, loyal girl, who has a chance to marry but one man, and when that man passes her by, ages her soul with tears, and wearies her days with waiting.

Another is a young man who goes to college, returns with comical conceit, the premier of swains, as serious to himself as the measles. And the third is a girl who considers marriage never a union of hearts but a necessary patronage, a wife of subsidy rather than of love.

With these persons, Mr. Griffith has arranged a story of wondrous charm, piquant in the delightful subtleties of character delineation, a warm, wholesome story of love won and love denied. He devotes his deep perception of the infinite varieties of each heart, to these three young persons, each whetted by nature to realize the fullness of life's experiences, yet each held from doing just what he or she should.

Lillian Gish appears as the girl who waits, a repressed role which absorbs the full power of her acting. Robert Harron, as the boy who becomes a minister, will remind the world of some it knows, and give to it a chuckle never forgotten. Clarine Seymour is introduced as a merry young milliner from Chicago.

A new adventure story, with intrigue and romance closely interwoven in the gripping plot, will be shown at the Liberty theatre today in the clever Metro production "Hitting the High Spots," with Bert Lytell as the star.

Following his usual course this young actor is again seen in a red-blooded drama which gives him great opportunity for his dramatic as well as athletic abilities.

The story takes the beholder to Mexico with the young engineer who has determined to save some American-owned oil wells from being confiscated by rebel Mexicans in a fierce and bloody revolution. He is met with treachery and disaster nearly
