SW 1/4 of SW 1/4, section 23. All of fractional section 25 except lots 1 and 9. W 1/2, SE 1/4, W 1/2 of NE 1/4, SE 1/4 of NE 1/4, section 26. Section 27. NE 1/4, NE 1/4 of NW 1/4, and lots 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8, section 28. Lot 8, section 29. N 1/2 of NE 1/4, SW 1/4 of NE 1/4, NW 1/4 of SE 1/4 of section 34. W 1/2 of NE 1/4, SE 1/4 of NE 1/4, E 1/2 of NW 1/4, S 1/2 of SW 1/4, and SE 1/4, section 35. N 1/2 of NE 1/4, and W 1/2, section 36, all in township 38 south of range 8, east of Willamette Meridian, Klamath County, Oregon. Also N 1/2 of NE 1/4, and SW 1/4 of NE 1/4, section 2, township 39 south of range 8 east of Willamette Meridian. Also an interest in a certain dike and the land on which same is located, described as follows: Beginning at the quarter section corner on the east line of section 7, township 38 south, range 8, east of Willamette Meridian, thence north 658 feet, thence west 2621 feet to a stone marked with a cross, which stone is the place of beginning; thence south 24 degrees west 100 feet; thence north 88 degrees west 1000 feet; thence north 24 degrees east 200 feet; thence south 86 degrees east 1000 feet; thence south 24 degrees west 100 feet to place of beginning, insofar as same pertains to the lands of Wocus Marsh, abutting on the south, as the same appears in a certain deed of conveyance executed by

Percy M. Collier, Executor of the estate of E. P. McCornack, deceased, to Ruth Stevenson Addison, this minor and others, on August 23, 1917, and recorded in Book 47 of Deeds, page 331, Klamath County, Oregon, all of said property being in said county and state.

That it is expedient and for the best interest of the estate of said minor that said interest in said real estate be sold, and that the same be disposed of at private sale. And the Court being fully advised in the premises,

It is hereby ordered that the next-of-kin of said minor, and all persons interested in said estate, appear before this court on the 7th day of February, 1920, at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the court room of this Court, at Klamath Falls, County of Klamath, State of Oregon, then and there to show cause, why an order should not be granted for the sale of said real property.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive and consecutive weeks, before the said day of hearing, in The Evening Herald, a daily newspaper of general circulation, printed and published at Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Dated this 7th day of January, 1920.

"IN THE DAY'S NEWS"

Among the potential candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination invited to address the party leaders at the Jackson Day banquet in Washington tonight, in conjunction with the meeting of the National Democratic Committee, is Oklahoma's senior senator, Robert L. Owen. While Senator Owen is not looked upon as an active candidate for the head of the national ticket his friends believe that he could muster many of the delegates from the South, and Southwest in his support. He is a Virginian by birth and a Washington and Lee University graduate. Oklahoma has been his home since territorial days. Since he entered the upper chamber of Congress, thirteen years ago, Senator Owen has been prominent for his intelligent interest in financial legislation and for his radical attitude of opposition toward traditions both of the national legislature and the national judiciary.

LAUGHED AT REAL HEROISM

Soldier Insists Authorities Conferred Decoration for Deed That Was Merely Second Rate.

He had come back with the croix de guerre, but he would not talk about how he won it. Of course his family and friends knew the formal citation, but they wanted him to tell them the details, and he modestly and persistently evaded them.

"I think it's simply silly," declared an irate cousin in her teens. "What's the use of ducking and dodging, and pretending you're not a hero, when you know perfectly well you are?"

The woman turned. "Yes, of course I know I am," he assented coolly. "The trouble is, they didn't give me my cross for the right thing. Do you expect a fellow to talk about his heroism when he gets a decoration for doing what lots of other fellows did who weren't lucky enough to be noticed, and then finds the bravest thing he ever did, or ever expects to do, treated lightly or ignored altogether? At least, I was a hero once. Before we were ordered abroad, I was invited to luncheon by my colonel's daughter. Now, you know I am a country boy from an inland state. It was the first luncheon I'd ever attended—and the first time I'd ever been served raw oysters. I hate shellfish, and when I saw those six, soft, slimy, silthery horrors set before me I nearly fainted. But I didn't know whether anything much was to follow or not; and I couldn't decline a main dish under the eye of my hostess. I shuddered with disgust. I wasn't sure they would go down; I feared they might come up. But—I ate those oysters, all six, and smiled as I ate them! She told me so two years afterward, when I confessed. Now, I call that true heroism. But it wasn't what I got the cross for."

"Maybe," said the saucy young thing in her teens, "it's that you're going to get the girl for."

"No," sighed the unappreciated hero, "she agrees with the rest of you and General Mangin. She only laughs at my real claim to glory!"—Youth's Companion.

CALLS FIREMEN TO RESCUE PET CAT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 7.—A fire truck rounded the corner on two wheels, ran up near a hundred foot tree here, and promptly erected its ladders up which a fireman sprang.

"Where's the fire?" asked an open-mouthed spectator.

"No fire," said the fireman: "Cat up the tree."

When the cat saw the fireman coming, it retreated to the swaying tip of a slender branch. Baffled, the fireman considered, then he went down, got a pole and returned. He gently poked the cat off the limb. It fell ninety feet into a life net held by eight brawny firemen. It on its feet, leaped to the ground, and with far erect and bristling tail it flew in a black fur streak. Then the firemen went home.

The cat had gone up the tree to evade a pursuing dog; when it got there it couldn't get back, and forty-eight hours later neighbors had called on the firemen for help.

SINGAPORE TO HAVE TAXIS

Fat Eastern City Will Abandon the Rickshaw, Long Used as Method of Transportation.

According to advices from Consul General Edwin N. Gonzales at Singapore, that city is to have an internal transportation system of thoroughly modern taxicabs.

Whether American automobile manufacturers will secure the order for these motors is problematical, but the most significant part of the news is that it marks a further development of the use of modern methods in the far East.

For several years in Singapore there has been a most consistent and vigorous agitation against the institution of the well-known rickshaws. Most of this agitation came from the tongue and pen of the educated Chinese, who maintain that the system of making a horse out of men is wrong from the standpoint of the degrading influence which it has on the individuals as well as the harm it is claimed to work upon the coolies.

Distances are great in most far Eastern cities, and while the rickshaw makes transportation reasonably convenient and comfortable, the rickshaw most certainly is a primitive vehicle and doomed to early abandonment because of the rapid advance now being made in the industrial and social life of the far East.

The new company to operate in Singapore is to be officially known as the Singapore Motor Taxicab and Transport company, Ltd., and will have capital of $350,000. The initial equipment will be made up of 40 landaulet taxicabs, five one-ton trucks and five three-quarter ton trucks. Singapore has a population of 300,000.

NEW SOURCE OF TURPENTINE

Tree in Central India to Be Looked To for Supply of Really Good Quality.

Turpentine oil and resin are already being produced on a commercial scale in India by the distillation of pine rosin. A new source of supply which, though comparatively small, may be valuable, especially for Indian use, has now been found in frankincense or oilbanum. This material is obtained by the natives by making incisions in the stems of Boswellia serrata, a tree widely distributed throughout the dry zone forests of Central India. The resinous substance which exudes from the cuts contains a kind of turpentine, a rosin and a gum.

Investigations of the methods of separating these constituents in a marketable form have been conducted since 1912 by the forest authorities in India in co-operation with the Imperial institute, and the results have been published recently in a paper by R. S. Pearson, forest economist, and Purn Singh, chemical adviser, at the Forest Research Institute, Dehra Dun. The general conclusion reached, based on the results of numerous trials, is that the turpentine oil is equal to good quality American turpentine oil.

Abyssinian Likes American Styles.

"I would like to see Abyssinian women dress like American women," is a remark credited to Prince Nadok, the head of the Abyssinian mission in this country. This may be merely a bit of oriental flattery or it may be an indication of the prince's bravery. It should be remembered, first, that the sovereign of Abyssinia is a woman, and a descendant of the queen whose elegance and beauty of costume dazzled King Solomon's court, and in the next place that in Abyssinia style does not change more than once every thousand years, and that for that length of time the life of a man is free from all pecuniary worries incident to changing fashions and new dresses. Without any intention of forecasting trouble for the prince, it might be suggested that if this story should precede him he will have some explanations to make either to the queen or to the husbands and fathers of Abyssinia.

For a wager of one thousand francs a French cabman recently undertook to smoke a hundred strong cigars in two days. In the first twenty-four hours he had disposed of sixty-six; and, after a two hours' rest, continued his task with such vigor that by noon of the following day the stump of his last cigar was burning his lips.
