TIMBER SUPPLY IN DANGER

Expert Points Out What Seems to Him Imperative Need of a National Forest Policy.

"One of the most interesting things to come to my knowledge is the seeming lack of interest on the part of the people of the United States to save our forests," said Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry association. "Our new growth of timber is not more than one-third of the amount being used or destroyed every year. There is an end to all things," continued Mr. Pack, "and the timbermen, lumbermen and wood-using industries must get together with the foresters on a national forest policy of some kind. We all know about locking the stable door after the horse is stolen, and we can all stand around and wonder what to do when the well runs dry, but what are we going to do when the forests give out? Place your finger on something into which the use of wood in the making does not enter. Rather hard for you to do it, I will say. The newspaper owner knows about the mounting cost of print paper and the cost of the barrel in which you find your flour has gone away up. You cannot eat the paper or the barrel, but they figure big in the high cost of living you hear so much about. We must have a national forest policy in this country, and that soon."

CHANGED FOR THE BETTER

Conditions, Especially in the Holy Land, Have Been Much Improved in Recent Years.

Whoever has journeyed to Cairo and from there desires to go on to Jerusalem may now buy his ticket in the Cairo railway station and look out of the windows of the train at the scenery of the plain of Sharon as he makes his trip. The rail connection has been completed by a new line from Ludd to Haifa, passing the ruins of Athlit, where the Templars long ago had their last stronghold in Palestine. The journey from Egypt to the Holy land is greatly simplified: one need no longer land at Jaffa, nor wonder how much one's plans will be interfered with by uncertain conditions of wind and sea. More than that, Jerusalem is a much less dubious place for the tourist to visit, and its points of interest may be much more conveniently inspected than they used to be. Good order is maintained, the city is under British discipline, the chance of "falling among thieves," more or less an accepted risk under the Turkish regime, need hardly be considered. One may visit the mosque of Omar without the undesired companionship of a Turkish soldier. A good deal of regret has been heard that "Europe would never be the same again" for tourists to look at, but in some respects at least it will be much changed for the better.

Embers.

Winter fuel is being gathered up wherever it may be found this autumn. In Paris the coal carts which all day lumber along the Avenue de Versailles on the edge of the Seine are followed by a troop of women and children armed with sacks and baskets. The road is worn, there are many holes, the jolts are frequent and bits of coal or coke come tumbling down. There is a rush and eager hands thrust the black treasure into grimy baskets and gaping sacks. The gleaners organize themselves into shifts—it's worth doing—they get as much as a sackful—one hundredweight—in one quarter of an hour. Thus Paris is taking in its coal—in good time. In London where all the streets, or nearly all, have been up this August and September there has been a harvest of half-worn tarred wood blocks—little heaps of them along the side of the road. No lack of customers either, and in areas and back yards tidy little stores of blocks have been put by for use in the coming winter.

Paternal Wisdom.

"Pa, what is an 'impresario'?"

"An impresario, my son, is—er—er—a man who runs a restaurant."

"But, pa, I thought he had something to do with a theater."

"That's right, my son. He's a man who runs a restaurant in connection with a theater."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Fashion's Power.

"Some of the most fashionable people are going to wear old clothes."

"That's terrible news," wailed the man with shiny sleeves.

"Why terrible?"

"If old clothes become fashionable they'll cost so much that nobody can afford to buy a second-hand suit."

Father's Punishment.

"Out' after hours again, eh?" said the father.

"Only ten minutes," replied the son.

"Well, go at once to your room, sir, lock yourself in, and bring me the key. This thoughtlessness must be checked."—London Tit-Bits.

GOT BOLSHEVIK LITERATURE IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Thomas Bukhanob, the 17-year-old self-confessed schoolboy anarchist now on Ellis Island awaiting deportation to Russia as a dangerous alien, who says he obtained his "education" in radicalism from books obtained at the New York Public Library, in an interview with a representative of The Associated Press, indicated that a real menace to American institutions rests upon many a free bookshelf.

"Some rich men have unwittingly aided the spread of revolutionary doctrines," he said, referring to the millions invested in libraries all over the English-speaking world. "I had no trouble in obtaining the radical books I desired, printed in Russian, from the 96th street and Lexington avenue branch of the New York Public Library."

The youth who, shortly after graduating from a New York public school, became the secretary of the Union of Russia Workers' Local, an anarchist organization in Brooklyn with a membership of 150 discussed with perfect frankness the causes which had led him to his impending banishment from the United States. The first step, he said, had been socialism, a theory favored by some of the teachers in his school. It was not radical enough, he said, and so he took up anarchy.

Psychological Study

Bukhanob would prove a study for the psychologist. He is more than ordinarily intelligent and quick-witted. A pair of light blue eyes peer from beneath a shock of very light brown hair and when he smiles he shows a fine set of well-kept teeth. Well-dressed and supplied with an abundance of cigarettes he expressed contentment with his lot and hoped he would soon be sent to Kronstad or Nijni-Novgorod, in Russia, where, he said, there were anarchistic communes. The necessity of leaving his mother and two sisters, one of whom is a student of Brooklyn high school, and none of whom share his views, caused him few regrets, he said, because, "one must be willing to sacrifice himself for a cause."

The prisoner came to the United States from Volhynia, in the Ukraine, or "Little Russia," with his mother in 1912 when ten years old. His father, a Russian mujik, is dead. For five years he attended a New York public school, graduating in 1917. He had been taught the usual branches including a knowledge of the United States constitution. He said he had no use for governments of any kind because they were all "dishonest." Upon leaving school Bukhanob obtained employment at what he said was fair wages. His home life, he declared, was happy.

"I was working in a machine shop for $21.60 a week and would have received a good raise," said Bukhanob laughingly as he discussed his plight. The boy's manner was earnest, almost eager, to answer questions. His parents, he said had been members of the Greek Catholic church but he had never been very religious. He could not understand, he said, if there was a God why there was so much evil in the world. "I slept last night," he went on, "with a lot of murderers, and robbers but I am able to take care of myself." Here Bukhanob recounted with some evidence of pride an experience he had had when he was chief monitor in school. Five or six boys attacked him. "I knocked out two of them," he chuckled, "and the others beat it."

Bukhanob said few of the boys and girls in school entertained the views he did. Most of them preferred to spend their leisure time at the movies. He liked history, philosophy, sociology and economics.

Read Tolstoy First

"My first book of this kind was one by Tolstoy, a mild, good man, but a dreamer, he offered no solution except Christianity and that I do not accept. Then I read, at other times, Kropotkin's 'Bread and Freedom,' Bakunin's 'God and the State,' Novinskiy's 'What is Anarchism?' Alexander Berkman's 'Prison Memoirs of an Anarchist,' and Max Stirner's 'The Individual and His Property.' They gave me my first desire to help emancipate the working class by educating it to realize its own interest. I also read the works of an Italian anarchist as well as Emma Goldman's 'Mother Earth.'"

The boy said he had no sympathy for Bolshevism because it represented a form of government or authority for both of which he professed contempt. He admitted, however, that a few weeks ago he participated in a parade of Russian radicals up Fifth avenue which was broken up by the police amid scenes of wild disorder. The paraders either refused to take out or did not possess a necessary police permit.

He Wants To Go.

When told that statistics showed that more than 183,000,000 Russians could neither read or write, Bukhanob said he wanted to go back to Russia, just the same, "to help them." He said he had no use for a government even though it protected his life and property, enabled him to earn a good living and to dwell in peace and comfort. He said a police or fire department, street cleaning system, water works, lighting system or any other public service would be acceptable to him if they all did not involve the exercise of "authority." And yet Bukhanob was reputed to have been an orderly boy in school.

E. H. Anderson, director of the New York Public Library, in a statement regarding Bukhanob's charges that he had obtained anarchistic literature from one of the library branches, said he had been unable to find the books Bukhanob mentioned listed in the catalogue. Certain works by Kropotkin and other similar writers, he said, printed in Russian, were undoubtedly on the shelves but they were not "incendiary or seditious" and were books of high literary value.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys after this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because, they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.
